One Says Wolf Gave Him His Start.

Two market speculators came forward yesterday with what purported to be full accounts of their dealings with Walter E. Wolf, the employé who embezzled $2,000,000 in securities from the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company. One regards Wolf as a cunning rogue. In the eyes of the other he was a philanthropist.

The harsher attitude was taken by David D. Weiss, one time tailor and now a professional grain trader, who in the last three years placed about $1,000,000 of the bank clerk's purloined securities on margin in market deals. "I acted in good faith; Wolf was just a crook who betrayed a pal," said Weiss.

Views Wolf as Philanthropist.

A kindlier view was that of A. E. Bauermeister, 47 year old distillery agent and amateur speculator, whose financial transactions with Wolf cost him his life savings. The distillery agent declared that Wolf had played the thief in a vain effort to help win a fortune for him—Bauermeister.

Both men discussed their cases in the presence of Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, whom Weiss had retained as his attorney and who accepted the penniless Bauermeister's case as a matter of charity. The lawyer sponsored the newspaper interviews because, he said, "there is nothing to hide."

Weiss Tells His Story.

Weiss, a nervous and amiable little man of 45, was the first to be interviewed. At the outset he declared that in all his brokerage operations for the defaulting bank clerk he had "never made a nickel in commissions." Wolf's accounts, he said, were handled through Farrell Brothers, Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co., and other houses, which he declined to name.

"We were close friends for many years," Weiss explained. "I knew his father long ago when the Wolfs owned a dairy company. I knew the whole family. When Wally Wolf asked me to open an account for him three years ago just before the big crash I was glad to help him—as a matter of friendship. He said he represented a syndicate."

Lists Presumed Syndicate.

Weiss counted off on one hand the men he presumed to constitute the syndicate—Wolf himself, the presumed heir to his father's dairy; his brother, Harry, secretary of A. Bishop & Co., loop furriers; another brother, William, an official of the Paper Mills company, and a brother-in-law, Albert Klein, former president of a suburban bank.

"I tell you it was a blow to learn he was a thief," Weiss declared. "I had never suspected him. He was my pal. In the market a pal's word is as good as a cash bond. I trusted Wolf—believed him a straight going fellow with a future. I never thought he would betray my trust."

The Story of Bauermeister.

Bauermeister, an agent for the Hiscox Distillery company, who sells a line of whiskies to the druggist trade, said his relations with Wolf began about the same time as Weiss' had. Until the bank clerk's financial crash brought them together, the broker and the liquor salesman were unacquainted and neither was aware of the other's connection with Wolf.

"It was a terrible shock," said Bauermeister, passing his hand over his forehead. "I can hardly believe it yet. Walter Wolf, who was so kind to me, a thief. I don't want to talk about it much. All I can say is that I will try to borrow from my friends to make up what the bank lost through the securities Wolf gave me."

The bank clerk's sponsorship of Bauermeister's market tradings was a gesture of pure generosity as Bauermeister told it. It was during the summer market boom of 1928. Old schoolmates, they used to meet frequently at lunch downtown and one day Wolf suggested he was in a position to make Bauermeister a fortune through speculation.

Wolf Promises Collateral.

"I told him I would appreciate his market tips but that I had nothing to put up for collateral," Bauermeister said. "He replied that was all right, that he would provide the collateral and the tips and I could make the profit. He gave me some $5,000 in United States treasury notes for a starter."

Bauermeister said he opened two accounts, one with Charles Sincere & Co. and the other with Babcock, Rush-

MIKE BOYLE'S ALLY IS FOUND SLAIN IN DITCH

Hunt for Clews in Labor Disputes.

Authorities investigating the murder of Mortimer T. Enright, chief electrician for the board of education, said they suspected yesterday that insurgents within the powerful local union No. 134 of the electrical workers were responsible. This local has more than 7,000 members.

MICHAEL BOYLE.

Enright, whose body was found early yesterday in a ditch on the York road, near Hinsdale, with five bullet holes in his head, was last seen alive as he left a meeting of his union on Thursday night. Enright had been clubbed before he was shot.

Enright was taken for a ride with a view of intimidating his close friend and fellow officer, Michael J. Boyle, business agent of the union, in the opinion of Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Dufficy of the prosecutor's racket division.

Another Theory on Murder.

Another theory connected the slaying with the fact that Enright was a witness in the grand jury investigation of the Motion Picture Operators' union a month ago. Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury said this factor was being investigated. Enright, it is reported, testified about a certain person who accepted a bribe to procure an operator's license for an applicant not qualified.

Members of the board of education expressed an interest in the mystery. Large electrical contracts in school construction may have involved graft and this situation may afford a clue to the killing.

Although investigation of the slaying is expected to be handled almost exclusively by Du Page county authorities, where the murder occurred, Mr. Dufficy went to Hinsdale to assist in the inquiry because of his familiarity with the turbulent affairs of the electrical union, of which there are three locals in Chicago.

Motive Within the Union.

"I suspect that the motive for the killing came from within the union," said Mr. Dufficy. "Boyle and Enright were stanch friends, Enright being secretary of the local's executive committee."

Mr. Dufficy said that several weeks ago he was called upon by members of the local to assign police to guard the next meeting and told that at the last meeting a knock down and drag out fight had occurred, several members having been slugged. The police were sent as requested and no trouble was reported.

Another theory advanced for the slaying was a possible dispute over the operations of the electrical survey bureau, which supplies estimates for contractors for a consideration and which is said to be controlled by Boyle's union.

"Terms on Jobs Dictated."

For several years this survey bureau, according to Mr. Dufficy, dictated to contractors the terms of bids which should be made on electrical jobs. Ostensibly a percentage of the cost of each contract up to 5 per cent, was turned over to the electrical union, but actually, the difference between the fair price and that demanded would range from 20 to 50 per cent, and this would be split between the contractor and the estimating bureau, according to Mr. Dufficy.

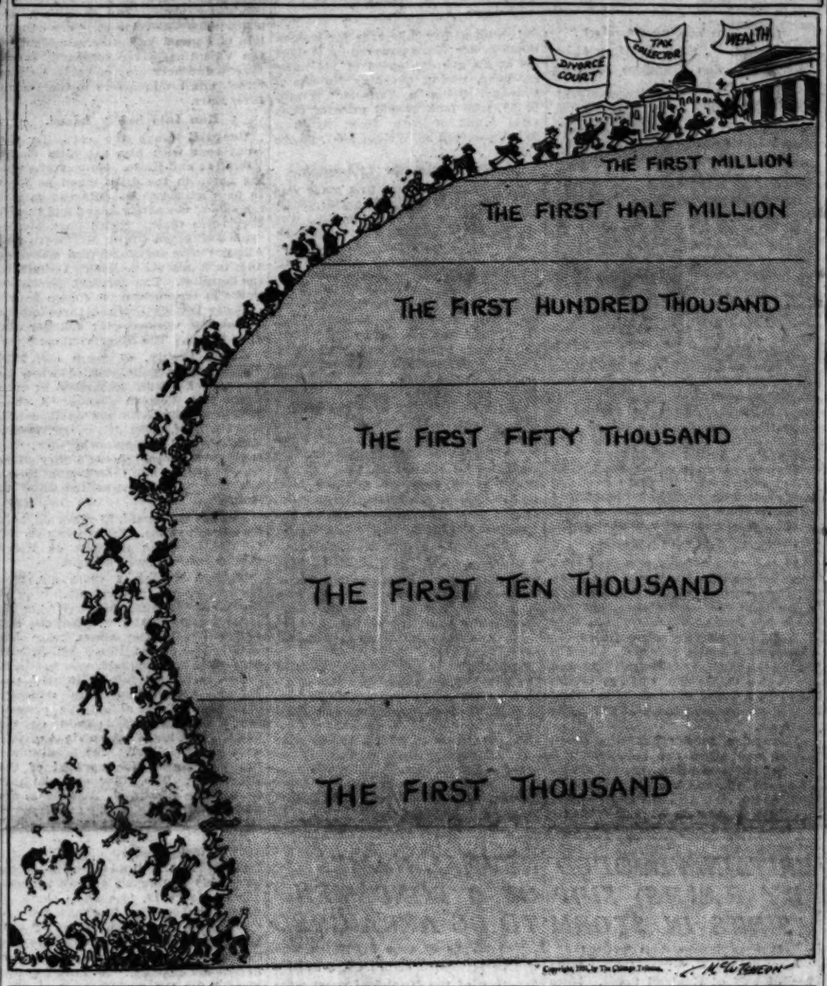

"Contractors were forced to accept the terms of the survey bureau," said the prosecutor, "or accept the consequences, which would mean the ruin of their business. However, I understand that the bureau is no longer enforcing its estimates upon the contractors. I have had no complaints within the statute of limitations, which is 18 months for conspiracy to enforce labor prices."

The bureau also was said to have maintained an "approved" list of electrical contractors for board of education work.

THE ROAD TO WEALTH

MOUNTED COP IN WILD WEST RIDE GETS HIS MAN

Lou Forman, 27 years old, who gives his address as 2030 Broadway, New York City, was arrested by Mounted Policeman William Kent in a thrilling wild-west chase through downtown rush hour crowds last evening.

Forman, a dealer in second-hand watches, which he sells throughout the country, left his hotel room yesterday carrying $1,749 with which to purchase a supply. He stopped in a State street department store where he snatched a sweater valued at $12 from a counter. Clerks started after him, and Forman, dropping the sweater, fled.

He turned east in Madison street. At Wabash avenue Mounted Policeman Kent took up the chase. At Michigan avenue and Washington street Forman dodged behind an automobile.

Here occurred the wild west act. Kent bent low on his horse's neck, and the animal leaped over the hood of a standing automobile, landing a foot away from Forman. Kent reached down while his mount was still in action, and with the skill of a rodeo rider, grabbed Forman by the collar.

The prisoner was taken to the station. There he unrolled his $1,749 in bills. He was asked why, with that amount of money, he stooped to petty thievery. "I don't know," he replied. "It was an impulse."

Township Won't Help Poor Who Own Autos or Dogs

Persons who possess dogs or automobiles may be impoverished, but they aren't poor enough to deserve help from Cedar Creek township, fifteen miles south of Hammond, Ind., Township Trustee H. O. Burnham announced yesterday as he tacked up notices to that effect on posts about the countryside. The notices read: "Poor people who own dogs or automobiles can't expect help. Township will not furnish gas for autos or feed for dogs. One dog's feed will feed a child."

Scotch Distillers to Cut Manufacture of Whisky

ELGIN, Scotland, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Pot Still Malt Distillers' association of Scotland decided today to recommend further drastic reduction in the manufacture of Scotch malt whisky during the coming season. Excessive duties, it is said, are strangling the distilling industry. As a result of the distillers' resolution it is expected the distilling business will be almost at a standstill.

Create Court to Battle Rise in Auto Deaths

The rising tide of deaths in automobile accidents prompted Mayor Cermak and Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court to take action yesterday.

Judge Sonsteby announced that a new court, which will handle all traffic violation cases in the city limits, including those brought to trial by the various park police, will be opened next Tuesday in room 800 in the Municipal building at 1121 South State street.

The deaths in Cook county to date this year exceed 800.

Many Work on Plan.

The plan for the court was worked out by representatives of the Municipal court, the mayor, the police department, the park commissions, the motor clubs, the Association of Commerce and the safety commission. One purpose is to keep records of all automobile arrests. Three benefits are expected:

1. Drivers who repeatedly violate the laws can be discovered and kept off the streets.

2. All drivers who receive tickets will be forced to come into court.

3. The percentage of tickets which are "fixed" by police of other officials will be cut down.

Judge Sonsteby declared that an experienced judge, probably Frank M. Padden, would be placed in charge of the court.

Expects Cut in Accidents.

"I expect that within a very short time the strict and impartial enforcement of these laws will bring a marked reduction in the accidents from which we have been suffering," said the chief justice.

It was pointed out that, with all speed cases concentrated in one court, fixing of tickets will be more easily controlled than it is now, with speed cases being heard in a number of courts.

Mayor Cermak called upon all officials and political workers to support the drive by refusing to use influence to help motorists involved in accidents, or to protect speeders or other traffic violators.

Deaths Must Stop.

"The loss of life in Chicago and Cook county due to automobile accidents has got to be stopped," he said. "I call on all citizens to help. Two years from now Chicago will entertain a million visitors and we want our streets to be as safe as possible."

Both the mayor and Judge Sonsteby declared that any police or court officials who try to fix traffic cases will be dealt with summarily.

IOWANS MOVE TO FIX PRICE OF CORN AT 60 CENTS

Newton, Ia., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Applauding the fight for increased oil prices by Gov. Murray of Oklahoma, 1,000 Iowa farmers and business men here tonight inaugurated a campaign for higher corn prices.

The aid of Gov. Dan Turner will be sought in a meeting with the governor next Friday afternoon. A resolution was passed to ask that the governor recommend that the price of corn be set at 60 cents per bushel Sept. 11, the day of the interview.

School Finds the Teachers Still Unpaid

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The public schools open next Tuesday morning and many teachers are inquiring: "When will we get some money?"

Except for scrip, the substitute teachers have not been paid for April, May, and June. The regular teachers have not been paid for May and June. The summer school teachers have not been paid for July and August.

The janitors, engineers, and window washers have received only half a month's pay since April 15. Other civil service employés of the school board are in the same position as the janitors and engineers.

The total that was due on Sept. 1 from the board of education to its employés was $11,685,011, as follows:

Groups—	Amounts.
Regular day teachers	$ 7,999,016.71
Substitute teachers	331,129.53
Summer school teachers	466,363.62
Parental school teachers	149,180.28
Playground instructors	159,322.42
Janitors and engineers	1,768,075.67
Civil service employés	1,812,903.40
Total	$11,685,071.73

The board has no money on hand or in sight with which to pay salaries for September.

School Board Not Ready.

The school board in a letter to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission stated that it had a plan for getting out of its financial difficulties. But when called upon to present the plan to the commisison last Thursday evening the school trustees were not ready. The trustees have been given another invitation to appear before the commission on Sept. 17.

If the board evolves a workable plan acceptable to the state legislature it appears improbable that the legislation could be passed by a special session before the latter part of October.

In lieu of cash the board continues to offer its employés participation certificates in a trust composed of $10,000,000 worth of 1931 tax anticipation certificates which the board has been unable to sell.

Many Ask for Scrip.

Many of the teachers evidently are hard pressed for cash. That has been made apparent by the number who recently have applied for scrip. For the five days of this week the number of teachers applying has varied from 230 to 292 a day.

At first the teachers refused the scrip on the advice of their union leaders, but so far they have taken $1,378,000 worth of it. Other employés have accepted $1,725,000 and contractors on school repairs and new construction have taken $2,252,000. This is an aggregate of $5,355,000 in scrip issued so far.

Other employés to whom the school board owes an aggregate of $3,582,000 in wages and salaries have so far declined the scrip.

Throng Board's Offices.

The board's offices were thronged with employés yesterday who were inquiring where and how they could dispose of the scrip if they accepted it. All were referred to the posted list of stores which will take the scrip in payment for bills.

"But where can I get money to pay the college tuition of my two children," asked one teacher. "Who will advance me money on scrip for that purpose?"

It was estimated yesterday that the school board owes $2,250,000 to contractors, supply concerns, textbook dealers, and other creditors who have not accepted the scrip.

Wait on 1931 Taxes.

Some of these, as well as a few teachers, asked yesterday afternoon when the board will get the cash to redeem the participation certificates. The answer was when the 1931 taxes are collected. These taxes are supposed to be collected during October and November of next year.

ASK FOR $2,891,881

Application for $2,891,881 as the share of the Chicago schools in the $10,000,000 state distributive school fund was made yesterday by Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan. The application goes to Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, who makes up the budget for Cook county. Money due from this source may not be available for some time, however, Supt. Tobin said, on account of the condition of tax collections.

Boasts He's Prospering; Gets Six Months in Jail

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—A boast that he was "making enough money off the farmers to live all winter," overheard by Sheriff Walter Steimel of Leelanau county, resulted in a six months liquor law sentence for Albert Corbett, former state trooper and one time city patrolman in Flint and Saginaw. Judge Parm Gilbert, sitting at Suttons Bay, sent him to Jackson prison today, and his partner, George Stiblitz, to Grand Rapids for the same period.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Wiry little Jimmy Doolittle, who belies his name if ever a man does, wasn't content to establish a new coast to coast speed record of 11 hours and 15 minutes today. After making this astounding record, diving over the finish line here to collect the first prize in the Bendix trophy race from Burbank, Cal., he refueled at Newark airport and sped back to Cleveland in order to fly with Jimmy Haizlip to St. Louis tonight.

Doolittle was only a passenger on this last jump. He arrived in St. Louis at 9:22 this evening.

Arriving in St. Louis, Doolittle said he would come back to Cleveland tomorrow, piloting a number of oil company officials. Then he will do some flying in the races.

Back to Cleveland; Then St. Louis.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, as he is known in the army air corps, from which he resigned not so long ago, slipped on to the Cleveland municipal airport almost unnoticed at dusk, at 6:42 p. m. to be exact, and ran his small Laird racing plane into the hangar, where a geared propeller will be installed and shock absorbers removed in preparation for his flying in the Thompson trophy race, high speed classic for land planes, on Labor day. Matty Laird, builder of the plane, also may install a new engine.

As the first batch of reporters and race officials rushed in to congratulate him, Doolittle, almost deaf from the steady roar of the motor of his plane, met them with the remark he had to leave with Haizlip for St. Louis immediately, so he and Haizlip could bring a group of oil company officials to the national air races tomorrow morning in the Lockheed and a Bellanca owned by the company.

Makes a Day of It.

"Now I've gotten this far, I might as well make a day of it," he remarked to objectors. Some one reminded him he'd have to see the assembled newspapermen, and he replied, "O, yes, we'll have to go in for the misquotation."

The only tail wind Doolittle had to help him along his record breaking flight was for a couple of hundred miles just before he reached Cleveland, he said, and he had head winds of varying intensity all the rest of the way.

Mrs. Doolittle—called Jo by her intimate friends—rushed in. Jimmy kissed her quickly, and said, "Hello, mama."

Shows Strain But Slightly.

The tireless flyer didn't look quite so tireless under the bright lights, but now and then his face lit up in a happy smile and all signs of weariness disappeared. He has a bruise under his left eye, where the stream lined cowling of his plane struck when an overanxious attendant at the Kansas City airport pulled it off into his face.

"I made only two stops, at Albuquerque, N. M., and Kansas City, Mo., and they were of about ten minutes," he said. "I got the fastest service in Albuquerque."

Haizlip walked into the hangar.

"Let's get ready and take off for St. Louis in about half an hour, what do you say?" Doolittle asked him. "You'll have to do all the flying, old man, and I'll take it easy."

Haizlip agreed and ordered the Lockheed gassed up for the flight.

Doolittle, his wife and son were rushed to the speaker's stand at the grandstand. There the flyer was described as the best ever produced by the army air corps and the much repeated story of his flying the Andes mountains in South America with both legs broken and in plaster casts—so helpless he had to be lifted in and out of the cockpit—was told again.

Back to His Hay Fever.

"I'm very happy but terribly disappointed because Jimmy insists on flying away to St. Louis immediately," Mrs. Doolittle said.

"It was a very interesting race," Doolittle said over a national radio hookup. "We waited four days for the weather to clear. Then we finally took off before dawn in order to beat the fog that rolls in every morning. The main thing that interested me in this race was the little motor I used—it was 'suped' to 530 horsepower and performed marvelously. The four days I spent in California I didn't have hay fever, but here I am back east and I have it again."

Doolittle referred to the Wasp Junior motor similar to that which Lowell Bayles used to set unofficial records during the meet.

Doolittle's highest ground speed during the race was 240 miles an hour, with the engine at 2,200 revolutions, while the maximum is 2,400 revolutions. The only storm he had to go through was just after leaving Cleveland, but it was never so bad he had to fly blind, or with the earth entirely obscured by clouds.

Gets $10,000 for Day.

This one day's racing has netted exactly $10,000 for Doolittle—$7,500 for winning first place in the Bendix trophy and $2,500 for breaking Capt. Frank Hawks' transcontinental record. He broke the record of 12 hours 25 minutes and 3 seconds by one hour and ten minutes. He flew an estimated distance of 2,862 miles from coast to coast and back to Cleveland and as a passenger to St. Louis was to add another 750 miles.

Doolittle and Haizlip took off for St. Louis in the Shell Lockheed at 7:40 o'clock, Haizlip at the controls and Doolittle in the cabin, relaxed and planning to sleep all the way. As to food, Doolittle didn't remember eating any—some one handed him a sandwich and a pear in Albuquerque, but he threw away the sandwich and ate half of the pear. Haizlip gave him a few swallows of milk here when he refueled on the way east and he took with him a sandwich later found intact on the floor of his cockpit.

Reconsiders Retirement.

Just two months ago Doolittle had a very narrow escape at East St. Louis, Ill., testing a revamped Travel-air mystery plane he had rebuilt to enter in the national air races. The accident, in which he escaped only by superb pilotage, using his parachute to descend when the ailerons of his plane vibrated and fell off at high speed, caused him to announce his retirement from high speed racing at the request of his wife. However, about $6,000 of Doolittle's own money was lost in the crackup, and he changed his wife's mind to enter the Bendix and Thompson trophy races in an attempt to recoup his personal fortunes.

The plane Doolittle flew on his transcontinental dash was built in Chicago by Matty Laird, builder of high speed planes, and is called the Laird Speedwing. Solution. The motor, a Wasp Junior, is a product of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft corporation, and, although it has a smaller frontal area than other powerful motors, has been supercharged to 10 to 1 and 6 to 1 ratios on the blower and compression, giving it about 530 horsepower. The plane is a biplane, and is completely streamlined.

Keeps Speed to Last.

On his return to Cleveland from New York, Doolittle didn't relax but held his plane at the same breakneck speed. His official time from Cleveland to Newark airport was 1 hour and 53 minutes and his return trip was made in exactly the same time, less several seconds.

Doolittle's average time from Burbank to Cleveland was 223 miles an hour, about 3.7 miles a minute, almost 25 miles an hour faster than his nearest competitor.

Gives Up Chase of Doolittle.

Johnson, the entry of Continental Air Ways, Inc., landed his plane and asked immediately if Doolittel was in.

Informed Doolittle preceded him on to New York, he said, "Well, I'm glad of that." Johnson's motor was spitting fire and he decided not to continue after Doolittle to New York. He rushed off to bed, 'worn out' not so much by the flight as by the nervous tension of four days of delaying the start.

Beeler Blevins of Atlanta, Ga., flew across the finish line for third prize in a Lockheed Orion at 3:24 o'clock, forty minutes after Johnson's arrival, with an elapsed time of 10 hours 49 minutes, at an average speed of 189 miles an hour.

Capt. Ira Eaker of Washington, D. C., crossed the finish line in a Lockheed Altair at 3:25 o'clock, one minute later, with an elapsed time of 10 hours 59 minutes and an average speed of 186 miles an hour. Capt. Eaker lost $3,000 by ten minutes in time.

Art Goebel, flying a Lockheed Vega, crossed the line at 4:41 o'clock, 1 hour and 16 minutes after Capt. Eaker, with an elapsed time of 11 hours 55 minutes and an average speed of 171.5 miles an hour. He was fifth.

RECORDS FALL

Newark, N. J., Set. 4.—[Special.]—Maj. James H. (Jimmie) Doolittle crossed the United States from coast to coast today in 11 hours and 15 minutes, clipped 1 hour, 10 minutes and 3 seconds from the existing record of Frank M. Hawks, broke all records en route, and won the premier air Derby of the 1931 national air races as an incident of his meteoric trip.

It was Doolittle's debut in transcontinental racing and that of his secretly built plane. The diminutive pilot, who was one of the first of America's racing aces in the 1923 Pulitzer trophy, stepped out of his tiny, soot stained ship at the Newark Metropolitan airport, drew himself to his full height of five feet four and issued peremptory orders for a hurried refueling. A few moments later he darted into the air again and headed west for Cleveland to collect his $7,500 first prize for the Derby, his additional $2,500 for breaking Hawks' mark, and to rest for the forthcoming Thompson trophy race scheduled for Labor day.

Crowds Four Miles a Minute.

Doolittle pushed the swift Laird biplane through from California to Newark averaging just short of four miles a minute for the entire trip, including three stops for fuel. His fastest leg was between Kansas City, Mo., and Cleveland, where he averaged 240 miles an hour.

So fast was the clip at which the small pilot plunged along that, piercing several thunderstorms between Cleveland and Newark, raindrops ate away all of the protective covering on the leading edges of both wings and linen and "dope" had to be applied at the end of the run before he returned to Cleveland. Several other parts of the cowling and fairing of the new plane suffered breaks and tears from the terrific wind of the fast flight and were patched hurriedly by mechanics.

To win the air race to Cleveland, Doolittle flew 2,044 miles. The airplane distance from Cleveland to Newark is 405 miles and he covered that distance in one hour and fifty minutes.

Doolittle set his bulletlike yellow plane down on the mud soaked field at Cleveland 9 hours, 10 minutes and 21.2 seconds after taking off from Burbank. He was off again in less than 15 minutes after his ship had been refueled.

Spanning the United States in 11 Hours 15 Minutes

The map shows the route of Maj. James Doolittle in his record breaking flight, with the time he left Burbank and the times of his arrivals at other paces at which he stopped. His route and his time are compared with that of Capt. Frank Hawks, who made the best previous record. The map also shows the return flight of Doolittle to Cleveland and his hop to St. Louis.

ZEPPELIN CROSSES EQUATOR; HEADS FOR CAPE VERDE ISLANDS

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 5 [Saturday].—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, communicating with the Zeppelin works at 12:20 a. m. today, gave her position as 7:20 degrees north latitude, 28.50 degrees west longitude. The position is well above the equator and more than half the distance from Pernambuco, Brazil, which the Graf left yesterday, to the Cape Verde islands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Ray Moore, San Francisco flyer, an entrant in the Thompson Trophy race today, announced he would make an attempt to tear the wings from a mystery ship of special design, which is expected to make a speed of 290 miles an hour, faster than any land plane has been recorded as traveling.

RAY MOORE.

Moore is to test his ship at 3,000 feet, announcing that if there is to be structural failures he prefers to have them come during a test at that height rather than a few feet from the ground during the race.

Moore's plane, a taper wing craft with retractable landing gear, is equipped with a 295 horsepower 6 cylinder motor built largely of magnesium reinforced with steel.

Too Speedy for Livingston.

Flying in a race for planes with more power than his motor had, John H. Livingston of Aurora, Ill., put up a game fight for second place, but lost by a few feet at the last pylon, only to regain it officially when George L. Harte, who nosed him out, was disqualified. The fifty mile dash was won by James G. Haizlip, Chicago racing pilot, in a Laird powered by a Wasp Jr., at an average speed of 137 miles an hour.

Livingston so far has won seven events and taken two seconds for a total of $3,760 in prizes. A. W. Killips of Lyons, Ill., and Vernon Roberts of Moline, Ill., took fifth and sixth places.

Another Prize for Livingston.

Livingston's seventh first place was in a dead stick landing contest, while Harold Newman of Moline, Ill., won the contest for planes without brakes.

Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics F. Trubee Davison arrived at the races this afternoon during the army air corps program of tactical maneuvers. He landed in an army tri-motor from Mitchel field, N. Y. He was greeted by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Danforth and Maj. G. H. Brett, commanding the detachment from Selfridge field, Mich., which is flying daily at the races.

Bad air conditions near the ground this morning caused the injury of two parachute jumpers in a contest. John F. Wickham of Cincinnati broke his right leg in landing in front of the grand stand and two minutes later Buddy Rhodes of Little Rock, Ark., landed in a mud puddle, slipped and sprained his back.

Sportsman Flyers at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Four men and eight women—aristocrats of the air who fly merely for fun—arrived here today from Syracuse, completing the third leg of the first annual American handicap Derby for amateur flyers.

The Derby is under supervision of the United States Amateur Pilots' association, and the contestants include John S. Reeves, president, and Lawrence Turnure, Miss Jessamine Goddard, Granville B. Smith, Laura Morgan, D. Vernon Shaw Kennedy, Miss Manilla David, Mrs. B. Allison Gillies, John W. Lasell, James Eblen, Allen Eustes, A. W. Steet, and Robert Buck.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Torrential rains flooded half of England today. More than three inches of rain fell in 24 hours. Yorkshire, northwest areas of the Midlands, and other parts of the country were flooded. Rail service was stopped in the Sheffield area, where towns were marooned when rivers burst their banks.

A thrilling sea drama was witnessed by hundreds of holiday makers on the Cornish coast when the Glasgow steamer Opal was thrown upon its beam ends by huge seas. The ship sank. Three lifeboats put out, but were helpless in the gale. A coasting steamer picked up nine survivors. The captain and the chief engineer were drowned.

Residents of the low lying sections of Dublin fled today when the heavy rains sent rivers out of their banks.

REVEAL NAMES OF 9 BONDSMEN TO BE ARRAIGNED

The names of nine bondsmen who will be arraigned before Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court were revealed yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys Julius Skrydlewski and Justus Mozart. The hearing is scheduled for Sept. 29.

Charges of evading the new bond laws have been placed against all the men, the prosecutors said, but only seven caplases have been served thus far. If the men are found guilty they will be subject to fines ranging between $100 and $500.

2 DIE, 4 HURT AS AUTO UPSETS ON OUTER DRIVE

Hits Safety Island in Passing Another Car.

Two persons were killed and four others were injured last night when their automobile, containing three of them in the driver's seat, sideswiped a safety island in the outer drive at 36th street and overturned.

Those killed were Miss Grace Valentine, 22 years old, 1215 Sinnott place, and Anthony Rizzo, 24 years old, 458 North Morgan street. The injured are Miss Mary and Miss Adeline Valentine, younger sisters of Grace; Miss Mildred Carnevale, 23 years old, 1224 West Grand avenue, and Thomas Genualdi, 36 years old, 626 Hobble street. They were taken to the Michael Reese hospital, where their conditions were found to be not serious. The Valentine girls are daughters of Samuel Valentine, president of the Valentine-Seaver company, furniture manufacturers of 4127 George street, and headquarters in the Furniture Mart.

Run Into Safety Island.

Genualdi drove the car. In the front seat with him sat Miss Grace Valentine and Rizzo. He was proceeding north in the drive when he tried to pass another car. His car caught the side of the safety island and turned over three times. South Park Motorcycle Policemen Frank McGovern and Albert Fuchs commandeered machines and took all six accident victims to the hospital. The accident blockaded traffic in the outer drive for an hour.

These two deaths and three others raised the Cook county toll for the year to 808. The other victims:

James Prouty, 44 years old, 2128 Washburne avenue. Killed when he was struck by an automobile at 95th street and Western avenue. A companion walking with him was brushed, but not hurt. The driver, Dr. Henry Higgins, 6734 Champlain avenue, was exonerated by a coroner's jury after he testified he had been unable to see the men until he was too close to stop.

Thomas McDonald, 23 years old, 2076 Greenleaf avenue. Killed when struck by a hit-and-run motorist on Ridge avenue near Farwell avenue.

Marilyn Kresge, 3 years old, 3330 Grand boulevard, Brookfield. Died at the West Suburban hospital from injuries sustained Aug. 31 when she was run down in the street near her home. The driver, Harry Wilks, 3812 Elm avenue, Brookfield, was not held.

One man was fatally injured and his two companions were seriously hurt when their automobile crashed into a moving freight train on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern right of way west of Lake Bluff. The fatality victim was Harry Sobieczewski of Cudahy, Wis. The other men, both in St. Therese's hospital, Waukegan, are Claude Smith of Cudahy and Haswell Betz of Buchanan.

Gerald H. Sherman, 21 years old, 5131 Gladys avenue, was killed late last night in a head-on collision between his motorcycle and an automobile on route 12, two miles south of Lake Geneva, Wis. The driver of the automobile was Jacob Siegal of 4901 Whipple street. Sherman's brother, Charles, 19, on another motorcycle, witnessed the accident. A dense fog was blamed for the accident.

Mrs. Lester Axelson, 1823 North Linder avenue, was killed yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Dixon, Ill. She was standing in the street waiting for a street car when the accident occurred.

15 MILLION BU. OF FARM BOARD WHEAT TO CHINA

Will Buy U. S. Product for Flood Relief.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—The Chinese government has accepted the terms of the federal farm board's offer to sell approximately fifteen million bushels of stabilization wheat, to be used for relief in the Chinese flood areas, it was announced today.

Indicative of the administration's interest in the farm board was the fact that the announcement came from President Hoover. Comment was caused by the fact that only a few minutes prior to the statement at the White House farm board officials said that there was nothing to announce.

The wheat to be sold is worth slightly under $7,000,000 at current prices, and its sale will represent a loss to the board of at least $5,000,000. The Chinese government will pay for it in 4 per cent treasury notes, which will be redeemed, one-third at a time, in 1934, 1935, and 1936.

First Shipment Oct. 1.

The volume involved is 450,000 tons, all in Pacific northwest soft white wheat. It will be shipped in lots of 50,000 tons, the first shipment taking place before Oct. 1. Half the amount will be milled in the United States and shipped as flour. The wheat is now in storage on the Pacific coast and is of a type that is normally exported.

"The Chinese government undertakes the transportation," said President Hoover's statement, "and it has given assurances that it will give equal opportunity to the American flag in the charters made for this purpose."

Outbid U. S. Ships.

In the recent barter of wheat for coffee with Brazil the farm board neglected to insist on such a proviso in favor of American shipping. Whether American ships will get much of the wheat for China, however, was reported this afternoon to be problematical. Bids, it was said, have already been obtained and those from American lines have been approximately $4 a ton, or from 50 cents to a dollar higher than from foreign flag lines.

The Chinese wheat deal, it is estimated, will lower the wheat stocks held by the farm board from close to the 300 million bushel mark to close to 200 million bushels. When the 15 million bushels have been disposed of, between 85 and 90 million bushels of stabilization wheat will have been sold at a loss below price of purchase plus storage of something like $35,000,000.

Nautilus Safe in Arctic; Wilkins Radios 'All's O. K.'

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 4.—(AP)—All is well aboard Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus, from which the first news in five days came tonight. Communication with the submersible, now on an arctic cruise, was established by the radio station of the Meteorological institute at Tromsoe. Sir Hubert sent his greetings to his friends. Communication with the Nautilus also was established by the Bergen radio station and the steamship Fridtjof Nansen. Sir Hubert refused to give any indication of his position.

J. J. Touhy Stricken Ill in Auto; Operated On

John J. Touhy, 213 South Seeley avenue, a trustee of the sanitary district, suffered a sudden attack of appendicitis yesterday afternoon and an emergency operation was performed at the University hospital an hour later. His condition was reported excellent last evening. Mr. Touhy was stricken while riding in a car with Trustee Dennis Horan near the county hospital. He was examined there by Dr. Karl Meyer, who decided an immediate operation was necessary.

vestigation of the activities of the bureau. President Lewis E. Myers expressed himself as aroused at the implications of graft revealed by the state's attorney's office and declared: "We must go into this thing to the very limit." He said he believed the investigation should be pushed by the full board membership, although generally the contracts for school work are approved or disapproved by the board's committee on buildings and grounds. On this committee are Trustees Oscar Durante, Joseph P. Savage, H. Wallace Caldwell, Carter Blatchford, and O. H. Brandenburg.

Mr. Myers said he did not recall that bids for electrical work for the board in recent months have been exorbitant.

Other trustees who expressed themselves as favoring a full investigation of the bureau and its activities were Mrs. W. E. Hefferan, and John A. English.

"The whole board must join in this investigation," Mrs. Hefferan said. "It would not be fair to members of the buildings and grounds committee to give into their hands an investigation that might involve some of its own actions. The answer to the puzzle of Mr. Enright's murder lies somewhere in this situation."

Aids in Union Trial.

At Enright's last session with his union he sat in judgment as a member of the executive committee upon four fellow members against whom charges had been filed. Two of these, charged with inciting communism, were acquitted, but the others, Joseph Hickey and Frank J. Boyle, were found guilty and fined.

Hickey was charged with a minor infraction of the union rules and fined $50, but Boyle was charged with attempts to foment trouble between the union and the contractors' association, and was fined $750.

"Frank Boyle has always been a trouble maker," said Michael Boyle yesterday. "However, I don't think he or anybody else in the union ever had anything against Enright. He was well liked by everybody."

Daniel S. Cleary, city superintendent of electricity, and an old friend of Enright, was one of the last to see the slain man as he left the meeting hall, 47 North Ogden avenue, at [illegible] p. m. Thursday.

"It had been his custom to [illegible] dinner with me before meetings," said Cleary. "This time, however, he [illegible] not because he told me he was going to drive his sister to their ancestral home in Lakeside, Mich."

Later Cleary spoke of dissension within the union. "The fact that the I. W. W. has a number of men in its ranks has caused considerable friction," he said.

Early this morning Matthew Ryan, 3957 Rokeby street, an electrician for the Board of Education, and a friend of Enright, who had been sought for questioning, appeared at the detective bureau. He said that after the union meeting he rode to the city hall with Enright, and then to Clark street and North avenue. There, he said, he left the car, bought Enright two newspapers and bade him good night. Enright went to his home on a street car. He said Enright did not mention where he was going after they separated. Ryan was held for further questioning today by Chief of Detectives John Norton.

Enright was to have met his wife, Mrs. Morgan Eastman, wife of the symphony orchestra conductor, and drive with her to join his family in Michigan. The widow, Mrs. May Enright, and her daughter, Rosemary, 11 years old, returned to their apartment at 909 Fullerton parkway yesterday. Their only other child, Mortimer Jr., 2 years old, was at home with a nursemaid when the tragedy occurred.

Union Dominated by Boyle.

Local No. 134 of the electrical workers' union for years has been dominated by Business Agent Boyle, "Big Tim" Murphy sought to gain control of it in 1922, according to charges made by police, and others have aspired to Boyle's leadership, but none has succeeded.

Enright, who was 48 years old, had been a civil service employe for 18 years, the last seven of which he worked with the board of education. He was a nephew of Police Captain Thomas Duffy of the Austin station.

The inquest will be held on Tuesday, Coroner Paul Isherwood of Cook county, said.

CHILE PARALYZED BY RED STRIKE; TROOPS REVOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 4.—To satisfy workers' demands for more pay, the government today doubled the paper money in circulation, reducing the gold reserves from 60 to 30 per cent.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The failure of the Coquimbo naval mutineers to ratify final terms of a truce by which the government hoped to end the mutiny, and a general strike of all Valparaiso laborers, presented a grave situation for the Chilean government to cope with tonight.

The government announced it had intercepted a wireless message sent by communists to the Coquimbo mutineers asking them to refrain from signing a truce until communist organizations could seize control of the nation. The message was interpreted in government circles as proof that communist agitators were responsible for the naval mutiny.

The Valparaiso strike, ascribed by government officials to communists, tied up all street car and bus services. Santiago trolley cars were stopped because, it was reported, all cars reaching terminals bumped into detachments of communists, who intimated the cars.

Two Regiments Revolt.

Two regiments at Valparaiso revolted tonight and joined the naval mutineers.

A report that Great Britain, the United States and France were sending warships to Chile circulated persistently, but was scoffed at in diplomatic circles. The embassies refused to dignify the report with denials.

Train service between Santiago and Valparaiso was partly disrupted, but the government announced it would operate trains in the face of any strike.

Government Balks at Demands.

Reports from Coquimbo were that the government had refused to grant any of the demands made by the rebels and that the mutineers were adamant. The Talcahuana naval base was also still in the hands of rebels tonight.

Despite the day's developments, the government continued to contend that the situation was in hand. It was learned that several communists have been arrested but no information about such action was made public by government officials.

Government sources said the Coquimbo mutineers were led by Rogilio Reyes, an electrical engineer attached to the flagship La Torre. Reyes and his lieutenants have declared that they have no connection with communism.

WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT.

Chile has had three chief executives since the revolution of last July, which forced the resignation of President Carlos Ibanez and drove him into exile in Argentina. Pedro Opazo, who became acting president after the departure of Ibanez, lasted less than a day. The senate objected to his family connections with the wife of Gen. Ibanez and compelled him also to resign.

Juan Esterban Montero was the next head of the Chilean government. He had been in office only a fortnight when trouble developed with the army. It was said that the soldiers were behind a plot to restore President Ibanez to power.

The minister of war was forced to resign. Three generals, three colonels, and a number of lesser officers were ousted from their posts. A complete reorganization of the army was ordered and the plot, if there was one, was squelched.

Montero Hands in Resignation.

Two days ago Premier Montero tendered his resignation to the senate so that he could run for president on a fusion ticket. The senate refused to accept his resignation, but he took advantage of a constitutional provision allowing him to turn over the power to the minister of the interior. Thus, Manuel Trucco, former director general of the state of Rai, became the chief executive.

Ibanez' successors all have been brought face to face with the same problem he had—the necessity of trying to keep the country out of bankruptcy. Chile's foreign debt is $349,184,545, and the government's total indebtedness is $549,236,443. The budget, which in 1925 was $84,000,000, was $161,000,000 in 1931. Of the latter amount $48,000,000 was for military expenditures.

Moratorium on Debts.

Confronted with a $6,000,000 deficit, even with foreign debts suspended, the chamber of deputies passed a bill last month fixing the maximum salary of any public employé at 3,000 pesos ($360) per month. On Aug. 20 the government was compelled finally to order a complete moratorium on foreign debts for the rest of the current year.

The present situation forced the cabinet to resign early yesterday morning. Premier Horacio Hevia called an extraordinary meeting and the government decided to quit. Marcial Mora formed a new cabinet and the entire country was placed under martial law. The state of seige was still in effect tonight and pedestrians were forbidden to be on the streets after 9 p. m. in groups of more than three.

Ex-Ambassador Reported Jailed.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4—(AP)—Reports were received here today through private sources that Carlos G. Davila, former Chilean ambassador to the United States, was being held incommunicado in Santiago, charged with fomenting a movement to return General Ibanez, deposed dictator.

Davila returned to Chile several months ago to become director of La Nacion, important Chilean newspaper. He, however, failed to materialize in the disturbed political situation which followed the ousting of Ibanez. He is now in Argentina.

ERROR CONVICTS WOMAN; CLEARED BY A CONFESSION

Her Name Taken Off Crime Record.

Mrs. Mary Berner, 28 years old, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., who was wrongfully convicted of passing bogus checks in 1929, saw her name expunged from the criminal record yesterday when another woman came forward and confessed that she had committed the crime. The matter was heard before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court.

The conviction of Mrs. Berner resulted from her unusual resemblance to Martha Lutz, 28 years old, now serving a one year sentence in the county jail on a bad check charge. Both women are of the same height and general features. Both wear glasses. Judge McGoorty decided that the fourteen witnesses who identified Mrs. Berner two years ago had mistaken her for Miss Lutz, whom they had seen only once.

Arrested on Check Charge.

Mrs. Berner resigned her position with S. D. Klein, treasurer of the Mutual Cumulative society, in September, 1929, and applied for a secretary's job at Butler Brothers, wholesale mail order company. Soon afterward it was discovered that checks had disappeared from Klein's office and had been cashed at banks and stores. Mrs. Berner was arrested. She spent four months in the county jail awaiting trial, all the time protesting her innocence.

Arraigned before the late Judge William N. Gemmill, Mrs. Berner was advised to plead guilty in the face of the evidence and throw herself upon the mercy of the court. But she steadfastly denied any knowledge of the crime. A jury found her guilty, and her punishment was fixed at a year's probation. She went back to Cedar Rapids with her husband.

Other Woman Confesses.

Patrick Sherwood, investigator for the Illinois Bankers' association, looked into the matter and was convinced that Mrs. Berner was wrongfully convicted. His investigation finally led to the confession of Martha Lutz.

After hearing the story Judge McGoorty said that in his opinion the complaining witnesses should make a "substantial contribution to Mrs. Berner for the mental and physical hardships she has been forced to undergo in this case." Mrs. Berner announced that she planned to come back to Chicago to get "a new start."

Two Gun Bandits Bind Woman; Get $10,000 Gems

Two bandits, each armed with two revolvers, yesterday robbed Mrs. Laura Manne of two diamond rings and a diamond brooch valued at $10,000 in her apartment at 5441 Kenmore avenue. After tying Mrs. Manne to the bathroom faucets they fled with their loot. The men gained entrance to the apartment by the ruse of presenting a package at the door, Mrs. Manne said. They then drew guns, threw her down and ripped off her stockings in their search for money. She freed herself after half an hour.

SCHOOLS WILL ADMIT NEW PUPILS WITHOUT BIRTH CERTIFICATES

Children entering school for the first time next Tuesday will not be barred for failure to present birth certificates, it was announced yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Following a plan suggested by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, school clerks have been authorized to take applications for the necessary certificates from the children. The certificates will be prepared by the health department and returned directly to the schools.

Under this plan, Dr. Bundesen points out, parents will be spared the necessity of coming to the city hall for the certificates in all cases except those of unregistered births. In order to fill out the applications registered children lacking the certificates must be instructed by their parents regarding the date and place of birth, names of father and mother, present address and name of the attending physician, Dr. Bundesen said.

BOY DIES OF FOOD POISON; WHOLE FAMILY STRICKEN

Elmer Evenhouse, 6 years old, 1756 West 15th street, died yesterday at the county hospital from food poisoning, which attacked the Evenhouse family on Aug. 27. The other six members of the household were stricken, including the mother and father, Harry, a piano tuner. Four children are still ill.

Harold, 8 years old, is in serious condition at the West Side hospital. His brother Raymond's condition is less serious. Clarence, 14 years old, and Martin, 16 years old, are recovering at home, and the parents are now well.

A chemical analysis of the vital organs of the youngest boy will be made by Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, after which an inquest will be held.

Tighter Enforcement of State Dope Law Planned

Plans to tighten the enforcement of the new Illinois anti-narcotics law, adopted on July 1, were made yesterday at a conference between State's Attorney Swanson, Chief Investigator Pat Roche, and Jerome Keane, representing the government anti-narcotics division in Chicago. They met in the state's attorney's office.

ALCOCK PICKS 10 AS MEMBERS OF NEW VICE SQUAD

Carries Out Order of Mayor Cermak.

Carrying out Mayor Cermak's orders for the formation of a special vice and gambling squad under the leadership of Capt. Martin E. Mullen, formerly in command of the Austin police station, Acting Commissioner Alcock yesterday detailed a lieutenant, two sergeants, and seven policemen to report to Capt. Mullen at the Pekin station, 2700 South State street.

JOHN H. ALCOCK.

These men, it was indicated, will form only the first detachment and there was a possibility that forty or fifty policemen would finally be detailed to the new squad. These men will be at the command of Mayor Cermak and Capt. Mullen and will roam the city as a special unit, independent of the rest of the police department and responsible only to their captain and the mayor.

Names Men for Squad.

Those detailed in the order sent out yesterday were Lieut. Martin E. McCormick, Sergts. William Burns and M. E. Mullen and Patrolmen John O'Malley, William Degan, Richard Maloney, Fred Trauth, Edward Le Favour, George Kells, and Fred W. Fertig.

Acting Commissioner Alcock, who denied himself to reporters Thursday, was yesterday found in his office, working on a heap of correspondence and records. He laughed when informed of the many rumors concerning a reported split between himself and the mayor.

"I make it a practice never to deny anything in the newspapers," he declared after reading one afternoon paper story stating that his resignation was near and his successor already picked by the mayor. "I'm busy at my police work and I'm going right ahead following out Mayor Cermak's orders and attempting to fulfill his policies.

Just Ordinary Police Work.

"As for this new vice squad and the many rumors that have come up because the mayor has ordered it, there is no reason to get excited. It's just an ordinary part of the police routine. Capt. Mullen and I have conferred together and picked some good, trustworthy men for the squad. It will no doubt fully realize Mayor Cermak's wishes in regard to cleaning up sore spots."

Capt. Mullen was scurrying about the city yesterday in a search for candidates for his new squad.

Mayor Cermak was indignant when he read published reports that he had already picked a successor to the acting commissioner.

"The report is absolutely groundless and untruthful," he declared.

The mayor made this statement after he had talked to Acting Commissioner Alcock and the latter had emerged smiling from the mayor's chambers.

TWO RESCUED WHEN 40 FOOT BOAT BURNS OFF EVANSTON SHORE

Two men were saved from death last evening after a 36 foot motor cruiser in which they were riding caught fire, exploded, and sank three miles in the lake off Dempster street, Evanston. They are William Timm, 29 years old, 1434 Crain street, Evanston, and Charles Henderson, 40, of 24 South Halsted street.

The boat, the Alva, was owned by Carl H. Kammerer, 2224 East 68th street, and Lothar F. Ederer, 205 Green Bay road, Glencoe, who planned to leave on a vacation today, and yesterday engaged Henderson and Timm to take the Alva, which was in the river, to Wilmette harbor. The men are fishermen, with a stand at the South Halsted street bridge. The boat was valued at $10,000.

When the explosion occurred and the Alva burst into flames Henderson and Timm donned life preservers and leaped into the water.

Life guards at the Rogers Park beach, commanded by Sam Leone, put out in a speedboat and reached the men after they had been in the water 20 minutes. At the same time Benjamin Marshall, the architect, also seeing the burning boat, set out in his speed craft from Wilmette harbor. On the way he picked up Capt. Otto Fricke of the Wilmette coast guard, who was going to the rescue in a slower boat. When they arrived Henderson and Timm had been rescued.

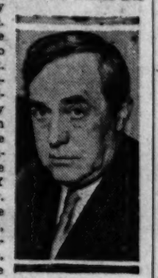

BOARD OF REVIEW DISCHARGES 75 OF ITS EMPLOYES

Seventy-five extra employés in the board of review who have been used for the book work involved in hearing 1,200 improvement complaints daily were let go yesterday. Andrew W. Gantebey, chief clerk, said the fund for their pay roll was exhausted and the board will be forced to function with only the 40 regular employés until clerks borrowed from other county offices are supplied by the county board. This plan was voted Thursday at the board meeting, after the reviewers' request for $59,800 additional funds was rejected.

JURY TO REPORT ON CAPONE RUM INQUIRY SEPT. 10

Judge to Set Date Then for Income Tax Trial.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday informed United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson that he would return to Chicago on Sept. 10 to hear the report of the federal grand jury which has been inquiring into the possibility of indicting Al Capone for violation of the Jones law. On that date Judge Wilkerson, who is on a vacation in Michigan, will set the date of the trial for Capone on charges of income tax evasion.

JUDGE WILKERSON

Capone pleaded guilty to the income tax charges in June, but he withdrew his plea several weeks ago after Judge Wilkerson refused to be bound to a moderate sentence in consideration of the plea of guilty. At the same time Judge Wilkerson ordered the grand jury to investigate the liquor conspiracy indictment returned against Capone and 68 of his henchmen in an effort to find evidence that would link the gang chief with the actual crimes of manufacturing and transporting beer.

Penalty 5 Years in Prison.

The penalty under the statute covering these crimes is five years in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine, while the maximum punishment for conspiracy is two years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

When Judge Wilkerson allowed Capone to withdraw his plea of guilty to the income tax charge he took under advisement a motion by Capone's attorneys to permit him also to withdraw his plea of guilty to the conspiracy charge.

The grand jury yesterday returned indictments against six of Capone's 68 co-defendants in the conspiracy case. Those named were Michael Potson, one time manager of Colosimo's café; Bert Delaney, a brewmaster; James Calloway, Frank Stork, Mike Smith, and Albert Johnson.

Potson was arrested in a raid on an alleged Capone brewery at 2108 South Wabash avenue. Delaney, Calloway, Stork, and Smith were seized when they attempted to recover brewery equipment after prohibition agents had taken charge of a plant at 2130-2136 South Wabash avenue on April 11. Johnson, alias Harry Allcock, was charged with having tried to bribe special prohibition agents to release a truck load of beer.

Economy Ax Falls in Britain; Boost in Tobacco Tax Looms

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—A shock absorber in the shape of a grave warning to the British public to prepare for the worst when the supplementary budget of the emergency national government is presented to the house of commons next week was issued today by James H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, in a speech before his constituents at Derby.

The warning was issued as the first marks, which will be left on the country by the economy ax, became visible. Apparently Great Britain is facing an increase in the tobacco tax, which already approximates 50 per cent on the retail price. It was also disclosed there will be a slash of 12½ per cent in police salaries.

Manufacturers today received instructions restricting the amount of tobacco they are allowed to remove from bond until Sept. 10. This measure will prevent wholesale clearances to sidestep the tax.

The same notice was given before Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden introduced the budget last April, but the tax was untouched. Nobody expects to escape a second time.

The present tax amounts approximately to six cents on a twelve cent package of ten cigarets. The pipe tobacco levy is around 13 cents an ounce. The tobacco tax supplies a revenue of about $315,000,000 annually.

Mr. Thomas' speech made it clear that these and perhaps still harsher measures will be revealed when Mr. Snowden again speaks before the treasury box.

"I don't want to deceive you in the least," he said. "Economies will be drastic. They will be far reaching. The measure of sacrifice called upon from the people will be heavy.

Warns of New Policy.

"Make no mistake. Nations are like individuals. If they spend more than they earn, bankruptcy is inevitable. It is because we have spent more than we have earned that foreigners came to the opinion they could not be satisfied with the security we were able to offer. We've got to see that nothing of the kind ever happens again, and we've got to pursue a policy that will never again lead to any doubt of our financial stability or ability to meet our obligations."

A member of parliament declared he had been told at the home office that police salaries would be slashed. Pay cuts for teachers is another item being considered by the cabinet today.

EAST TEXAS OIL FIELDS REOPEN THIS MORNING

Military to Enforce Proration Order.

Kilgore, Tex., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The east Texas oil field, one of the world's mightiest petroleum producing areas, will be reopened tomorrow after being shut down under martial law since Aug. 17.

More than 1,800 wells in the erstwhile recalcitrant giant of the industry, by official estimate, will be ready to flow when valves are opened under a state railroad commission proration order, to be made effective by military forces occupying the area since the shutdown.

When Gov. Ross S. Sterling ordered troops to check all production pending establishment of new regulations for the field, crude was selling as low as 5 cents a barrel.

Since the shutdown here, similar action in Oklahoma and a partial closing of Kansas wells, quotations have risen rapidly. A price of 65 cents is posted in the east Texas field.

Some oil operators are fearful that the new proration order will result in an orgy of well drilling which again would overburden the market with oil.

Acts Under Instructions.

Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters announced the reopening in an official bulletin. He said he was acting under instructions Gov. Ross S. Sterling sent this morning by the adjutant general. Martial law is to remain in effect to enforce the railroad commission's proration rules.

Gen. Wolters said the force of 709 National Guardsmen would be gradually decreased, but he did not know when the reduction would occur.

"The governor left that to my discretion," he explained. "I will have to make trials to see how many men I will need for enforcement of the proration order."

He added that all supervisors, gaugers and other agents of the railroad commission would be "taken over" and work under direction of the military authorities.

Gov. Murray Threatens.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Fear that reopening of the east Texas oil pools will retard the demanded $1 price for Oklahoma crude has brought from Gov. W. H. Murray a threat to build state owned refineries paid for from a tax on oilmen's incomes.

The Oklahoma governor said he would promote a referendum on a law "based on issuance of bonds, build refineries, assets on the incomes of the oilmen, and refine oil for the state."

"I'll use their own money to whip them," he declared.

Increase the Price.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 4.—(AP)—An increase of 5 cents a barrel in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil in Buckeye pipe lines and Corning grade oil in Buckeye lines was announced today by purchasing agencies here. The new prices are Pennsylvania grade in Buckeye lines, $1.45, and Corning grade, 75 cents. Other Pennsylvania crude prices were unchanged.

COMPANY READY TO REVEAL COST OF NATURAL GAS

B. J. MULLANEY.

Bernard J. Mullaney, one of the vice presidents of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, declared yesterday that the company is ready at any time to produce to the Illinois commerce commission all records pertaining to the cost of piping natural gas from Texas to Chicago.

His statement was made in answer to an assertion by Chas. W. Hadley, chairman of the commission, that the commission would insist upon examining these records before permission would be given to mix natural gas with the manufactured product.

The commission revealed that it had the experience of the California commerce commission in mind in insisting upon seeing the records. Reductions in gas bills of from 40 to 50 per cent were obtained in San Francisco after a thorough examination of the costs of natural gas production, according to testimony before the commission at hearings some time ago.

The local company has offered a 3½ per cent reduction in rates for domestic users and 22 per cent for heating purposes.

The commission will meet in Springfield next Monday morning, when a decision may be reached on the question of permission to use the natural gas. Another meeting will be held in Chicago on Sept. 15 and the question of proper gas rates will then be taken up.

Woman Held as an Aid in Slaying of Witness

Mrs. Katherine Ricards, 1133 West Van Buren street, was held to the Du Page county grand jury by a coroner's jury in Hinsdale yesterday as an accessory to the murder of Leonard Ingstrom, 27 years old, who was kidnaped on Aug. 22 and found shot to death at 79th street and the county line on Wednesday. Ingstrom was kidnaped the night before he was to have appeared against Mrs. Ricards in court on assault charges brought by Mrs. Lena Rogers, proprietor of a rooming house at 217 South Throop street, in which Ingstrom lived. Witnesses said Mrs. Ricards had threatened to have Ingstrom "taken for a ride."

ONE GOVERNOR SNUBS ANOTHER IN COTTON CLASH

"You Can't Run Texas," Says Sterling to Long.

Houston, Tex., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Gov. Ross S. Sterling continued to maintain his own counsel tonight in the face of demands from southern states for a special session of the Texas legislature to enact cotton acreage control legislation.

"Gov. Long is not running Texas," Gov. Sterling said, in answer to the insistence of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana that the Texas lawmakers be convened immediately to act on a law similar to that passed in Louisiana prohibiting entirely the planting of cotton in 1932.

"He [Gov. Long] may be able to demand that his legislature vote whatever he wants," said Sterling, "but we are a little more democratic in Texas."

"It is, of course, my constitutional right to call the legislature, but I feel I am the better judge of when to call it than my friends the governors of the other southern states."

Texas Grows Impatient.

Governors and farmers of cotton growing states joined in a chorus of protest at Sterling's delay on the ground that Texas, which grows one-third of the nation's crop, holds the key to a solution of the problem of overproduction and low prices.

J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, said the people of Texas were becoming "impatient" but he expected the governor to issue a call within a few days for the special session.

The commissioner said 13 state senators had agreed to vote for a cotton acreage reduction bill. In the house 110 members were pledged to an acreage reduction program. McDonald said yesterday the governor had promised to call the special session when 17 members of the senate were on record "in black and white" as favorable to the reduction.

Federal Plan Suggested.

Approaching the cotton situation from another angle, United States Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas proposed today that the United States department of agriculture and the federal farm board coöperate in setting up organizations which would enter into agreements with farmers to cut cotton acreage 30 per cent each year through 1936.

He would put teeth into the plan by making agricultural credit corporations, banks and supply houses parties to the agreements, having them agree not to finance or supply farmers who did not coöperate.

Nine Indicted by U. S. on Patent Law Charge

Nine men were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of violation of the patent laws in connection with the manufacture of a spurious anti-freeze liquid. The defendants, who were seized at their manufacturing plant at 1214 Roosevelt road, are: Samuel Katz, Sam Fisher, Louis and Sam Ziv, Zigman Chaplik, David Blanc, Adolph Postel, David Holsman, and Leo Blum.

Two Truckmen Held After Reporting $1,500 Holdup

ARBITRATION IN MILK STRIKE HITS A SNAG

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 4.—(Special)—A suggestion of arbitration in the milk price war was met today by Dan C. Kerckhoff, president of the Pevely Dairy company, with willingness to negotiate with the dairy farmers "at any time," but a flat refusal to deal with President Tiedeman of the Sanitary Milk Producers.

Kerckhoff's answer was made in a letter to Stuart E. Pierson, Illinois director of agriculture, who called a conference attended by Kerckhoff and Tiedeman yesterday at Springfield.

Federal protection for milk shipments was obtained by the Pevely dairy yesterday in a temporary federal injunction.

KINSWOMEN OF VICTIM SCREAM RAGE AT POWERS

Confront Cringing Slayer in the Jail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Two sobbing, bereaved women confronted Harry F. Powers in the county jail here today. They were the sister and aunt of Mrs. Dorothy Frontier Lempke of Worcester, Mass., one of the Bluebeard's victims.

"Have you no heart, no God, you beast?" cried Mrs. Anna Rose, the sister, as Powers stood bleakly before her. The sister, Mrs. Charles Flemming, was on the verge of hysteria as she got a sight of the slayer.

"What did you do to my sister, you fiend?" she cried. "Why didn't you take her money and let her live?" Powers hunched his shoulders and his only reply was:

"There isn't anything to say. I haven't anything to say."

Visit Death Garage.

Mrs Flemming and Mrs. Rose arrived in Clarksburg this morning to claim Mrs. Lempke's body. They testified briefly at a coroner's inquest, and were then taken by police officials to visit the death house garage near Gnat Dell, where Powers killed and buried Mrs. Lempke and Mrs. Asta Feick Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., and her three children. Mrs. Flemming's husband accompanied them.

Outside the jail Mrs. Flemming told of the party which she had given for her sister and Powers on last July 27, when they left Worcester together.

"My sister was not going immediately to marry Powers, whom we knew as Cornelius Pierson," said Mrs. Flemming. "She intended first to look over the farm which Pierson said he owned in Iowa, and if she liked it she would marry him and stay."

Flemming told of Mrs. Lempke having drawn $4,287 from two banks in Worcester on the day she left with Powers, and said he would demand an investigation tomorrow and see why part of the money has been turned over to Law for Powers' defense.

"That is blood money," Flemming said. "Isn't it terrible that my sister-in-law's money should be used to finance the defense of the man who murdered her?"

Attorney Gets $1,500.

It has been learned that Powers was permitted by the officials here to turn over the key to his safe deposit box to Law, and that he told Law to take $1,500 in currency from the box for his fee.

The jury, impaneled by Dr. Le Roy C. Goff, coroner, made a formal finding that Mrs. Eicher, her three children and Mrs. Lempke had been murdered by Powers. All the victims had been strangled with the exception of Harry Eicher, who was killed by hammer blows on the head, the jury found.

FOUR IN CUSTODY AS MEMBERS OF A GANG OF ROBBERS

Four men were in custody of the state's attorney's office last night, one of them suspected of the murder of a policeman, and all suspected of participation in the $19,000 robbery of the Wieboldt department store last January.

The prisoners are Nick Bunonica, 21 years old, whose address is given as 1131 South Oak Park avenue Berwyn; Adam Gattay, Harold Galland, and Peter Birutus. They were captured by Policemen Louis Capparelli, George Cuscoli and Louis Furst of the state's attorney's office.

A habeas corpus writ, which was denied, was filed in behalf of Bunonica, and led to the disclosure of the men being in custody. Bunonica, seized five days ago, has been identified as the slayer of Policeman John Nerad of the Cicero force, it was stated before Judge Prystalski. Nerad was shot July 16, 1929. Reports last night were that the four men might be involved in numerous stickups, including the Wieboldt. Five men perpetrated that holdup. One, George Smith, was fatally wounded by Policeman William Binder, who was himself shot.

Club Fetes Von Gronau and Ocean Flying Crew

After spending yesterday afternoon going over their plane, the Gronland Wal, at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, the German trans-Atlantic flyers, Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his crew, were guests last night at a reception at the Germania club. This afternoon the German plane will fly to the Chicago airport and then to Lansing, where the flyers will attend the American Legion air races. Tonight they will be given a reception and banquet in Hammond.

ASHES OF EICHER FAMILY HOME; SERVICES TODAY

Expect Crowd at Park Ridge Rites.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Park Ridge yesterday received back the ashes of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children who were slain in West Virginia by Harry F. Powers.

THE REV. W. D. SPANGLER

This afternoon at 3 o'clock community funeral services will be held over the quartet of urns, and the entire population is expected to turn out for the obsequies. So universally has the town's population adopted the Eichers that it was quickly apparent that no one church could accommodate the crowds. The Park Ridge theater was therefore procured.

Small Caskets Obtained.

One grave in the family plot in Maine Township cemetery will hold the four, who will lie beside the grave of their husband and father. The Rev. Walter D. Spangler, pastor of the English Lutheran church to which the family belonged, will officiate both at the theater and at the cemetery.

For the sake of appearances in the public services, small caskets were obtained to hold the ashes of each of the four. That of Mrs. Eicher is in gray, larger than the others. Two tiny white caskets hold the ashes of Harry, 12, and Annabelle, 9, while another in white, a bit larger, is for Greta, 14.

Former friends and playmates of the murdered family tiptoed yesterday into the parlors of William F. Moritz, undertaker, where the caskets lay. Flowers arrived and were ranged about the room, but the lids on the caskets remained lowered and the callers moved on out to the screened porch, where they remained to talk over the sensational deaths of the individuals they had known in their so recently serene lives.

Doubt Another Widow Slain.

Chief Harold Johnson of the Park Ridge police meanwhile was expressing skepticism over an anonymous letter received by Chicago police intimating that another victim of Powers might be Mrs. Anna Boehle, or Purcell, who disappeared a couple of years ago from Park Ridge. Mrs. Boehle, who had been employed as a cook by Mrs. F. J. Newell, 215 Belle Plaine avenue, passed him on the streets of the suburb only last May, Chief Johnson declared.

Friends of Mrs. Boehle said she had habitually carried her savings on her person, amounting to $2,000 or more, and that she had not been heard from since a message two years ago saying she was to be married. She had advertised for a husband in the Sontag, a German newspaper.

530,000 UNEMPLOYED IN CANADA; EXPECT INCREASE IN WINTER

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—(AP)—G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, estimated Canada's unemployed today at 530,000. The minister issued figures compiled by provincial governments. In the majority of provinces the totals are based upon registration and in others careful estimates have been made. All the provinces of Canada are covered.

Senator Robertson said these figures would probably be increased in the winter months when seasonal unemployment would become an increasing factor.

Saskatchewan is the largest hit province. Registrations in urban centers indicate 26,904 are without work, while in those areas where crops have failed there are 76 municipalities where 100 per cent relief will be necessary. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, estimates the number of those requiring relief in the drought areas of Saskatchewan at 150,000.

Two huge stills capable of turning out 5,000 gallons of alcohol daily were discovered by prohibition agents under Deputy Prohibition Administrator A. E. Hamilton yesterday in an old factory at 1746 North Kostner avenue. The plant, said to be the largest ever found in Chicago, had equipment estimated to be worth $75,000. No one was on the premises at the time of the raid.

Another still was found by Policemen Joseph Madden and Benjamin O'Donnell of the Pekin station when they noticed the odor of steaming mash in the vicinity of 2830 South State street. They followed their noses to a garage in the rear of that address dropped through a trapdoor, crawled through a tunnel, and came upon a 1,000 gallon still in full operation under a store at 2830 South State street. The operator, however, was not present. The equipment was turned over to government agents.

General Strike Is Called Off by Syndicalists.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Sept. 4.—By a nasty display of weapons, the government of the Spanish republic tonight appears to have broken the back of the syndicalist rebellion—called a general strike—in Barcelona after a day of fighting in which four strikers were killed and twenty of their number were wounded. Six policemen were shot, two seriously.

Syndicalist leaders called off the strike that has kept Barcelona in terror for two days this afternoon. Not yet convinced that the government means business, the anarchist element, which captured control of syndicalism at a critical moment, tonight refused to admit defeat, with the result that hand-to-hand street fighting between rioters on one side and troops and police on the other continued.

Machine Guns Bark.

Barcelona, a gay metropolis of 1,000,000 persons, went about its business today while machine guns barked down alleys and anarchism took a bloody toll in the narrow streets of the city's medieval quarter.

Shopkeepers who hesitated about returning to normalcy were prodded into so doing by the police. The reopening of the bakeries, closed for two days, was welcomed by the throngs.

But in old Barcelona, where many streets are no more than six feet wide, the anarcho-syndicalist gunmen stalked the police, leading a mob of arrested strikers to cells in ships in the harbor, were fired upon. Two policemen were seriously wounded.

At noon the black flag of the warlords made its last stand in the head quarters building of the trades syndicate. Police laid siege for two hours and then called for the artillery. All the while the civil guards, on bended knees, fired at the stronghold.

Haul Up White Flag.

There were wounded on both sides. Eight of the forces of law and order went down. When the cannon came rattling up the anarchists and hotheads within hoisted a white flag and, under the protection of the police, sent a committee to parley with the civil governor.

The committee demanded to be allowed to disperse without interference. The governor told them they were lucky to come from their stronghold in a vertical position. They agreed and went back and surrendered unconditionally. After another half-hour of sniping with the syndicalists on the roof of the building the police entered and found a veritable fortress full of all kinds of arms.

The general strike spread to other industrial centers of Catalonia during the afternoon, but when it collapsed in Barcelona it collapsed everywhere. Heavily armed troops are still patrolling the streets, but the worst is believed to be over.

LACK CONFIDENCE IN OWN GOVERNMENT, SO GOLD FLOWS TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Lack of confidence on the part of foreign bankers and individuals in their own governments rather than a gold hoarding policy on the part of the United States is responsible for the abnormal flow of gold to this country in recent months, administration officials said today. It was pointed out in this connection that as a result of the world-wide depression many holders of gold in other countries had diverted their investments to this country, feeling they were safer here.

The United States in recent weeks has become a refuge for gold, according to the explanation made here today. As a result, the latest figures show that during the present week United States gold stocks reached an all time record, falling just short of five billion dollars.

The exact amount, which represents an increase over the figure for the previous week, was given by the federal reserve board as four billion, 998 millions.

Gold has continued also to flow into France, with the result that the two countries now have the bulk of the world's supply. The French total at present is two billion, 300 millions.

Italy Opposes Surrender of Syrian Mandate by France

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—A new angle to the question of mandates and the struggle of the big powers for control of the near east was injected into the league of nations council meeting this afternoon when the country which has the greatest reason to be jealous of France's Syrian mandate—Italy—entered objections to France's giving up that mandate.

The question was raised by the report of the permanent committee on mandates, which disclosed and approved the intentions of France and Great Britain to surrender their respective mandates over Syria and Iraq at an early date, the two mandatory powers having decided that these countries are sufficiently advanced to join the family of nations as independent units.

Much to every one's surprise Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy read a long speech, making numerous reservations to the committee's recommendations.

Fears Syria "French Vassal."

His argument was that, while France maintained a mandate over Syria, her powers and influence were strictly limited by the league covenant, but that when the mandate has formally expired there is nothing to keep France from lining up Syria as one of her vassals.

Sig. Grandi urged that the council should not recognize Syria's fitness to govern herself before a more thorough study has been made.

Turning his attention to Iraq, Sig. Grandi voiced his suspicion of the deal whereby the Iraq Petroleum company an English concern, would be given a concession to run a pipe line from the Mosul oil fields to the Mediterranean across Syria. The fact that American oil interests, which fought the granting of the concession were assured by a treaty concluded last spring in London of equal rights should they ever choose to build a pipe line, furnished him with further argument.

Visions U. S. Privileges.

He declared that there is danger that the United States, which is not a member of the league, might be found to enjoy privileges which bona fide league members would not be able to obtain once the mandate is lifted.

After a long discussion it was decided to refer the Iraq question to the January council. It was also agreed to amend the mandate committee's report whereby "a searching investigation by the council into the fitness of mandate territory to govern itself" would be substituted for an arbitrary standard.

This gives Italy opportunity to question Syria's fitness when France gets ready to lift the mandate. The council also whitewashed the deal whereby the Iraq Petroleum company is given a pipe line and ruled itself incompetent to consider protests of the American interests on the ground that they could take action in the Iraq courts.

One Reveals Wolf Gave Him Start on Market.

son & Co. On Wolf's advice he began dabbling in chemical and industrial stocks. The November crash came on, wiping out his profits and threatening his margin. But Wolf did not desert him, Bauermeister said.

The bank clerk supplied more treasury notes, counseling Bauermeister to keep up his courage and predicting that the market would turn. But the prices continued to skid.

"I always had the utmost confidence in him," Bauermeister said. "He always seemed so confident himself. When his bank, the Illinois Merchants, was merged with the Continental I told him I supposed he would be out of a job. He laughed and said he wasn't worried. He said they couldn't do without him. Why, only the other day I was telling him he would soon be a vice president."

Bauermeister said that at the time the bank embezzlements were exposed he held $20,000 securities given him by Wolf which he had posted as collateral in his stock deals. This consisted of United States treasury certificates. He said his losses in his various deals in which he used collateral furnished by Wolf totaled $5,000.

Trace Deals with 11 Brokers.

Attorneys for the Continental bank who have questioned Weiss, Bauermeister and Wolf's brother, Henry, in whose name the bank clerk carried a large account with Jackson Bros., Boesel, expressed confidence that Bauermeister and Henry Wolf were innocent victims of the embezzler's duggery. The attorneys are holding Wolf and attempting, through information supplied by him to trace his transactions through the eleven brokerage houses he is reported to have dealt with.

Arthur S. Jackson, head of Jackson Brothers, Boesel, issued a 300 word statement yesterday, admitting that the concern carried substantial margin accounts in the names of Weiss and Henry Wolf. The statement also declared that the brokerage house, in the course of regular business, had deposited with the bank some of the identical collateral put up by Weiss and Henry Wolf, thus putting the bank in the position of safeguarding securities which had been stolen from it.

No Suspicion of Theft.

"We have no disposition to carry on a controversy with the Continental bank," the statement opened. "We are impelled to make this statement only because of the vague, insinuating references to this firm and other brokerage houses recently appearing in the local newspapers. We emphatically state that our firm has never received any bonds or other securities with knowledge or suspicion that they were stolen."

"An analysis of our security records disclosed that at frequent intervals and in very large amounts in the ordinary course of business we have deposited with the Continental bank as security for our own loans, or for safe keeping, the identical bonds which we had in the two accounts and which the Continental now claims were stolen from it.

"It stands to reason that if a broker had the slightest suspicion that the bonds had been stolen from a bank, he would not hypothecate or deposit those identical bonds with that bank."

Farell Brothers' Statement.

Barnett Farell, head of Farell Brothers, also issued a statement, asserting that while his firm had carried a substantial account under Weiss' name, it had never had any account of Wolf's. Weiss' account was on the books from August, 1930, to last January, Mr. Farell said, adding that his grain losses in that period were $11,000 and his stock losses $1,800.

The business conduct committee of the Board of Trade met yesterday, but apparently took no action and issued no statement. J. C. Murray, president of the board, said no complaints had been filed against Weiss, who has held a membership for three years. Weiss, Mr. Murray said, had always met his obligations, and in the absence of a specific complaint against him no action could be taken.

U. S. May Undertake Inquiry.

Gossip about the Board of Trade was that any investigation conducted would probably be made by the grain futures administration in Washington, a bureau in the department of agriculture which supervises grain trading throughout the country.

No formal statement was issued by the bank, but a spokesman for the president, James R. Leavell, declared that the bank was seeking evidence of misconduct by brokers dealing with Wolf, adding that when the evidence was developed the bank would file charges against the brokers, whether members of the New York Stock exchange, Chicago Stock exchange, or Board of Trade.

MAYOR WALKER BLAMES FEDERAL LAXITY FOR CRIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Gangster conditions in New York were blamed today on the inactivity of the federal government in preventing entrance of gangsters and in deporting them, and also to the absence of the European identity card system by Mayor Walker of New York. Speaking to the Anglo-American Press association, Mayor Walker declared:

"The federal government lets the gangsters come into New York on boats, then lets them stay, and we have to struggle with them."

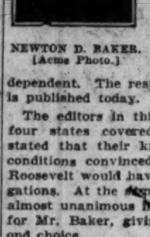

Regarding the identity card system, he said:

"Mind you, I'm not saying the European way is better. It is positively antagonistic to our ideas. We register criminals in the United States, but we don't register folks until they are known to be criminals. That is not our way. But our way certainly makes things harder for the police."

Mayor Walker today was made a Commander of the Legion of Honor, one of the highest honors which France confers.

EDITORS PICK BAKER AS DEMOCRATS' BEST, BUT ROOSEVELT WILL DO

New York, Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Newton D. Baker of Ohio, former secretary of war, is first choice of the prominent newspaper editors of the nation for the Democratic nomination for President, although their belief now is that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be the selection of the Democracy for 1932. This verdict is expressed by editors of 142 Democratic and independent newspapers in a poll made by the Outlook and Independent. The result of the canvass is published today.

The editors in thirty of the thirty-four states covered by the survey stated that their knowledge of local conditions convinced them that Gov. Roosevelt would have their state delegations. At the same time, they were almost unanimous in their preference for Mr. Baker, giving Roosevelt second choice.

The reflection of the editorial sentiment in the Outlook poll further shows that Owen D. Young is third choice; Alfred E. Smith is fourth; Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker, fifth; James A. Reed, former senator of Missouri, sixth, and Gov. Ritchie of Maryland is last.

The drys, even the ultra southern drys, will accept Roosevelt, the poll shows. Not one editor favored the nomination of a dry candidate. The southern editors revealed that even that section has changed since 1928.

EXPLAINS LAW ON RECOVERY OF STOLEN BONDS

Long Litigation Seen in Wolf Case.

Prolonged litigation was anticipated yesterday on efforts to salvage a portion of the $3,000,000 in bonds embezzled by Walter E. Wolf, manager of the coupon department of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company. The legal battle hinges on the distinction, under the law, between action to recover a stolen horse or anything which can be easily identified, and a move to recover stolen securities or money.

The distinction was pointed out by Attorney Thomas B. Martineau of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. The owner of a stolen horse, he explained, may seize the animal even though its holder purchased it in good faith.

Law Merchant Explained.

Stolen bonds, however, come under laws relating to negotiable securities. These laws are adapted from old English common laws, designated as law merchant. The negotiable securities law is similar in every state. It gives title to the holder of stolen negotiable bonds or other negotiable instruments on three conditions; the securities must be accepted in good faith, in the ordinary conduct of business, and for a valuable consideration.

"If a man steals ten dollars," Attorney Martineau explained, "presents it to a grocer, and receives goods for the money, the owner of the bill cannot take it from the grocer, even though the thief confess he paid for the goods with the stolen bill. The grocer has no way of knowing the bill was stolen and he gave consideration for it in customary routine of business. The same applies to negotiable bonds."

Bond Owner's Protection.

Provision for protection of the owner of the bonds is made by the law in that a broker who had actual knowledge the bonds were stolen or knowledge of such facts as would put them on inquiry, loses title to the securities. Lawyers say that any legal action for recovery of the bonds stolen by Wolf and posted for margins in market deals hinges on the ability to establish one of these conditions.

M'GOORTY PROBES FAILURE TO NAB LEO MONGOVEN

Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, who on Thursday issued a new capias for the arrest of Leo Mongoven, public enemy and former bodyguard for George [Bugs] Moran, yesterday started an investigation to determine why the original capias, issued in May, 1930, after Mongoven's bond on a gun toting charge had been forfeited, was never served.

He called James Gabriel, chief deputy sheriff at the Criminal court, before him. Gabriel said after making inquiries that the first capias had been turned over to a deputy sheriff who was dismissed seven months ago. The address given by Mongoven at the time of his original arrest, 1942 Cortland street, was found to be fictitious. He was given the new capias.

"I am leaving the Criminal court," Judge McGoorty said, "but as a member of the Superior court I am still an ex-officio member of the Criminal court. If Mongoven is found I want him brought before me. He is a dangerous public enemy, and the sheriff's office has been negligent in failing to arrest him."

Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office told Assistant State's Attorney Max Libby, assigned to the inquiry, that, so far as he could ascertain, reports that Mongoven was murdered by enemies were never substantiated.

Burglar Gets Cash in Home of Bank Official

Burglars entered the apartment of William J. Lawlor, 3100 Sheridan road, a vice president of the First National bank, Thursday night and stole $60 from a dresser drawer in the maid's room, it was revealed yesterday when Mr. Lawlor reported the robbery to the police. Entrance was gained through a window opening off the fire escape in the maid's room. The presence of the banker's son, William Jr., in another room is believed to have prevented the burglar from ransacking the apartment.

IGOE'S FRIENDS PLAN TO GREET HIM ON TUESDAY

Welcome Will Mark His Return from Europe.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A demonstration for Michael L. Igoe as a possible candidate for governor will take place on Tuesday when he returns to Chicago from a European tour as a member of the legislative commission on prisons.

Milton E. Connelly, secretary of the south park board, announced yesterday that when the Democratic national committeeman steps off the Twentieth Century he will be greeted by a committee of business men headed by Patrick H. Joyce, president of the Great Western railroad. Igoe political supporters will also be on hand to cheer him.

Mayor Cermak, Secretary Connelly said, was to be invited to join in welcoming the returning leader, but the mayor left last night to spend the Labor day week-end in Wisconsin and he will not return until Wednesday or Thursday.

Jenkins Cheers Up Democrats.

The Democrats were elated by a statement from Newton Jenkins, Republican insurgent candidate for United States senator, concerning political conditions as he found them during a tour that touched all the fourteen downstate congressional districts during the last three weeks.

"In the various sections of the state," Jenkins said, "I found much opposition to the Hoover administration. The war veterans are against the President because he has opposed the soldiers' bonus and other veterans' legislation.

Discusses Other Classes.

"The farmers as a class are against President Hoover. The widespread unemployment has turned labor against his administration. But to me the most important discovery during my trip was that many business men and bankers are opposed to the renomination of President Hoover.

Jenkins is the only candidate who has appeared openly against Senator Otis F. Glenn for the Republican primary. But it is believed by many, including some close friends, that Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria wants to enter this race.

CHINA ASKS U. S. TO INTERCEDE IN EXPULSION CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—A formal request from China for the United States to exercise her good offices with Mexico in behalf of Chinese residents in Sonora, who it is claimed by the Nanking government have been subjected to mistreatment in connection with their deportation from the state, was delivered late this afternoon by Mr. Yung Kwai chargé d'affaires of the Chinese legation. Nothing was said concerning Chinese who are also being evicted from Sinaloa.

YUNG KWAI.

Unwarranted, Says Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The foreign relations department tonight declared the action of the Chinese legation in Washington in requesting American good offices in behalf of Chinese nationals in Mexico was "unwarranted because of its impudence" and could not be accepted by the Mexican government.

"The Mexican authorities have been acting in accord with the circumstances and the Chinese legation has offered its full coöperation to avoid difficulty for its nationals," a statement from the foreign relations department said.

Sam Young, Chinese minister, said tonight he had received reports that the order expelling Chinese from Sonora has been suspended. Governor Elias Calles directed that the deportations be temporarily halted, the minister was informed.

ROBBERS CAUGHT AFTER 1 IS SHOT BY OIL DEALER

One bandit was shot and he and his accomplice were captured when they attempted to hold up Michael Schwartz, 3430 Bosworth avenue, in the office of his oil filling station at 3401 North Ashland avenue last night. Charles Ritter, 1427 Fletcher street, aided in the frustration of the robbery.

The prisoners are Jerry Zokral, 18 years old, 5510 West 25th street, Cicero, and William Burda, also 18, of 2424 South Avers avenue. Zokral was shot in the thigh and taken to the American hospital.

Schwartz noticed the youths loitering about the premises and concealed a revolver inside his shirt. A few minutes later the pair entered his office and told him they were robbers. Schwartz fired four shots, one of which hit Zokral. Both men fled, Zokral dropping his revolver. Schwartz collared him. Ritter, who was passing, heard the shots and saw Zokral throw away his gun. He picked the weapon from the ground and chased Burda, halting him by firing several shots. Then the police were called. Burda and Zokral admitted robbing an oil station at 3700 Montrose avenue earlier in the evening.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Peacocks on Parade," by Albert Stevens Crockett [Sears].

THERE is nothing that the average man—yes, quite as much as the average woman—enjoys so much as a good snappy bit of gossip. There is something about knowing that humankind is frail which gives zest to life.

ALBERT S. CROCKETT.

Albert Stevens Crockett had a peculiarly good vantage point from which to observe the frailties of man. For years he was a newspaper reporter "covering hotels" [which meant interviewing the great and the notorious upon their arrival], and for years he was a press agent for the most famous hotel in America, the Waldorf-Astoria. One of those jobs at least gave him a glib tongue [if both of them didn't] and both of them demanded a seeing eye. During all of those years he stored up in his mind the words and music of one of the most interesting collections of gossip that has been published for some time.

The "golden peacocks" of the day when riches were easy to acquire, easier than a knowledge of how to eat and drink, and even how to behave, are the birds about whom he writes in his "Peacocks on Parade," men mostly and women [unnamed] who spread their plumage for the world to admire and never knew that their voices were raucous or that their feet were hideous. Given a good thorough peacock complex—as a great many of the new rich had in the day which Mr. Crockett chronicles—man will make a fool of himself gorgeously, while woman will be all twittery over his strutting. And Mr. Crockett amusingly sees those struttings and tells them to his readers in the most approved and the most intimate fashion. He whispers in your ear the pet scandals of the era. He tells you the gaudy histories of the nineties when money and—at first—society, fashion, and flashiness swept through the corridors and the lobby of the old Waldorf-Astoria, when great social careers were launched, were rescued, or were lost, where business first knew that the adjective BIG was its by right of conquest, when combines were made which changed the whole scoreboard on the stock exchanges of the world, where poker games were whipped up in which a hundred and a hundred and fifty thousand dollars would change hands in one night.

Because he found his material in hotels and restaurants, many of the gaudiest of his heroes and heroines came from outside of New York—from Chicago, to be exact. The gaudiest of them all, John W. Gates, "Betch-a-Million Gates," as he was called, Mr. Crockett pictures for his readers with detailed whimsey. What a swath that bird cut with his gold-plated "eyes" on his feathers. One story Mr. Crockett tells is of the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Gates in London at the Carlton, and the subterfuge of the head waiter to keep the prince of Wales [later Edward VII.] from having to gaze upon the devastation which Betch-a-Million John made of his shirt front when he was "heard" eating his soup [a favorite joke among the English of the period, Mr. Crockett says, who thought themselves very waggish indeed when they said, "I rawther think I shall drop in at the Carlton and listen to the American eating soup—eh, what?"]

The head waiter told Mr. Gates that the prince of Wales was dining at the Carlton that evening and, as "we have taken the liberty of changing your table tonight, because his royal highness being expected, some sort of precedence will have to be followed in seating guests in the dining room, and you, being our most distinguished American visitor, have been given a table next to that which is reserved for his royal highness." The table nearest them was obviously prepared for a distinguished company, but the company never arrived. When Mr. Gates found that the prince had dined in comfort in another part of the room he raised such assorted battle that finally he was [practically] ordered out of the hotel.

There are names bristling on every page, famous names that have filled the press of the last quarter of a century and more. But it is not so much with the stories about the well known names that the public will be intensely intrigued, although they all are good stories, and the gossip is pure and undefiled by too much reserve. It is with the anonymous protagonists of the scandal recorded in the pages that speculation will be grand and rife. Every one is going to have a guess at the original of "Percy," who lived a life of ease in the pleasure spots of the world and once helped a poor little French beauty to earn her dot in an unusual way. Percy's lady loves will be unmasked, probably, by gossips who will agree on everything about the ladies except their names. Shadows which flit through "Peacocks on Parade" in the obscurity of anonymity will have names pinned onto them probably, with as much accuracy as, when blindfolded, we used to pin the donkey's tail on at our childhood parties. This game of guessing who's peacock and who's peahen will be the popular parlor sport of the next few weeks.

ERNEST RHYS, EDITOR OF EVERYMAN'S, TELLS OWN LITERARY STORY

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—In September will be published "Everyman Remembers," by Ernest Rhys, the editor of Everyman's Library. It is a book which should appeal to many who are grateful to Everyman's Library for some of the most valued books on their shelves; but it also is a book that those who love literary history and good writing should not miss.

ERNEST RHYS.

Mr. Rhys is poet and literary critic; and at the same time a man who has known many of the great figures, such as Tagore, Bernard Shaw, Havelock Ellis, Thomas Hardy, Robert Browning, and Swinburne, who have dominated literature in the last fifty or sixty years. He is a Welshman by birth and a Londoner by inclination. It was owing to his devoted work that Mr. Dent was able to create that tremendous collection of books which the majority of students of small means have found so invaluable.

To plan such a series, to choose which among so many millions of good books should be reprinted, called for extremely wide knowledge and catholic taste. It was a task for which Mr. Rhys was peculiarly fitted; and Mr. Dent knew it.

The autobiography of Mr. Rhys will tell the true story of the beginnings of Everyman's Library, when fifty volumes were published on the same day, and when the packers at Messrs. Dents' worked so long and so late that they never went home at all. It is one of the romances of modern publishing. And as Mr. Rhys is so modest a man that he may not do justice to his own share in this romance, it should be borne in mind that the editorial work during those early months was unremitting, that Mr. Rhys was responsible for many of the introductions to individual volumes, and that wherever he used his pen the result was miraculously a transformation of common fact into illuminating beauty.

Although St. Dunstan's church, in Fleet street, is a modern building, it has historical associations going back to the beginning of the thirteenth century; and it has registers dating from 1558. In that year Queen Elizabeth ascended the throne of England. Izaak Walton, author of the "Compleat Angler," worshiped there, and his first wife was buried there. Samuel Pepys also visited the church and "stood by a pretty, modest maid, whom I did labor to take by the hand; but she would not, but got further and further from me; and, at last, I could perceive her to take pins out of her pocket to prick me if I should touch her again—which seeing I did forbear, and was glad I did spy her design."

A church with such links with the past must be of interest; and Sir Ernest Benn, the English publisher, has asked a number of his literary friends to a party at which the registers will be exhibited.

The Piccadilly Fountain press, sponsored by Messrs. Henry Sotheran, the famous London booksellers, has just issued a delightful little book for Dickensians. This is called "Green Leaves," and in a stiff green cover are to be found five pamphlets containing many new facts regarding Dickens' earlier life.

The writer of these pamphlets is John Harrison Stonehouse, who is managing director of Messrs. Sotherans. Such authorship is in the best tradition of English bookselling; and the news that the Piccadilly Fountain press has in preparation facsimile editions of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair" and Dickens' "Pickwick," in parts, as they were originally issued, is very interesting, and should arouse the acquisitiveness of all Thackerayans and Dickensians who have longed for and have been unable to obtain copies of these books in the original parts.

Edgar Sisson Tells of Birth of Red Russia

Recounts 100 Days of History Making.

BY CLIFTON M. UTLEY.

"One Hundred Red Days," by Edgar Sisson. [Yale.]

AFTER twelve years Edgar Sisson, one time head of the Russian division of George Creel's wartime committee on public information, has made public a detailed account of his activities during the turbulent hundred days immediately following the birth of the bolshevist government.

The period of which Mr. Sisson writes, once the subject of much polemical controversy, has been relegated to the background of late, for writers on Russia, with almost one accord, have turned to the simpler and more remunerative occupation of dashing off treatises on the five year plan, studies of the Russian peasant, or tomes in which the word "challenge" can be worked into the title. But when the current craze subsides, interest in the formative days of the soviet union is certain to revive. When that time comes, serious historians will thank Mr. Sisson for having added to our knowledge of the period.

The author was on the spot [for the most part in Petrograd] during the entire hundred days between Nov. 25, 1917, and March 4, 1918. Sent by President Wilson and Mr. Creel to make known the American war aims and bolster the morale of the Russian people, his instructions were drawn on the assumption that he would have the sympathetic collaboration of the Kerensky government in pursuing his aims. He found instead the growing antagonism of the infant communist régime.

Nevertheless, the organization he created and directed managed to make America's war aims widely known through handbills, billboards, and even, on several occasions, through the official bolshevik newspapers. In the course of the narrative that tells of this work, Lenin, Trotsky, and most of the other early communist leaders pass in review.

Thanks to the British secret service, which tapped the Russian telegraph wires, he had in addition inside information not only on what the bolsheviki were doing but also what they were thinking. These dispatches Mr. Sisson now makes public, with the result that much additional light is shed on the early negotiations of the soviet government, particularly those concerning the peace of Brest Litovsk.

Another considerable portion of the book deals with the famous Sisson documents. The author tells how, with the aid of counter revolutionary Russian groups, he managed to have the desired papers abstracted from the soviet foreign office. The documents, which later were published by the committee on public information to show the connection between the communist leaders and the imperial German government, subsequently were attacked as forgeries. So Mr. Sisson feels called upon to expend considerable space in demonstrating their validity. Although an apologia should always be regarded with considerable skepticism, it must be admitted that Mr. Sisson makes out a remarkably convincing case for the papers he obtained.

As a result it may be assumed that unless further evidence now unknown and unlooked for is discovered, the great majority of the Sisson documents will be accepted as genuine.

Yardley Answers Critics Who Impugn His Patriotism

Maj. Herbert O. Yardley, author of "The American Black Chamber" [Bobbs Merrill], has been accused of lacking patriotism because of his intimate revelations of secret practices in diplomacy. He has replied that the story of the inner workings of secret diplomacy, as told by him, is one which the public is entitled to know. As the foremost living cryptographer in America he knows a great deal about the codes and ciphers now used by this government in the transmission of its messages. He knows that these codes, which carry the most confidential of diplomatic messages, are vulnerable to the cryptographers of foreign governments. He has offered the state department a method which, he says, in a letter sent to the secretary of state recently made public, will make those codes and ciphers both invulnerable and instantaneous.

HARVARD PROFESSOR WRITES A POLITICAL HISTORY OF EUROPE

A new history of modern European politics, the like of which, it is said, does not exist in any language, has been written by Prof. William L. Langer of Harvard university under the title of "European Alliances and Alignments."

It is described as an effort to present the evolution of the European states system and to show how individual leadership, together with strong economic, nationalistic, and military currents, welded the major powers first into the great combination known as the Bismarckian system and then into the rival Triple Alliance and Triple Entente.

The book will be published soon by Alfred A. Knopf.

SPECIAL JURY FOR BANK QUIZ IS TURNED DOWN

Swanson Satisfied with Progress of Inquiry.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday refused to summon a special grand jury to conduct the investigation into the affairs of the closed banks of the county. The request for a special grand jury to devote its entire time to closed banks and the administration of State Auditor Oscar Nelson was made by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th].

ALD. NELSON.

The alderman made his request in a letter to Swanson. The state's attorney conferred with Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers, who is in charge of the investigation. Following the conference Swanson made his announcement.

Guilty to Be Punished.

"I have repeatedly stated I see no need for a special grand jury," Mr. Swanson said. "I am satisfied with the progress of the investigation thus far. I cannot reveal the developments now pending, which are to be presented to the September grand jury. The wrongdoing of any one from the lowest clerk to the highest bank official will be fully investigated and promptly punished."

Ald. Nelson expressed satisfaction over indictments voted by the August grand jury, but asked that the investigation be more fully pressed. He pointed to the appropriation of $25,000 for the inquiry by the county board and urged a special grand jury.

"Your investigation, however, should not be confined alone to the action of officials of closed banks," Ald. Nelson wrote. "I here and now respectfully request that your investigation should include the action and conduct of State Auditor Oscar Nelson and his office.

Assails Record of Auditor.

"If ever a public official might be charged with being guilty of malfeasance, or at least misfeasance, of office it is the state auditor. His official conduct has brought about so much tragedy that men and women everywhere are demanding some official action be taken."

The state's attorney asked Ald. Nelson to present specific evidence in his possession on the bank situation. The alderman mentioned the affairs of the defunct Lake View State bank, which is in his ward, as in point on his charge against the state auditor. He declared the latter had knowledge of the bank's condition long before it was closed.

Auditor Makes Reply.

Auditor Nelson characterized the alderman's charge as a political smoke screen.

"The alderman has been subject to attacks from political enemies on the failure of the bank," the auditor said. "The alderman had nothing to do with the failure, but the attacks have annoyed him. He has seized on an opportunity to bolster himself with his constituents.

"All bombardment of this character tends to injure banking and hamper the liquidation of banks. However, I do not believe it will harm our plan to pool real estate mortgages of the banks for the purpose of raising a fund for distribution among depositors."

The auditor announced the appointment of David E. Shanahan, speaker of the state house of representatives and president of three banks, as receiver for the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, largest of the city's outlying banks, which was closed June 10. Mr. Shanahan had been acting as liquidating agent of the bank. His appointment as receiver was made necessary because of legal problems. The appointment will not hinder the plan of stockholders to reorganize, the auditor said.

Depositors of the defunct Waukegan State bank are to meet Tuesday in the Lake county courthouse to pledge cooperation to the investigation of the bank by State's Attorney A. V. Smith. Auditor Nelson has been questioned by the Lake county grand jury and is to make another appearance before that body Sept. 16. Rumors were circulated in the city that the auditor is to remove Attorney Fred Brown Whitney as receiver of the bank. Depositors announced a resolution supporting Attorney Whitney will be presented at the meeting.

COURT DELAYS TEST CASE OVER AUTO STAR LAW

Municipal Judge Freeman L. Fairbank yesterday continued to Sept. 11 a test case of a motorist, Trygve Svendsen, 33 East 113th street, who was arrested for violation of the city ordinance forbidding "I-gotta-drag" stars on automobiles. John Skala, assistant city prosecutor, asked the continuance in order to make a further study of the law in the case.

Attorney John J. Enright Jr., who appeared for Svendsen, was retained by Frank F. Wattells, manufacturer of the star found on Svendsen's automobile bearing the inscription, "World Fair—Chicago, 1933—I Will."

A week ago Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude refused Wattells an injunction restraining the city from enforcing the ordinance. Attorney Enright said yesterday that if necessary Svendsen's case will be carried to the Supreme court to test the constitutionality of the ordinance.

AUSTRALIA, UP TO NECK IN DEBTS, FIGHTS FOR LIFE

New $92,000,000 Deficit Is Revealed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 4.—Floundering in a sea of debts, Australia for a few days glimpsed a ray of hope when the voluntary conversion of its internal loan of $2,780,000,000 was announced as almost entirely completed to a common 4 per cent level. Governmental mathematicians speedily figured that the conversion would mean an annual savings of about $25,000,000.

The general feeling that Australia at last was actually putting its riddled financial house in order, however, was dissipated today at a conference of state premiers. It was announced that the commonwealth was far from free of financial difficulties. Members of the board of the Commonwealth bank stated that, because the revenue receipts had fallen below the original estimates by the state governments, the governmental deficits would reach $92,000,000.

Fights to Escape Bankruptcy.

It was announced that this sum would even be in excess of the deficits for which the premiers' plan had already provided. On top of it all the Commonwealth bank has declined to provide new accommodations for the extra deficits.

And so again the commonwealth is face to face with a struggle to escape bankruptcy. The government, it is fully realized, must take further decisive measures to balance the budget or, according to a leading financier, the country will soon be in the hands of a receiver.

The commonwealth became fearful of a financial crash when Premier J. T. Lang's drastic wage tax, which calls for a 25 per cent tax on all incomes, was adopted, and added to the mountain of taxation, direct and indirect, already in force.

New South Wales, greatest and most prodigal spender of the Australian states, is at its wits end for money. Despite the high exchange rates between Australia and England—30 per cent has been the bank rate for some time past—the flight of capital, begun because of the fear that inflation would follow in the wake of the mounting deficits, has risen to a high point. Millions of dollars have been pouring overseas, particularly to nearby New Zealand, and the land is rapidly becoming denuded of credit.

Public Hoarding Silver.

The disappearance of silver is also vexing the Commonwealth bank. In the last few months silver coins of the larger sizes have vanished from circulation and today the country has not enough on hand for its needs. Stocks in the banks are practically exhausted.

An investigation has served to show that the missing silver is being secretly hoarded as confidence in paper money is vanishing. Millions of silver coins have gone out of circulation. Many are being smuggled into New Zealand. The coins are being hoarded despite the warnings of bank officials that silver coinage is only a token coinage and a shilling normally worth about 25 cents is today worth only about five cents.

Out of a total population of 6,500,000 Australia today has a jobless total exceeding 463,000, according to government statistics.

Thousands of these unemployed men have become gold prospectors and the old and abandoned gold fields are again the scene of feverish activity. All are digging for glittering dust or nuggets. In western Australia, a 17 year old boy discovered one pure lump of gold weighing over 1,000 ounces and worth more than $20,000. Just a few days ago another prospector picked up a nugget weighing 59 ounces on an abandoned gold field near Bendigo.

The federal government is paying a bounty of $2.50 per ounce for all gold found. New South Wales, Victoria, and West Australia are the fields of operation.

WOMAN'S STORY BARES DIVORCE MILL IN GOTHAM

New York, Sept. 4.—[Special.]—The validity of approximately 3,000 divorces in New York City and other parts of the state was called into question today when divorce plots on a huge scale were charged to a Long Island lawyer.

A warrant charging subornation of perjury was issued in Nassau county for Louis Greenspan, Jamaica attorney, specializing in divorces, but the lawyer had vanished from his luxurious suite of offices. One of Greenspan's clients, a principal in a case alleged to have been "framed" by the attorney, is held as a material witness.

Meanwhile hundreds of Greenspan's former clients who have since remarried are wondering tonight whether their marriages are legal.

Greenspan, it was said, handled only divorce and separation cases. His practice averaged 1,000 cases a year and many of his clients were drawn from the fashionable sections of Long Island.

The man held in the alleged "framed divorce" is Philip Paxton of Lynbrook, L. I., who obtained a divorce from Marian Paxton last year. The divorce, according to Prosecutor Edwards, was granted on testimony alleging misconduct on the part of Mrs. Paxton in Brooklyn in 1930. The wife, according to Mr. Edwards, only recently learned she had been divorced, and had not been in Brooklyn until this summer.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no institution has ever been able to provide."

DETERIORATION OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Rumor from Washington, ominously persisting, gives warning that the President's economy planning includes reductions for the army and navy. Why a weakening of the national defenses should be considered while the theory of an increase of public works as a relief for depression is in the foreground of the administrative policy we cannot understand. Any examination of the present conditions of national defense shows solid reasons why reduction of expenditure in this field is less justifiable than in any other. If in the name of economy we are to reduce expenditure it should be accomplished in other ways than by the reduction of expenditures on the army and navy, which already are below the minimum which prudent policy would demand. But if because of the depression we are to increase expenditure upon public works, there is no public work for which expenditure is more expedient than upon our national defense establishment.

The naval situation especially challenges the inconsistency and impolicy of retrenchment. The present government has explicitly declared the policy of parity with Great Britain, and after the London treaty took credit for having procured its formal acceptance in principle. But this is a fallacious, and mischievous assumption if it is not supported by a program and course of action which will realize parity. Yet the facts, as analyzed by Navy league specialists, are that at the close of 1930 our fleet was 13 per cent below treaty strength, and it is estimated will be 20 per cent below by the end of 1931 in spite of current building and because of the obsolescence of ships under treaty definition. By the time the treaty expires, the end of 1936, the fleet will be nearly 50 per cent, the league estimates, below the effective tonnage fixed by treaty stipulations—unless a compensating replacement and upbuilding program is promptly started and consistently carried out.

To resort to further reductions in the face of these conditions could be accounted for only on the assumption that the administration's devotion to parity with Great Britain is a sham. If the President and congress are not bent upon adopting a policy not of naval parity but of permanent naval inferiority they will proceed without further postponement to realise our much advertised treaty, and not only check our rapid loss of relative naval strength but build it up in accordance with the policy which they both have theoretically approved and which, apart from pacifists and apologetic Americans, the nation demands shall be realised.

When secretary of state, Chief Justice Hughes said: "It is essential that we should maintain the relative naval strength of the United States. That, in my judgment, is the way of peace and security. It will be upon that basis that we would enter in future conferences or make agreements for limitation, and it would be folly to undermine our position." That wise opinion undoubtedly had the support of the American people, with the exception of the individuals referred to. But it has not been respected. We have fallen steadily behind in relative strength, and unless we change we shall find ourselves in a condition of hopeless disadvantage in all future conferences. We were at a disadvantage at London in 1930. We shall be at a disadvantage at Geneva in 1932. We have not maintained the relative naval strength of the United States as a basis on which to enter future conferences or make agreements for limitation, although our government is constantly using its influence to bring about new conferences and new agreements for limitation. We have committed what Secretary Hughes rightly called the folly of undermining our position while our government is persistently using its influence to create new situations in which our position will be challenged and, if experience teaches anything, will be still further weakened. We have ignored Secretary Hughes' wise counsel and clear warning, and, if persistent report be true, our government is now planning on the eve of another conference not to maintain our relative strength but still further to reduce it, not to strengthen our position but still further to undermine it.

MARTIAL LAW IN THE WEST.

The governors of three western states have recently established martial law, the governor of Oklahoma because of the bridge controversy and again because of the oil situation, the governor of Texas because of similar complications, and the governor of Idaho because of an outbreak of incendiarism.

Americans have always in the past held the declaration of martial law to be a last resort, to be adopted only after the breakdown of normal agencies of law enforcement and the imminent threat of anarchy in any district. Perhaps the situations which have brought about this emergency action in the west are of this character, but they hardly seem so at this distance, and if they are they indicate a lack of civic responsibility and a feebleness of the ordinary agencies of orderly government that must be humiliating to the better citizenship of these commonwealths.

Idaho is one of the states which were endowed with the status and responsibilities of statehood prematurely, and it would seem that its people have not yet developed the degree of civic responsibility required of a sovereign, self-governing political body. Oklahoma also was hurried into statehood apparently without proper consideration of its preparedness to establish respectable institutions or to respect them. Texas, on the other hand, has had three-quarters of a century of independent political existence and social evolution, and though frontier characteristics have persisted it might have been expected that by this time it would have developed as a community a self-discipline and public order which could be relied upon in such emergencies as have lately arisen without a resort to such an extreme measure as martial law.

All these states are assuming to be free, self-governing communities, and the readiness with which their governors have resorted to a measure we associate only with autocratic government throws a peculiar light upon their political condition. How does it happen that in such controversies and circumstances as appeared the established agencies of order were so inadequate that measures justifiable in American opinion only in case of most serious disorder were resorted to and accepted by the people? Surely something is radically wrong in the political conditions of these communities, or does this represent a still wider and graver phenomenon—namely: a lack of self-reliance and a general tendency among Americans of this generation to extend the powers of government in every direction, upon any plausible excuse, and without regard to the progressive impairment of our American ideals and principles? Martial law is a surrender of civil superiority and the imposition of an unlimited military force. Only grave extremity justifies it under the American conception of free government. Is Americanism fading out of the American scene?

THE BOOTLEGGING OF GASOLINE.

Gov. Emmerson is reported as favoring the appointment of a commission to inquire into the bootlegging of gasoline into Illinois to evade the tax. This is a somewhat unusual application of the commission idea in government. The collection of the gasoline tax is as nearly a purely administrative function as any with which the government is concerned. If the tax is being evaded it is because the police are failing in their duty. The governor does not need a commission to tell him that or to suggest means of preventing the abuse. That is his job.

How serious the evasion of the gasoline tax is we do not know, but it seems likely that the extent of the abuse has been considerably exaggerated in some minds. There is, at present, no general or widespread conviction that the tax is unjust. The parallel between the so-called bootlegging of gasoline and the bootlegging of liquor is little more than verbal. The prohibition law is widely regarded as stupid and its evasion accordingly is not frowned upon by large and influential sections of public opinion; the gasoline tax, on the contrary, is almost universally regarded as a reasonable method of obtaining revenue for the building and maintenance of highways. Public opinion is therefore opposed to the bootlegging of gasoline and no doubt juries will not hesitate to punish the offense.

While this is the situation today, a shift in public opinion regarding the tax is not unthinkable. If the state legislature continues to apportion the tax as it has in recent years, giving back to the cities, and, especially Chicago, in road improvements only a negligible proportion of the sums collected from urban motorists, it is not unlikely that automobile owners in the cities will come to resent the tax and perhaps to seek to evade it precisely as their forefathers sought to evade a certain tax on tea.

AGRICULTURE'S CASE AGAINST RATE INCREASES.

The argument of agriculture against the proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad rates has been summarized as follows: While one branch of the government, the farm board, is trying to lift agriculture out of its depression, another branch, the interstate commerce commission, is being asked to push it down.

If that were all there is to the farmer's objection to higher rates, his case would be pretty weak. The reply is almost obvious: The government has appropriated and spent hundreds of millions of dollars in the effort to raise farm prices, and its only contribution to the railroads has been for the support of a commission which has usually lowered rates and has always hampered the freedom of the railroads in solving their own difficulties.

ROOSEVELT'S RELIEF PLAN.

[The New York Sun.]

Gov. Roosevelt's plan for distribution of state funds for the relief of the unemployed poor is, according to his own words, a dollar matching scheme:

"Based on the theory that the distribution of relief of the poor is essentially a local function, I believe that the state, in supplementing the amounts locally raised, should seek so far as possible to encourage local initiative by matching local effort, so that the larger the amount raised locally the larger the contribution by the state."

Dollar matching may work with some degree of success in prosperous times, when, for instance, the federal government is bribing a state to build roads. But how will it function in this case? It is natural to suppose that a community with a large number of poor persons will be relatively low in the amount of money raised locally. Under the Roosevelt plan, that community will receive from the state a smaller number of matched dollars than a richer community where the needs of the indigent may be far less.

The governor wishes to raise the $20,000,000 or more of relief money by increasing the state income tax 50 per cent. Mr. Roosevelt has turned to the easiest way of collecting money. It is evident, however, that he has not considered the effect that the collection of such a tax would have on private contributions to philanthropic agencies. Human nature being what it is, persons solicited for private contributions might well justify refusal to contribute on the ground that they have already given to the cause through the 50 per cent increase in their income tax.

For a well bred hostess just has to serve spinach; there's some kind of law about it or something.

DOWN IN WASHINGTON they are terribly excited over rumors that Alice Roosevelt Longworth is about to be launched as either an editor of a daily paper or a magazine, or else make her debut as a columnist. Mrs. Longworth ought to make a much snappier columnist than Cal Coolidge, for instance. She once spoke of the Republicans, who had been deprived at that time of one of their main issues, as acting like a flea that had lost his dog.

WE'RE NOT SO KEEN OVER RADIO as to keep ours turned on eighteen hours out of the twenty-four. Not by eighteen hours. But we did go over to the big N. B. C. station Wednesday night to see and hear Katherine Krug make her debut over the mike in a play called "Curtain." And interesting it all was. As a one time radio speaker ourself, we feel we were about born and raised in a broadcasting room, but the N. B. C. station interested even us. In the first place, it reminded us a little of a seance, twenty or thirty people sitting around on chairs, as still as mice we've known never are, and so tense they were almost holding their breath, furniture being moved mysteriously from here to there, and every now and then a muffled knock that reminded us that Conan Doyle is very happy there. We were almost surprised that there wasn't a ouija board and that Katherine Krug is too pretty to be a medium even when, a hundred or so years from now, she's old enough. But, to finish off the whole thing, just then a couple of gentlemanly ushers wheeled in a door! It seems in the play there is a knock on the door, and, by gosh, if they weren't going to have a regular honest to goodness door right there by the mike to knock on. After that we're going to treat radio with the respect it deserves, even if we won't listen to it.

THAT EXTREMES do occasionally meet is shown by actions somewhat similar of a government conducted by the people and a practical monarchy. The new republic of Spain has summoned ex-King Alfonso to trial for various crimes they allege he committed while he was monarch. Alfonso, of course, declines to attend his trial, as he will be busy at that time shooting grouse in England, but the trial will proceed just the same. Henry VIII. ordered Archbishop Thomas à Becket to trial, found him guilty, and imposed a heavy fine on him. The archbishop also was not present at the trial, as he had been dead almost three hundred years, but a little thing like that didn't stop Henry or his judges.

THE JAPS settled the matter about Lindy being a hero by serving him a dish of dried squid mixed with dried chestnuts at a dinner in Tokio, a dish that signifies triumph and which is served only to conquering heroes. Which makes us glad to walk on amidst humble men and unknown to fame, since being a hero involves one in dining off dried squid. We have never eaten dried squid, and if it tastes as horrible as it sounds we never want to. Maybe the eating of dry squid is the test of heroism instead of the reward for that lovely virtue. Anyhow, a man who eats it is a hero afterwards if he wasn't before.

CAROTINEMIA A DISORDER, NOT A DISEASE.

ANY person who eats yellow foods habitually is likely to turn yellow. [There are vague rumors that in high social circles of Chinese society the young ladies eat orange peel in order to acquire an exquisite yellow complexion.] The first report of a case of yellowness of the skin resulting from eating orange peel came from Japan. Since then, such discoloration from eating yellow vegetables and fruit by yellow races may have been frequent.

But most of the reports of such cases finding their way into the literature have come from lands inhabited by whites. It happens occasionally that a woman will go on a diet of carrots in order to improve her complexion, and will find her skin a golden yellow. Maybe her picture will find its way into a medical journal or a book on diseases of the skin.

The foods most likely to cause the skin to take on a nice yellow tinge are carrots, pumpkins, yellow squash, yellow turnips, parsnips, spinach, lettuce, green and yellow beans, kale, oranges, and eggs. I know of no reason for excluding yellow corn from the list. Yellow butter and butterine may also cause the pigmentation provided they are used in connection with a vegetarian diet. A vegetarian dinner, served with a poached egg, may color the skin because of the pigments of the vegetables and, to this, the yellow of the egg contributes a part.

The objections to the disorder, if it can be called such, are wholly cosmetic. A yellow skin is not considered ornamental. The pigment does not harm the texture of the skin, nor does the discoloration persist long after the causative food has been discarded from the diet list. On the other hand, carotinemia—for such is the name the disorder goes by—is chiefly important for what it is not. It is not jaundice and it does not signify gallstones, infected gall bladder, nor infective jaundice. It is not yellow fever, malaria with jaundice, nor pernicious anemia. It is not any organic disease nor serious disease or condition of any sort.

However, there is sometimes a little connection between carotinemia and diabetes. Diabetics turn yellow on the slightest provocation. They are liable to turn yellow after eating carrots one week, whereas one without diabetes might need to stick to the vegetable a month or more to take on a golden hue. Therefore, when a person has developed carotinemia an examination for diabetes is a proper precaution.

TREATING TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. C. W. P. writes: I was a case of bone and lung tuberculosis. I had bloody sputum. I was cured by taking viosterol.

Viosterol is rich in vitamin D. Vitamin D regulates the lime in the body. Tuberculosis is arrested by formation of lime around the diseased area.

REPLY.

Your letter is interesting and you are to be congratulated on your good fortune, but your conclusions are much too broad for its foundation. An opinion based on one experience is liable to be misleading. Tuberculosis has been known to get well under scores of different treatments. Some of these treatments have aided the cure. In some, cure has come about in spite of treatment. Your reasoning is interesting but not necessarily correct. For instance, you cannot prove that it is formation of lime in tubercles that arrests the tuberculosis process. It is true that old, broken down tubercular tissues become calcareous. But the laying down of lime in such an area comes after the cure. It is an effect and not a cause. Nevertheless, there is reason for thinking viosterol has a place in the treatment of tuberculosis.

NIGHTMARE.

A Reader writes: J. N. H. recently wrote about his problem. He can't move his muscles, although he is conscious and would like to do so.

For years I had the same thing and, finally, in an emergency, when I just had to move, something within me said: "Move your little toe or little finger—you can always do that—then all the other muscles will respond also." I did, and sure enough, it worked and always worked after that until, after a brief period, the whole thing disappeared.

BOY WHO STAMMERS.

Mrs. M. O. writes: I have a son four years of age. He stammers and rolls his eyes when he is trying to say something. Is there any cure for one so young? What can I do to help him?

REPLY.

Now is the time to cure your boy. Cure is a matter of training. Your child must be quite nervous and instable.

UNPAID BILL.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last January my wife had her glasses repaired, the bill amounting to four dollars. I am unable to pay. I have received a letter stating that if the bill is not paid same will be placed in the hands of a collector. 1. If such steps are taken will I be obliged to meet collector's fee or just the four dollars? 2. If I refuse to pay collector, what attitude can he take? 3. What is the lowest monthly payment I can make with or without aid of the collector? 4. Can I be forced into court for failure to pay? P. A. T.

1. Unless you have signed an agreement to pay costs of collection the only amount that could be added to the $4 would be court costs, which would be small.
2. Any attitude he pleases.
3. No payment of less than the full amount due will protect you.
4. Yes, but it does not seem likely that the creditor will bother with court proceedings on so small a claim.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 5, 1915.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—All United States soldiers at Fort Brown were ordered to arms. Nine thousand Carranza soldiers are known to be mobilized in the states of Tamaulipas and Nueva Leon, and an organized invasion of Texas at some point on the lower border is feared. Ten Mexicans are known to be dead and as many more are believed to have been killed in a battle today between Carranza and United States soldiers. One American trooper—John Salvini—was wounded and taken to Mission. The battle was between 80 United States cavalrymen, aided by a force of Texas rangers and armed citizens, and a Mexican force. The battle was waged practically the entire day, the two forces firing at each other across the Rio Grande, west of Old Hidalgo, Tex.

LONDON.—The German forces under Gen. von Beseler stormed and captured the bridgehead at Friedrichstadt. The furiousness with which the attack is being directed in this region leads military experts to believe that the fall of the city itself and the cutting of the Riga-Dvinsk railway which runs through it are matters of only a few days.

PARIS.—Heavy fighting for the possession of the Vauquois plateau in the Argonne has been resumed, with the French on the offensive, the war office reported.

LONDON.—The New York World correspondent received positive evidence by the perusal of actual documents that James F. J. Archibald, the American correspondent who was temporarily detained by the naval authorities in Falmouth because of his pro-German writings, had in his possession important manuscripts bearing the signatures of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador; Ambassador Dumba of Austria, and Count von Papen, the German military attaché in Washington. Among the papers was a letter from Dumba to Foreign Minister Burlen in Vienna boldly explaining how munition works throughout America could be crippled in the Teutonic cause.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 5, 1901.

POTSDAM.—Prince Chun, brother of the emperor of China, bowed low in the presence of Kaiser Wilhelm today and formally expressed the regret of his government for the murder of Baron von Ketteler in Peking more than a year ago. The ceremony was made as impressive as the kaiser could make it. The prince was made to feel that he could not be received with the honors due his rank until he had fulfilled his expiatory mission.

NEW YORK.—A chance to end the steel strike with some degree of dignity to the Amalgamated association and to President Shaffer was offered to Shaffer and he rejected it. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, and a committee of the National Civic federation named the conditions upon which they would be willing to end the strike. The conditions related to recognizing union and nonunion mills.

CHICAGO.—The Lincoln park board in estimating its expenses for next year decided to cut the total nearly $1,000,000 below last year's estimate and ask for $465,850.

YOKOHAMA.—Japan bitterly resents the alleged outrageous treatment of Japanese women on the steamship Nippon Maru by the quarantine officers of Hawaii. The health officer at Honolulu, it is charged, submitted Japanese women to the indignity of a physical examination when women of other nations were passed without question.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Preparations are under way to remove President Garfield from the White House to Long Branch, and today or tomorrow will witness his transfer from the capitol. On the eve of the trip this is his condition: First, he is suffering from an unhealed gunshot wound, the length of which is estimated at 16 inches; second, from a compound fracture of the tenth and a contusion of the eleventh rib made by the bullet; third, from the presence in the body of a jagged lead bullet, not encysted, and traveling slowly downward; and, fourth, from a poisonous state of the blood of which the inflamed parotid gland is a symptom. At 1:30 o'clock this morning the President is resting quietly, with no indications of any material change in his condition. The train on which the President will be taken to Long Branch is reported to have left the Altoona shops and will arrive at Washington tonight.

TUCSON, Ariz.—The Star has received this dispatch from Thomas, A. T.: Reports from the vicinity of Fort Apache of the depredations of hostile Indians are confirmed by the fresh arrivals of Indian runners, but no message has been received from Maj. Cochrane, who was sent to relieve Fort Apache and Gen. Carr's command, and it is confirmed that Gen. Carr and his entire command, companies D and E of the 6th cavalry, consisting of about 114 men, have been massacred by the White Mountain branch of the Apache tribe of Indians.

CHICAGO.—Col. Volkmar at army headquarters here received dispatches that confirm the massacre of Gen. Carr and the cavalry in Arizona, but leave the capture of the post still in doubt.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

Dubuque, Ia., Sept. 2.—Pennsylvania, like other states, is breaking or ignoring some statutes, but there is one law which, according to Gov. Pinchot, is being enforced there, and that is the law of diminishing returns. This law set in immediately when Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff act over the protest of the outraged Canadian customers. Its operation has been accelerated by retaliatory legislation enacted by over thirty nations, and its effects are cumulative among the people of the "backward states," the "sons of wild jackasses." Thus the history of class legislation repeats itself inevitably in disaster.

But Pennsylvania, having been for fifty years the beneficiary of special legislation, now proposes that congress shall pension her poor and unemployed. The funds would be raised by general taxation and the agricultural states would pay their quota, but, having few unemployed, they would get very little of the pension. Thus the people of the "backward states" would be supporting those who insulted them two years ago. The permanence of the pension, once it has been started, is a factor that apparently escapes the attention of the proponents of that form of charity. The most casual reader of history realizes that it would never be possible to repeal a pension law of any kind.

The experience of Rome is a case in point. The lex frumentaria of Caius Gracchus to furnish corn to the poor and unemployed at very low prices was passed in 123 B. C. From that time until the fall of Rome in 410 A. D., a period of over 500 years, the poor relief was a constantly increasing burden on the empire. From the time of Nero on free amusement and free baths were added to free food and clothing and shelter. Trajan, who ruled when the empire was at the height of its prosperity, found it necessary to add money to the other gifts. It is safe to say that during the peak of our boom in 1928 Pennsylvania could have mustered at least 200,000 people who could have qualified under any form of a relief law that it is possible to frame. There is a strange quirk about human mentality that will permit an individual to accept, or even demand as his right, charity when it is called some other name, such as pension, alimony, unemployment relief, etc. Governments come and go, customs change, "but the poor ye have always with ye."

BARRED FROM CRANE COLLEGE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—My daughter, a graduate of a four year course from the Carl Schurz High school, has been denied admission to Crane college because she did not signify her intention of going there before Aug. 1. She did not expect to go to school, but to work, but, due to her inability to obtain a position, I deemed it fitting that she continue her schooling. As a taxpayer who has paid his taxes I ask, Why should not the board of education be held as liable for the delinquency of a child as a parent who keeps his child out of school?

PERSISTENCE REWARDED.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Miss Shedd's letter in today's column says that an Empress Eugenie hat makes her look like a jackass. I shall tell her why: She does not know how to put one on properly, for they must be put on at just the right angle or the effect is spoiled; or she has not chosen a model to suit her full moon Irish face. I, too, have a full moon face, although it's not Irish, and my features are far from perfect, but with a little effort I found the type of Empress Eugenie that suits my face perfectly—in fact, flatters me very much. So, Miss Shedd, do try again and experience the thrill of wearing an Empress Eugenie that will make you look and feel different.

INCIDENT ON THE "L."

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 1.—Last Sunday evening, in the company of three other persons, I entered the Diversey avenue elevated station, and, much to my surprise, the ticket agent was absent, although the hour was not late. After boarding the train I offered the guard, who was also acting as collector, the sum of 50 cents, the fare to Evanston for the four of us. The conductor informed me, however, that he did not possess Evanston tickets, which are sold at Howard street. He attempted to apologize, after a fashion, for his lack. He was forced to charge the regular fare of ten cents per person, which permitted us to ride to Howard street, the city limits, and after boarding an Evanston train I was then called upon to pay an additional twenty-eight cents to permit us to proceed to our destination.

The additional cost, therefore, on account of crass and stupid inefficiency on the part of the elevated lines was eighteen cents, and if this procedure was employed sufficiently there seems to be no reason why the ticket agents should not be restored, if their discharge was caused by financial stringency.

CAMPS FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 31.—In taking care of the unemployed in Illinois this winter the costs could be kept down by sending them (at least, all the unmarried) to Florida or some other southern state and establishing them in encampments where they would require no clothing, less heavy and costly food, and less coal. Many of them would probably be boosted in health by the sunshine instead of the shocks of our winter. The National Guards of a few states could furnish tents and it would be a good service stunt for squads of them or details from the regular army to command and manage such encampments. The army service would be helped and the people in the encampments would gain a higher respect for the army, while at the same time learning much on how to do things.

I have 500 acres in central Florida which I offer for such an encampment. A friend owns several thousand acres which I believe could be had.

OLD IRONSIDES.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Some years ago we were all stirred up patriotically by the drive which was made to reconstruct the old battleship Constitution. Now that this has been accomplished, I, for one, was pained to see a picture of the craft entering New York harbor towed by a naval vessel. Thousands of dollars, I understand, were spent for new masts, spars, and rigging, and yet here she is visiting our great eastern port without a yard of canvas open to the wind. Could not Uncle Sam have gone down among the Gloucester whalers and have picked up enough sturdy boys who are not afraid to climb into the rigging to reef a sail when there comes a blow? I, for one, hope that this good ship will visit Chicago, but I want to see her come down Lake Michigan with canvas set and perhaps have a vivid realization of that splendid picture, "Old Ironsides," that hangs in so many of our homes. How about it?

ALFALFA BILL FOR PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—After reading editorials in THE TRIBUNE lambasting Alfalfa Bill Murray, I wish to come to his defense by stating that at the present time he is fulfilling the duties of his office better than any other official in the United States. He has the interest of the working people at heart. I know of nothing that would make me more happy than to wear a Democratic presidential nominee button with his picture upon it, ably inscribed "Alfalfa Bill for President."

SPEED UP RAIL BOOST HEARINGS; CLOSE TONIGHT

Farmers and Retailers Add to Protests.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Interstate commerce commissioners hearing the protests of shippers against the 15 per cent increase in freight rates sought by the railroads rushed their work yesterday in order to conclude by tonight. A fourth separate hearing was ordered for the farmer objectors and a night session was held. The commissioners plan to adjourn tonight to meet again in Washington on Sept. 21, when the final arguments will be heard. In view of the emergency plea of the railroads a decision is expected next month.

EARL C. SMITH.

Farmers, miners, canners and retail dealers voiced their objections to the increase at the Hotel Sherman sessions yesterday. Great charts, maps and graphs had been prepared by experts and the record was piled up with hundreds of thousands of more words for the commissioners to digest. It is estimated that the Chicago hearings have cost the shipping public at least $100,000. Dozens of $75 a day experts are ready to enlighten the commission on any phase of industry.

Most Shippers Oppose Increase.

Almost without exception the shippers opposed the increase at this time, on the strength of figures showing that their particular branch of industry cannot stand any more burdens. The plea of the railroad economists that the increase spread over the consuming public would not mean more than a cent a day to each person has fallen on deaf ears.

On every side the threat is held out to the railroads that traffic will be diverted to truck or water. New automobiles will be driven to their destinations. Metals from Utah and California, now sent overland by rail, will go through the Panama canal. The canners and retail grocers have been going "water minded" anyway, and will divert more and more shipments to the barge and coastwise routes.

All this, of course, has been taken into consideration by the railroad executives, and their traffic departments think they will get a substantial increase in revenue from the rate increase. This is the big problem the commission must decide.

Practical Farmers Heard.

The practical farmers and heads of farmer organizations had their special day in court yesterday. Practically every great agricultural state was represented in the opposition to a rate increase.

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, said the increase would cost the grain and live stock growers of Illinois from two and a half to three million dollars more annually.

"Anything tending to reduce the farmer's present income will have to be taken from his capital investment," Mr. Smith said. "With few exceptions, commodity units are now being produced at a loss."

O. W. Sandberg, director of transportation for the American Farm Bureau federation, said the increase would add more than $150,000,000 annually to the farmer's freight bill. Most of this burden, he said, would fall on the great agricultural districts of the central states from Illinois to the Rockies

"Farm Problem Is Great."

"We will admit," Mr. Sandberg declared, "that the railroads have a problem, but agriculture's problem is vastly more aggravated and our farmers have faced it for more than a decade, while the railroads did not begin to worry until slightly more than a year ago."

He submitted a table to show what the 15 per cent increase would mean to individual farmers. The Kansas wheat farmer, he said, would face an increase of $27.99 to get a carload of wheat to market, while a car of Illinois corn would call for $21.85 more freight charges, and a car of oats would require $17.20 more.

C. E. Hearst of Cedar Falls, Ia., vice president of the Farm Bureau federation; C. R. White of Ionia, N. Y., president of the New York Farm Bureau, and Edgar A. O'Neal were other important farm industry witnesses. Mr. Hearst said that agricultural credit had collapsed. Several agricultural economists from western colleges submitted charts and tabulations on all phases of farm industry. One witness from Colorado had figures to show that the salary of a life insurance president in his state was equal to 300,000 bushels of wheat, raised on 10,000 Colorado acres.

"No man is worth it," he said. "The wheat farmer is not being treated fairly."

Coal Men Present Case.

C. P. Hoy of St. Louis, representing Illinois coal operators, said the railroads were losing 865,000 tons to trucks at present and if the rate increase is granted they would lose 500,000 more tons. Operators and dealers from Indiana and Kentucky also protested and said all the short hauls would be diverted to trucks.

George I. Methe, president of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, representing 240 retailers, told the commission that the proposed rate increase would result in an increase of 47 cents a ton for the West Virginia coal used for domestic purposes. The coal and coke buyers could not stand it, he said, as it would make the rates to Chicago the highest in history.

Mark C. Hutchinson of Fenville, Mich., president of the National Canners' association, said that industry was in no condition to meet the raise. A further diversion to water could be expected, he said, if the increase was granted.

Walter I. Trammell, traffic manager of the American Smelting and Refining company, objected to the increase because mining is "in the gravest depression in the history of the industry."

MISS POLAND WED

MRS. WALTER GRABOWSKI.

Santa Ana, Cal. Sept. 4.—(AP)—The "Miss Poland" of 1928—Janina Smolinska, now a Hollywood motion picture actress—was married to Walter Grabowski, Los Angeles manufacturer, before a justice of the peace here yesterday.

Miss Smolinska recently become involved in deportation proceedings because she had overstayed her passport time in this country. At the time she disclosed plans to marry and return here as the wife of an American citizen, or perhaps obtain permission to remain here. Her case is before authorities at Washington.

VETERANS VOTE FOR REPEAL OF VOLSTEAD LAW

Urge Further U.S. Aid for Ex-Soldiers.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Resolutions favoring additional federal expenditures in behalf of world war veterans and submission to state conventions of a proposal to repeal national prohibition were indorsed by Veterans of Foreign Wars here today in closing their national encampment.

Darrold D. De Coe, Sacramento, Cal., was elevated by acclamation to the office of commander in chief and Sacramento was chosen for next year's encampment.

The veterans, who had been requested by spokesmen of the Hoover administration to exert caution in formulating their requests for aid, voted for immediate payment in full of adjusted service compensation certificates, refunding of interest on bonus loans, and pensions for widows and orphans of world war soldiers.

Want Modification Now.

Barney Yanofsky, editor of the V. F. W. magazine, said the prohibition resolution, which also called for immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize beverages containing 4 per cent alcohol, was a public expression of the veterans on the question, but will not be a part of their legislative recommendations to congress.

The prohibition resolution noted it was submitted "to the end that law in America may again reflect public opinion and respect and deserve obedience from all good citizens."

Council Members Chosen.

DRY AGENTS NOT TO DRINK UNLESS ON "PERMISSION"

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Drinking liquor in order to obtain evidence was specifically forbidden to prohibition agents today in a circular letter sent by Director of Prohibition Amos W. W. Woodcock to all administrators, deputy administrators and agents in charge.

Exception was made, however, in certain cases. But in these cases, Col. Woodcock directed, agents are not to drink except with special permission given in advance by the district administrator.

"It is, in my judgment, no longer necessary for any prohibition agent to consume intoxicating liquor," Col. Woodcock wrote. "I direct that you try the method of abating these nuisances by the observation method or by the method of purchase of liquor, not for consumption.

"It is conceivable that there are still places in some districts where the older method will be necessary. If such places exist, administrators are authorized to give special permission in advance for agents to consume intoxicating liquor upon the premises, but this permission must be given in advance for each particular place before any agent in this service will be permitted to consume intoxicating liquor."

Agents were further directed to attempt first, to try to stop the supply of intoxicants; if unsuccessful in this, then to proceed against speakeasies by injunction.

NEW LOOP FIRM TO SELL LONDON MADE CLOTHES

Leases Space in Republic Building.

BY AL CHASE.

Pictures of the British metropolis in the windows of the first floor of the Republic building at the southeast corner of State and Adams, accompanied by the words "London to Chicago," which have puzzled passersby for several days were explained yesterday when it was learned that a new firm is to enter the Chicago field. London Mode, Ltd., has leased the space formerly occupied by Joseph Hilton & Sons, which recently liquidated their Chicago branch.

The new lessee shortly will open a store which will sell London made ready to wear clothes in competition with the popular priced Yankee clothing chain stores. The first floor store and basement have been leased for a term of years from the Strong estate, owner of the Republic building. James Belanger, vice president of Gordon Strong & Co., negotiated the lease.

Walgreen Gets Corner.

The Walgreen company yesterday leased the store at the northeast corner of Grand and Harlem avenues, containing approximately 2,000 square feet, from Nicholas Andrews for a fifteen year term. The space is now occupied by a candy store. Gus C. Manos was the only broker in the transaction.

Title to the vacant 95x109 at the southeast corner of Delaware place and De Witt court has been transferred to the Delashore Building corporation, of which Harriet M. Smulski is president and A. I. Miktyn is secretary, to Harold R. Weinacker, who, it is stated, has taken title for the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

Title to the northwest corner of Oakley avenue and West 112th place, 62x155, has been acquired by Cecil Bothwell from Charles Wilson. The property was transferred by master's deed to Clarence H. Wendt by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wendt then transferred title by quitclaim deed to Mr. Bothwell.

Buy 100 Acre Farm.

Dr. Alexander Javois and his wife, Loretta, of 4459 South California avenue, have purchased a hundred acre tract just outside of Lemont, at the southwest corner of 131st street and Derby road, from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, and will operate the property as a farm, eventually making it their permanent home. They probably will build a summer home on it next year. The Midland company represented the buyers. Otto C. Rentner was attorney.

Nona A. Gurwell of 1523 East 65th place has purchased the three apartment building at 8147 Eberhart avenue from Robert D. Hocking of 500 West 63d street for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $13,500. John R. Lang of McKey & Poague's south short office represented both parties.

Constance Bennett Goes to New York Hospital

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Constance Bennett, screen star who recently returned from Europe, is in a hospital here. She is understood to be suffering adhesions following an appendicitis operation more than a year ago. She was accompanied to the hospital by her sister Barbara and the latter's husband, Morton Downey, radio singer, and the Marquis de la Falaise.

Watchmaker Fears Sight Is Failing; Ends Life

Frank Lucansky, 54 years old, 4053 Nelson street, a watchmaker, ended his life early this morning by turning on the gas in the kitchen of his home. He had been ill for some time and feared that his sight was failing, according to his family.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Change Ahead

INDICT 5 CAPITAL POLICEMEN FOR BRUTAL METHODS

Grand Jury Also Hits Higher-ups.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—The district grand jury today climaxed its investigation of police brutalities by indicting five policemen on charges of assault. The jury also recommended reappointment of one policeman dismissed from the force two years ago and the dismissal of another. In making its recommendations the grand jurors scathingly denounced the local police force and asserted that a false sense of loyalty on the part of its members made it virtually impossible for an investigating body to obtain evidence.

Those Indicted.

The indicted policemen are Detective James A. Mostyn, accused of beating three prisoners on Aug. 22; Private William R. Laflin, accused of assault on two prisoners; Privates William T. Burroughs and William C. Grooms, indicted for assault on James Henry Harker, whose protest precipitated the brutality scandal, and Private George E. Perry, charged with clubbing a prisoner on Aug. 21.

The most vehement denunciation of the police force, was contained in the grand jury's report on the case of former Policeman Orville Staples, who was dismissed from the force in 1928.

Admits "Framing" Another.

The clearing up of the Staples case after three years followed receipt of an affidavit from former Policeman Frederick A. Schenck, now at Leavenworth on a twenty year's sentence. In it, Schenck admitted his part in causing untrue charges to be brought against Staples, and involved another policeman, Joseph H. Hunt.

The grand jury found that Staples had been tried and dismissed on "perjured testimony by incompetent witnesses."

"We believe," the jury's report said, "that there exists in the metropolitan police department a false sense of loyalty supplemented by a vicious system of reprisals for those who tell the truth, that makes it imposible for a stationary body, such as the grand jury to secure evidence."

Wife Finds Other Women's Letters; Awarded Alimony

Last December George Koenig, 3741 Newcastle avenue, a contractor who installs stained glass in churches, sent his wife, Anna, and their son on a trip to Germany. When Mrs. Koenig returned in July she was served with notice of a divorce, charging cruelty. She found a number of letters in her home, indicating, she charges, that various women had occupied it with her husband in her absence, and filed a cross bill. Judge Harry B. Miller, in the Superior court, awarded her temporary alimony of $15 a week yesterday.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD, SO NOW CURTIS IS FREE

Josh Dorsey, 47 years old, a Negro, learned the drug business twenty-five years ago in a store owned by the Curtis family in Atlanta, Ga., where he worked as a porter. The family gave him an opportunity to go to school and become a pharmacist. Then he came to Chicago and established a store of his own at Green Bay avenue and 89th street.

On Wednesday night Dorsey noticed a man peering through the window of his store. He called the South Chicago police and had the man arrested as a suspicious character. The loiterer gave his name as Howell Curtis, 44 years old, and his former home as 804 West Main street, Knoxville, Tenn.

Curtis was arraigned yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct before Judge Freeman L. Fairbank in the South Chicago court. Dorsey stepped forward. "It's a small world," he said. "I sent a telegram to Atlanta and found out that Curtis is of the same family who operated the drug store where I worked twenty-five years ago. I would like to dismiss the charge."

Judge Fairbank freed Curtis.

RUM BOAT SUNK BY U. S. GUN FIRE; 1 MAN IS KILLED

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 5 (Saturday).—(AP)—Coast guard officials early today reported that one man was killed during pursuit of a rum boat off this port. They said he was Joseph Mello, 39, New Bedford. Mello was a member of the crew of the Lassghen. The four other members of the crew were arrested by coast guardsmen.

Boatswain's Mate Roy Fitzgerald, commanding a coast guard boat, said he sighted the Lassghen off the Cape Ann breakwater shortly after midnight and ordered the craft to stop. Orders to heave to were ignored, he said, and several shots were fired by the coast guardsmen.

When the Lassghen finally stopped, Fitzgerald said, they boarded the craft, found Mello dying, and started at once for port. One case of liquor was found on the Lassghen, he said. Mello died before they reached shore.

Fitzgerald said the Lassghen burst into flame and sank.

Chauffeur Shot Without Warning by Holdup Man

KIDNAPED IN A BUSINESS WAR, HE TELLS POLICE

Tobacco Salesman Has Weird Tale.

Mineola, L. I., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—The tobacco wars shifted to a new battlefield here today, when George J. Wemyss told the "full story" of the alleged kidnaping of which he had been the victim.

A one time salesman and promotion man for one of the companies, he explained that that organization had sought his retraction of certain statements he had made to the federal trade commission, and so had had him kidnaped and kept prisoner for a week "somewhere on the north shore of Long Island." His story was on the sensational side, in the best manner of the movies, but the Boston police seemed to credit it.

Wemyss appeared early yesterday morning in a police booth at new Hyde Park and asked the patrolman there to save him from his kidnapers. They brought him to Mineola, barefooted and scratched, and wearing only a tattered shirt and ragged trousers, where he told port of his tale to Inspector Harold R. King.

Consults His Attorney.

He would not reveal it all until the arrival of his attorney, Nathan M. Fink of Boston. The lawyer came down today, accompanied by Inspector John E. Dorsey, and after the conference was over Dorsey released most of Wemyss' story. Chronologically it was:

On Aug. 25 he went swimming off the L street dock, South Boston. He swam out quite a bit beyond the crowd, although he noticed another man following him. When they got away out there, they talked about how warm the water was. Suddenly everything went black. Wemyss assumed that his companion hit him over the head with a club. When he came to he was lying in a small boat, with two men—one of them being his fellow swimmer. They offered him a drink; he accepted. Everything went black again.

Comes To in a Cellar.

Once more he came to, this time in the cellar of a house, somewhere. Clothed very scantily while swimming, he had been provided with a shirt and a pair of khaki trousers. The two men began working on him, asking him to sign a suicide note, and a paper contradicting "certain statements he had signed," he was to receive $25,000 for the note, and passage to Ireland for himself and family. He refused.

Wednesday evening the two men became involved in a quarrel which culminated in a fight. During the brawl Wemyss made his escape.

In releasing the story, Inspector Dorsey said he understood there had been several earlier attempts on Wemyss' life. Once, swimming again, he had almost been run down by a speedboat—on purpose; and an automobile had also tried to strike him.

Youth Shot in Holdup of Father's Shop; May Die

Fred Sedlacek, 23 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded yesterday during a holdup of his father's candy store at 3134 West 25th street. Both robbers fled without loot. At St. Anthony's hospital, Fred's condition was reported grave.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 4.—[Special.] —A batch of short films on sports subjects, although not yet released, has attracted considerable attention in Hollywood. Made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the films show various amateur athletes of the United States Olympic team—runners, divers, swimmers, hurdlers, shot putters, vaulters, and jumpers of both sexes—doing their specialties, with a running verbal description by Pete Smith, ex-president of the Hollywood Wampas club.

Smith's comment is the pièce de résistance and probably means a film future for the young man, who formerly was a newspaper writer, and recently headed the studio's press agent department.

One of Smith's sports, showing the Los Angeles Olympic stadium, scene of the 1932 Olympic games, and purporting to give a characteristic radio broadcast of a Los Angeles sport event, with the announcer dilating on the sunny skies while the film itself shows forks of lightning, sheets of rain, and the sound track booms with thunder, nearly knocked some of them off their chairs with laughter when a special audience of newspaper and magazine people saw the film in preview at the studio.

Memory is keen here of the last New Year's day football game between Alabama and Washington State at Pasadena. There typewriters nearly floated out of the press stand in the downpour while the chain radio announcers were describing the sky as cloudless and the sun as beaming.

Georgia Coleman, woman amateur diving champion; Dutch Smith, Mickey Reilly, and other water stars; Lee Barnes, Herman Brix, Emerson [Bud] Spencer, Alma Richards, Lillian Copeland, and other track and field stars of Uncle Sam's team, romp through the pictures without molesting their amateur standing.

Maurice Chevalier will sing a couple more new tunes in his next film after returning from France. It will be "One Hour with You," film version of the European play, "Only a Dream," by Lother Goldschmitt.

Harold Lloyd Jr., at the age of 7 months is a perfectly healthy youngster of 14 pounds, totally unlike the midget of 2 pounds at birth which had to be kept alive artificially in an incubator for two months.

Pat Somerset, English actor whose marriages, divorces and romances, beginning with Edith Day in London and extending over New York and Hollywood for eight years made much front page newspaper copy, was discovered this week playing a $7.50 extra in Ruth Chatterton's picture, "Once a Lady," at Paramount.

For the first time in his screen career Harold Lloyd is using a woman as a member of his scenario and gag staff. She is Agnes Christine Johnson, in private life Mrs. Frank Dazey, wife of a novelist. Lloyd wanted his next film to have a feminine angle.

Italy Adjusts Wolf to Meet Cincinnati Ideas

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 4.—(AP)—A slight misunderstanding by the mayor of Rome on what constitutes a suitable wolf for the city of Cincinnati, appeared to have been corrected today. When Charles Ginocchio, Italian vice consul here, unpacked a reproduction of the "Lupa Capitolina" sent by the mayor on behalf of Premier Benito Mussolini, he discovered it to be only 30 inches long—scarcely suitable for a place reserved on an imposing pedestal in the public park. After a conversation with his home office he has been informed another reproduction, of larger size, is now on the way and will arrive in time for the convention of the Sons of Italy here Sept. 19-22.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover accompanied the President and their week-end guests to their Rapidan fishing camp this afternoon to remain over Labor day.

Senator and Mrs. William H. McMaster of Yankton, S. D., have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Dorothy, to Lieut. William Knowles Pottinger, U. S. M. C., on Saturday, Sept. 19, in St. Alban's church in the Washington Cathedral close at 4 o'clock.

Gen. John J. Pershing returned to Washington tonight after several months in Europe. He will be here for a few days only en route to Nebraska to visit his sister, Miss May Pershing, and his son, Warren, who is there with her.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president of the Woman's Democratic club, has returned to her suburban home after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ethel H. Russell, at Port Washington, L. I.

HOOVER WILL SPEAK AT YORKTOWN; SETS OCT. 19 U. S. HOLIDAY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The celebration of the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Oct. 19, will be attended by President Hoover. He will deliver an address on the site where the commander of the British forces surrendered his sword.

President Hoover has proclaimed Oct. 19 a holiday.

"It is fitting," the proclamation said, "that this momentous event in the history of our nation be commemorated in such a manner as to inspire love of our country and devotion to its ideals by recalling to this generation the struggles of the past."

The thirty-first President of the republic recommended that "appropriate religious ceremonies be held in the churches of the country on Sunday, Oct. 18, 1931, in commemoration of that event and in thanksgiving for the blessings that have been bestowed upon the people of the United States."

"Especially do I recommend," the proclamation added, "that Monday, Oct. 19, 1931, be fittingly observed in universities, schools, and other suitable places, to the end that patriotic lessons may be drawn from the spirit of courage and self-sacrifice which animated our forefathers."

New Responsibilities May Be What Restless Carefree Youth Needs

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

All fall and winter the mother had been intending to go to school to talk to her son's teacher, and at last one afternoon she got there.

The mother went over various things she had had on her mind—the boy's work in school, his special talent, his propensity for laughing and fooling, and found everything going quite well. His teacher said:

"His work is excellent—he has a decided gift as you probably know—and while his fooling was pretty disturbing at first, he's really settling down well. He has a fine mind and is very mature mentally. But he's rather immature in other ways—and has not nearly the sense of responsibility that he should have for his age. How is he at home?"

The boy's mother explained. "He is capable and takes certain things seriously—like his animals and his homework. But he's not as responsible a she should be. What would you suggest?"

"Well, I'd give him some new responsibilities. He's so used to the ones you mention that they no longer serve the purpose of developing that sense further. Give him other or additional things to be accountable for."

As the talk went on, the mother grew more and more serious, and she kept referring to the immaturity and lack of responsibility the teacher had mentioned.

Finaly, the teacher said, "You must not take this so hard. There is nothing in your son to worry about at all. These things are not serious. All children don't develop uniformly. I've had several rather immature, irresponsible boys—there were John S.—and George W.—and then, their last year before high school they suddenly lost their little-boyish, immature ways and developed wonderfully. Give him time."

Wise teacher, I think—don't you?

Smart Color Contrast Gets Into the Saddle

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—While their English compatriots across the channel are hunting in monotone riding outfits, the fashionable Parisienne takes the smart color contrast of her town clothes into the saddle. The fair followers of the chase around Compeigne and Rambouillet are wearing riding coats in one shade, vests in another, and breeches of something else.

Autumnal shades, to keep step with the painted foliage of fall, are favored by the elegante who goes a-hunting in France. Brown, white, and yellow mingle to make the riding ensembles worn by many fashionables. Green, brown, and white is another scheme that looks bright and is appropriate for the huntress.

The model sketched today combines the first named color harmony. The coat, which is attached with link buttons, is made of golden brown saddle cloth. It has a cutaway closing in front and the revers are widish like those on a man's smoking suit. The vest is yellow wool, and differs in no detail from a man's vest. The trousers are made of brown and white checked material and the boots are of polished brown calfskin.

With this costume a brown bowler hat is worn and the stock is made of spotted lawn in pure white.

This type of riding costume is often worn for riding in the Bois du Boulogne, but for such occasions beige or tan trousers are usually worn instead of the more sporting checks that look well against the background of French fields and woods.

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved the cattle. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her ranch foreman, Ranee Brennan, partly on account of a new hand, named Smith, she hired against his permission, and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and swears revenge. Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, millionaire oil man of California, whose father was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett that he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch and moves the herd there. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes on ahead to the Mexican rancho. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been sent on by Lee, arrives. Hadley drives to Palo Duro for supplies and takes Doris with him. Doris wanders off and is abducted and Hadley has to fight several natives to rescue her. A revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is head of it, with Brennan his right hand man. Brennan tries to get Hadley, but he escapes. Hadley and Lee call on Megares to get their story to him before Brennan, who comes in before they leave. Megares puts Brennan in his place and is, apparently, friendly to Lee.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

"Oh!" Doris stopped near the door. "I didn't know. Please excuse me."

Megares had risen instantly. He stood staring at this vision of shy blond loveliness. His blood began to quicken.

"Ah—h!" he purred. "But you do not intrude, señorita. Far from it. Pray introduce me, Miss Reynolds."

Lee went through the formula. Megares offered her a chair, bowing from the hips in the exaggerated graceful manner he had, a picture of ruffish impudence posing for an effect.

At dinner Megares did not pretend to keep his gaze from Doris. His conversation was directed at her. She was at her adorable and provocative best. She knew she was playing with fire that might prove a devouring flame if she could not control it. But she could. It was a part of her equipment as a coquette to know how to sidestep adroitly and successfully.

"Are you as bad as your reputation, General?" she asked, following a lead he had given. Her eyes lifted with shy audacity to his.

"But how bad do they say I am? And who says it?" he smiled, stroking his little brush mustache as he ogled her.

She threw up her hands. "Everybody. You're the bogey man of the border. Mothers frighten their little girls to be good by saying you will get them."

"I am a fool if I am strong enough to take what I want and do not do so."

Doris protested. This was her own philosophy, ruthlessly phrased and applied, carried to its logical conclusion and not left vaguely in the air. But she did not recognize it in the harsh clothes it wore.

"O, I don't think you ought to say that, General. I'm sure you don't really mean it. We can't take everything we want."

"No. How could we? It wouldn't work. Civilization and that sort of thing, you know. If course, I want what I want. Still——"

"I'm not concerned with civilization, but with Manuel Megares," he told her.

He was smiling as he watched her, but that smile sent up and down her spine the little cold feet of mice. It made her very conscious of being a woman, and one stripped of all the protections which society has built up since cave man days. Here was a stark savage force she could not brush aside by coquetry.

"I am a fool if I am strong enough to take what I want and do not do so."

Her glance fluttered to Lee for help and found none there. It passed to Hadley. That young man's eyes had gone cold and grim. He knew trouble when he saw it coming.

"I've noticed that ambitions go to wreck, even those of big men, because of weaknesses which trap them," Jack said casually. "Indolence, perhaps, or wine, or most often . . . women."

"Yes?" the Mexican inquired with thin politeness.

Hadley poured himself a glass of wine and looked speculatively at the rich color of it. "We might be able to help your cause at Washington, General. Mrs. Silver's husband went to college with the President. They belong to the same fraternity. Silver was very active in securing his nomination. Can't we make that count on your behalf?"

A bull's-eye shot. Jack knew it at once. This man might hate Gringoes, but he knew that north of the line was a crouched lion that might leap and destroy him.

"Indeed! A friend of the President." The Mexican turned to Doris. "I have forgotten for the moment what college," he said.

By good fortune Doris remembered what college the President had attended. She named it, and Hadley breathed again.

Doris rode with Lee and Hadley to help them drift a bunch of cows into the hill country north of the rancho. Stumpy was the fourth member of the party. The men carried rifles in addition to their revolvers. Bands of roving guerrillas, attached loosely to the rebel cause, were said to be in the district, though none had been sighted near the Costillo place.

It was a day of warm and pleasant sunshine. A coma of peace rested over the drowsy land. It was hard to believe that war filled the minds of thousands of men within a few score of miles.

A score of riders rode lazily around the shoulder of the hill above. One of them caught sight of the Americans, gave a shout, and spurred toward them. The others followed. A long line of loping horses pounded down the slope.

Hadley did not wait to ask questions. He rounded up his party and turned heel.

Jack glanced back. The first of the pursuers had rounded the herd and were still coming. His heart chilled. It was to be a fight or a surrender. He dared not turn these women over to such riffraff as this. The guerrillas were the scum of the country.

He rode alongside Doris and grinned at her. "Another adventure, lady." She did not smile. Her lips were white and trembling. "Save me, Jack," she begged pitifully.

A bullet plumped into the sand a dozen yards away. From Doris' throat there broke a moan. She leaned forward, slumping down. Jack dragged her from the saddle and bundled her between himself and the horn. Her eyes were closed. She had fainted.

"They're getting nearer," Stumpy shouted to Hadley. "Think I better turn an' take a crack at 'em?"

One Mexican, leaning for forward in the saddle, was driving his mount on like a racer. Jack shifted the weight in his arms and drew a revolver from its holster. The man yelled something at him, at the same time shifting the rifle in his hands. When Jack fired the galloping horses were almost neck and neck. The shot of the Mexican went wild. His horse plunged off at a tangent when the rider slid from its back.

Lee and Stumpy had reached the live oaks and were pushing through to the gulch.

Jack saw that the guerrillas were coming through the timber, but at no headlong pace. They would drive their prey through the gulch into the open country above and close in on them there safely.

Jack could see three or four of the Mexicans not more than one hundred and fifty yards away. One had dismounted and was taking aim across his saddle.

Jack looked at Doris. Riding close to Stumpy, he passed the woman to the cowboy as he would have transferred a sack of flour. On the bowlegged little man's face there was a sickly grin.

"What's the matter?" Hadley asked sharply. His first thought was that the man was frightened.

"Stick it, Stumpy, till you reach the rimrock above the falls. See? Where the big tree leans out. Wait for me there."

"Going to hold them back a bit. Don't worry. I'll be with you at the rimrock in no time. If I'm not there in five minutes, light out for the ranch all three of you."

Inside she was a reservoir of woe. He would stay and they would kill him. But she had to leave him there alone. She turned the head of her mount to follow Stumpy.

Jack had slipped the rifle from its scabbard alongside the saddle. He ducked behind a large bowlder. A bullet zipped past his ear. Without taking aim he flung a shot toward the dismounted man below.

The challenge had its effect. He saw a couple of other men scrambling from their horses and scooting for cover. Swiftly he fired again. One of the men stopped as though startled, then went limping into the brush.

Jack picked out a rock forty feet above him and raced for it. He heard the whistle of a bullet and the crash of exploding guns echoing up the gulch. But he reached his bowlder and threw himself down back of it. Looking up, he could see that Lee was vanishing above the rimrock.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

I tell you this picture "Street Scene" has got me all hot and blissful! WHAT a movie!

Did you see the play? Elmer Rice's Pulitzer prize winner? I didn't. It's been staged all around the world in many different languages; captured imaginations from Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand—and still I didn't see it. But who cares, now that these eyes have gazed upon the screen version, declared by those who know, to be the spit 'n image of the stage production!

The story? It's a nest of stories. Up and down a New York street in the West 60s roves the camera, stopping longest at a tenement house where live the Maurrants, the Florentinos, the Kaplans, the Hildebrands, the Buchanans, the Joneses—and others—and unfolding to your gaze their plights, passions, philosophies, peccadillos and the crashing tragedy that is the outcome of Mrs. Maurrant's wistful longing for a little happiness, a little understanding.

"I GOT to have somebody to talk to!" she cries. And the milk collector pays one visit too many.

The picture unreels with a startling and poignant simplicity. It is breath catching from the opening crash of symbolic music, the first glimpses of garbled roofs, crowded "L" stations, children gyrating in the streets, women and men gossiping in windows and doorways as they perspire and fan, to the final sight of a gallant Rose Marraunt steadily walking away to a life of her own which shall be different from that of her lovely, unfortunate mother. Infinitely sad, infinitely funny, "Street Scene"—which describes life, does it not?

The faultless cast includes many who were in the play. Greatest of these is Beulah Bondi who portrays the scandalmongering Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones has reared a son to be a bully and a daughter to be a huzzy, but she neglects her unhealthy looking pooch, Queenie, no more than she neglects—with limp fingers raking up through dank back hair—to sully the reputation of a sister woman, which is never.

Estelle Taylor is immensely appealing as the love hungry Mrs. Maurrant. Sylvia Sidney brings the sweetest and most intuitive of understanding to the rôle of Rose Maurrant. William Collier Jr. never has done, and probably never will do, anything better than his portrayal of the intense, intelligent Hebrew lad who worships Rose, and I defy you to think up anybody who could more skillfully interpret sullen, suspicious, drunken and, finally, murderous Maurrant, than David Landau. He tears you to pieces in his final scene.

Bits of rare and restrained acting are contributed by Anna Kostant, and Greta Granstedt—who looks a heap like Greta Nissen to me—Louis Natheaux, Matthew McHugh, and in fact all others in the cast are as human and real as they can be.

Technically the production is a perfect thing. It is fast moving, suspenseful, marvelously photographed. It is gets you where you live even down to the haunting musical refrain that is heard intermittently.

What higher tribute can I pay King Vidor who directed it than to tell you that in "Street Scene" he gives you eighty minutes of the finest entertainment you have ever had in all your lives?

"WATERLOO BRIDGE."

Produced by Universal.
Directed by James Whale.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Myra	Mae Clarke
Roy	Kent Douglass
Kitty	Doris Lloyd
Mrs. Hobley	Ethel Griffies
Mrs. Wetherby	Enid Bennett
Mr. Wetherby	Frederick Kerr
Jante	Bette Davis
Old woman	Rita Carlisle

"Is this an 'Adults Only'?" I asked the publicity man.

"Yes," he said; "we took a pink ticket rather than cut the picture."

I can understand that. "Waterloo Bridge" is another example of splendid direction and richly human acting. To hack it would have been a shame.

The principal characters in the story are a Canadian soldier boy and a street walker. The former, a lad of fine family, meets the girl while in London on leave from the French front. Their trails cross on Waterloo bridge during a Zeppelin raid and—well—it is here that they part again.

Mae Clarke does some smashing acting as poor Myra, and Kent Douglass—whom you saw in "Paid" and again in "Five and Ten" makes Roy remarkably lovable and appealing. The boy's hopeless passion and unashamed suffering seem very real. Frederick Kerr and Enid Bennett give memorable portrayals as the hero's father and mother, and others in the cast acquit themselves in commendable fashion.

Direction by James Whale, who made that marvelous "Journey's End," is what you might expect from him.

"Waterloo Bridge" specializes in tears and heart throbs rather than laughs—but it's an excellent production of its kind.

Lita Grey Chaplin Here, So's Georges Carpentier

Lita Grey Chaplin and a party of six, including Georges Carpentier, former contender for the world's heavyweight championship, arrived yesterday from New York on the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Union station. Almost immediately the former wife of Charlie Chaplin, the screen comedian, hurried to the Paradise theater. There she is appearing in a vaudeville skit. Then, on Sept. 15, she will start rehearsing for a revue, "Vanity Fair," which is to open later in a loop theater.

Women Plan to Show World as Inventors

Display Set for Sept. 30 in New York.

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Women used to spend their time thinking up new recipes for pies and remedies for their ailing children. Now in increasing numbers they are entering the field of invention.

Models of some of these inventions by women will be a feature of the exposition of women's arts and industries starting Sept. 30 at the Hotel Astor, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, chairman, said today.

Though only one patent in every 50 is granted to a woman, Mrs. Harriman says and adds that records of the patent office show more than 15,000 patents issued to women. These records also show a steady increase in the number of women inventors during the last 15 years.

Beulah Louise Henry, sometimes called "Woman Edison," who now has 42 inventions, will exhibit her latest device. It is an attachable ribbon for any typewriter which makes five copies at a time without carbon paper.

Her first invention was a collapsible umbrella. Others were a new ice cream freezer [an advance on the original model invented in 1843 by Nancy Johnson], an electric fan shield, a new pencil, combination doll and radio receiving set, and a clock device for teaching time to children.

Another exhibitor will be Mrs. Katherine Sunderland, who invented a device to save wear on hosiery and who has now invented a device to relieve the pressure on the edge of the shoe on the instep.

A new electric pressing iron will be exhibited by Albertine Ruelland, a former servant who saw the need of designing an iron with round edges and corners and a swinging handle. And Mrs. Eugene Lamb Richards will exhibit her invention which is a remedy for uneven lighting.

Mrs. Harriman says that, though it generally is assumed that inventions by women are largely restricted to household articles, it is proved by the patent office records that less than one-fourth are in that field.

"The greater number are in the larger fields of industrial arts, transportation and even agriculture," Mrs. Harriman avers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Assurances that they would be able to care for all local relief problems themselves during the coming winter were received at the White House today from one governor and a number of municipalities. Six states, including Illinois, already have informed President Hoover they expect to be able to handle any relief crisis that develops this winter as the outgrowth of unemployment.

President Hoover today announced the appointment of fourteen new state representatives who will be associated with his unemployment relief organization. At the same time it was stated that Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, had been named one of six new members of the advisory committee at large, which was set up to aid the central relief organization headed by Walter S. Gifford.

The other committee members named today were Leonard P. Ayres and James R. Garfield of Cleveland, Tom K. Smith of St. Louis, Mrs. Robert E. Speer [president of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association], and Mrs. Inez Richardson of Washington, D. C.

J. Walter Drake of Detroit was among the new state representatives named.

Gov. C. D. Buck of Delaware is the latest governor to assure the President of his support during the drive to prevent unemployment distress.

"The citizens of Delaware can be counted on to provide such financial help as is required to care for those in need in this state during the coming winter," he said.

Further Illinois Action.

Organization of the governor's relief commission for its work throughout the state was announced yesterday following a meeting in Chicago.

This organization is headed by Wayne Hummer, whose appointment had been announced previously by Gov. Emmerson. The two vice chairmen are John H. Walker, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, and H. C. Hausman, secretary of the Illinois Bankers' association. Chairman Hummer announced his executive committee yesterday as follows:

C. G. FERRIS, executive vice president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

R. S. JONES, southern representative of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

BARNEY COHEN, state director of labor.

This committee will work through committees in each county.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Officials and staff designers of the Century of Progress turned last night to the children of the south parks for direction in planning the great water carnivals that are to transform the lake front lagoons into a nocturnal fairyland during the World's Fair in 1933.

Last year children in the art crafts clubs of the eighteen south parks gave their first Venetian night carnival. This was the outgrowth of a lantern parade originating ten years before, the first event of its kind, park officials said. All over the United States similar spectacles have since been patterned after the lantern spectacle presented by the children of the south parks.

Last night Sherman park lagoon, 52d street and South Racine avenue, was packed along every inch of its mile water front with a crowd that George T. Donaghue, superintendent of the south parks, estimated at more than 50,000. Descriptive accounts of the beauty and originality of last year's carnival had traveled to all parts of the city, bringing whole families for glimpses of the illuminated boats.

Shortly after dusk the first of the illuminated floats made its picturesque way beneath the arched bridge near the park assembly hall and glided past the park officials and their guests.

There followed forty floats with colored lanterns swinging rhythmically with the dip of the oars, no two of them alike. They circled slowly and silently around the island and then all came back again in a colorful fleet to be cheered again by the onlookers.

For twelve months children of Armour Square park worked on their float, creating the patterns obtained from China by Z. T. Egardner, their director. Last night their labor was rewarded by the pleasure expressed by the throngs as the oriental boats passed displaying lanterns in finely wrought patterns.

Maj. Frederic Kensel, director at Sherman park, made many trips to canning factories. In the dump heaps he found scraps of tin. He brought them to the craft classes, where the children hammered them out and colored them. Last night these trimmed one of the most attractive of the floats—an old Egyptian death ship.

There was Cornell square's huge illuminated swan with its movable neck and pink eyes and beak. There was a wigwam with a campfire glowing within, boats with red or green lanterns bowing and dancing as if they were fastened to willow wands, all casting their reflections into the still water of the lagoon.

All received an ovation of cheering and handclapping, and many exclamations of surprise that such artistic creations could come from the hands of children, were overheard.

"'I was in Venice in the midst of their carnival," said V. K. Brown, superintendent of the recreation department of the south parks. "But the carnival there lacked the imagination our children have given this one. They were all Japanese lanterns in Venice, and while their boats were more picturesque, they did not have the variety nor the novel effects of our carnival.

"Out of this we are hoping may come the appreciation of the possibility of the art resources of Chicago so that the city will undertake to make this an annual midsummer carnival utilizing the lake front lagoons.

"If the lake front could be used, the Venetian carnival could be planned on a much larger scale, using barges rather than rowboats, adding fountain and fireworks displays and races. This would become an annual event that people from all over the country would come to see."

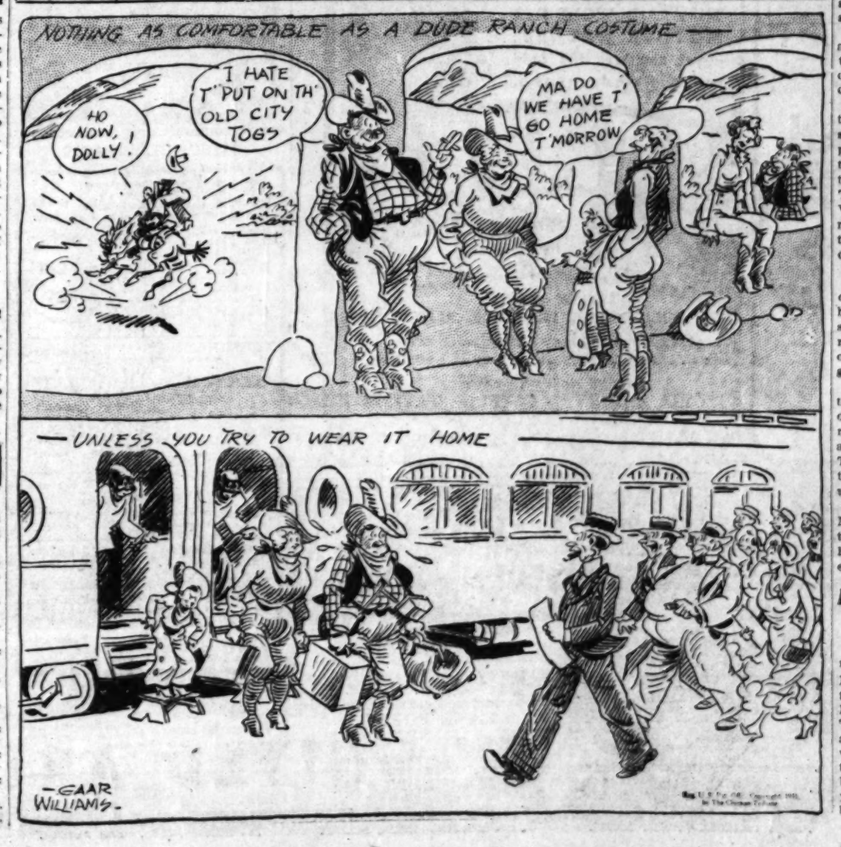

Following the illuminated parade Maj. Kensel was host at a cotillion in the assembly hall to park and World's Fair officials, south park commissioners, and playground directors.

Church members and friends last night honored the Rev. Dr. T. F. Dornblaser, 90 years old, retired pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, Belden avenue and Geneva terrace. The celebration was in the nature of a farewell party, for the clergyman will depart soon for Germany. A portrait of Dr. Dornblaser was unveiled. Dr. Dornblaser completed thirteen years as pastor of the Grace church before his retirement.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Ability to Provide Luxuries May Draw One Role of Enemy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Said a brilliant man of the law recently, reviewing his own married life and that of several of his male friends: "There is a type of married woman coming prominently to the fore in America who looks upon her husband as her arch enemy. She marries the man. She marries him because she loves him. So, he is made to believe, anyway. If he has any degree of prosperity that can afford her the luxury of time on her hands, good clothes, a car or cars, and so on, she begins to think that if it weren't for this man she tied to, she could have much more fun. The fact that the poor goat is responsible for her current ease and luxury is overlooked. He's just in the way."

"If the truth were known," he added, "that is the reason why many of them decide to pack up their little suitcases and beat it off to Reno for a season."

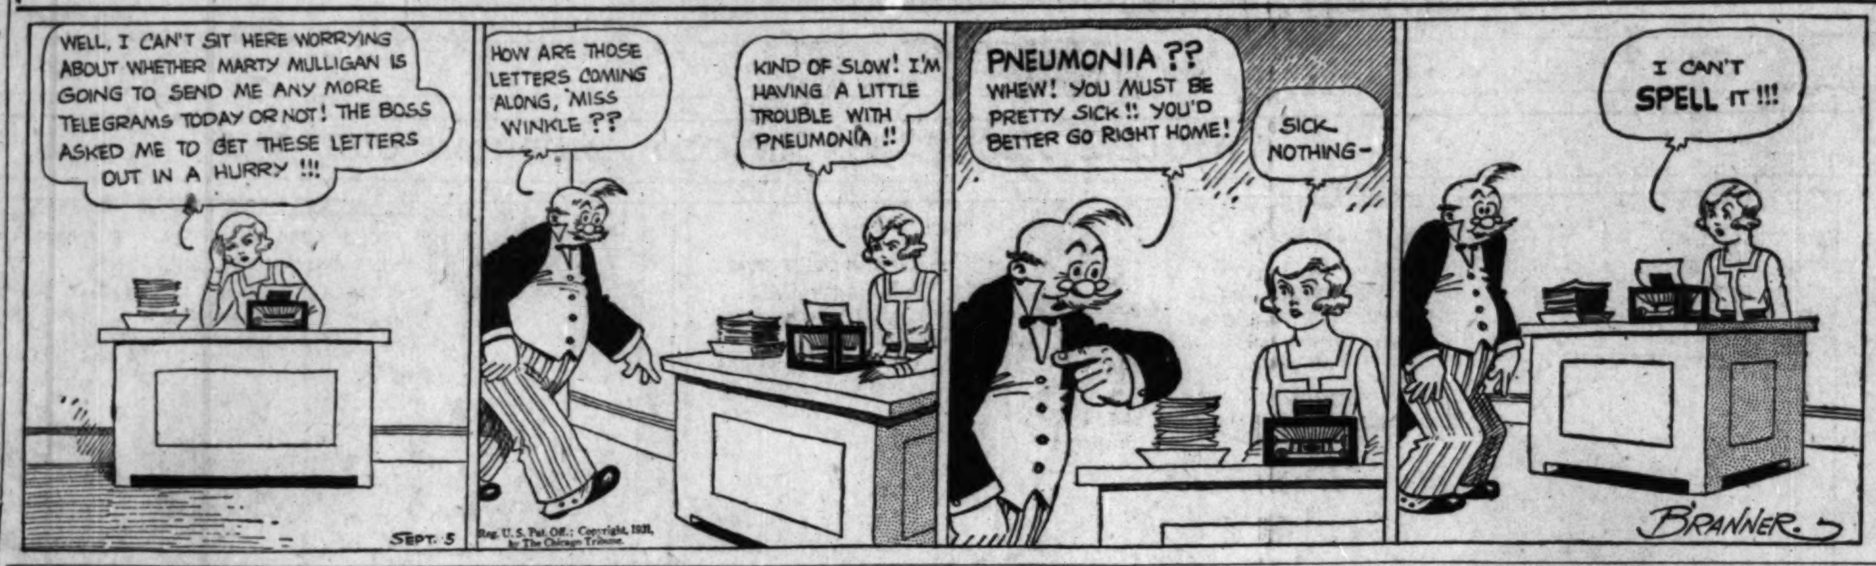

One illustration is to be found in the attractive looking, 27 year old wife of a certain gentleman. He lifted her out of the humblest sort of circumstances. He loved the girl, married her—and spoiled her. She, being gifted with good looks, gracefully responded to the good clothes he provided her and the luxurious background. He was in a position of unusual influence for his 31 years. The attention and the flattery his wife received was not due to her charms so much as they were tribute to the man's position and, in fact, to his popularity.

She graced the position, as I say, until she began taking deadly seriously the flatteries of her husband's friends and acquaintances. Without him, she'd be only another pretty girl thrown on her own slim resources.

Anyway, she served notice on him one day that she was through. She more than insinuated that there were bigger fish in the pond still to be caught. To date her luck hasn't been worthy of mention. The last heard of her, in fact, was that she was applying for work. But she representes one phase of the woman whom the lawyer refers to as the kind who looks upon her husband as her arch enemy.

You go into homes to meet others. You sense immediately an antagonism toward the man for no good, apparent reason. Every word he says is the subject of contradiction. If he makes a move, he's wrong. The woman behaves like some caged animal, or deeply wounded one, longing for freedom she hasn't the courage to go out and adopt. And so the handy object, husband, becomes the enemy that holds her captive. Or, so it does appear.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A Sick Spell

Frequent Shampoos Will Correct This Ailment of Scalp

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A whole raft of queries came in during the hottest spell relative to oily hair treatment. Also that of oily skin. The truth is that any number of people who never had trouble before keeping the shine subdued on nose and face went through a period of steady powdering recently. And those with abnormally oily hair and skin suffered much during the intense heat spell.

The treatment for excessively oily hair calls first and foremost for frequent shampoos. It is necessary to wash the head frequently, and those with greasy scales should wash hair and scalp nightly with an alcoholic extract of "green soap."

Much attention should be paid to the rinsing of the hair where this condition exists. Rinse three, four and five times if necessary. And dry the hair and scalp carefully and thoroughly. The popular theory about the possibility of washing the hair too often applies only to hair that is not dried well after the frequent washings.

After the drying, apply a good ointment designed to correct oily dandruff. Put your faith in a reliable manufacturer and buy one of his products. In treating oily dandruff, wash the head every night for a week. Then switch to two nights and the third week to one shampoo a week. In the meantime, if you are overweight from excess consumption of greasy, oily foods, or whether you are overweight from their consumption or not, avoid them and substitute a plentiful amount of alkaline foods.

For correcting oily skin, look to the diet also. And take immediate steps to correct faulty bowel action. Wash the face with soap and water frequently and use some astringent such as witch hazel or benzoin or some good prepared product.

Food Talk.

I have several lengthy recipes to give you today so I shan't say much more than "hello . . . and good-by" in my food talk. Please don't get so interested in the forthcoming weekend that you forget to clip them, for if you don't keep these I'll never forgive you!

SPINACH AND EGGS AU GRATIN.

3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
¼ cup pimiento cheese.

Make a white sauce, using the butter, flour, milk, and seasonings. Shell and cut the eggs in halves. Arrange a layer of spinach on the bottom of a well greased casserole, then a layer of egg halves, and, last, a layer of white sauce. Repeat these layers in the order given until the ingredients are used. Have the final layer of white sauce. Sprinkle the top with pimiento cheese which has been previously pressed through a ricer. Bake in a moderate oven [350 F.] for 25 minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

This recipe serves six people with one helping each.

RUSSIAN DRESSING.

Use your standard mayonnaise as a base. Add to it half again as much chili sauce as you have mayonnaise. Stir together well and add pearl onions to suit your taste. Chill before serving.

MUSTARD DRESSING
[for Baked Ham].

¼ cup sugar.
2 eggs.
Butter size of an egg.

PINEAPPLE CARROT SALAD.

1 cup pineapple in cubes or grated.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 package lemon gelatine.
1 cup water.
1 scant cup pineapple juice.
1 tablespoon vinegar.

Dissolve the gelatine in a cup of boiling water. Then add the pineapple juice, vinegar, and other ingredients. Stir well and pour while warm into individual molds. Place the molds in the refrigerator until the salads are firm. Serve with mayonnaise.

Yield: Ten servings.

Miss Copeland, Dr. Whitcomb Are Engaged

BY THALIA—.

MOST of the day's society news is relayed from out of town. From the east are two engagement announcements concerning former Chicagoans who have numerous friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Copeland, who lived in Winnetka until a few years ago and are now residents of Princeton, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Lyman Copeland, to Dr. Lawrence Whitcomb, son of Mrs. Lawrence Whitcomb of Brookline, Mass.

Dr. Whitcomb is a member of the faculty of the department of geology at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pa. No date is announced for the wedding. Miss Copeland's brother, Lowell Townsend Copeland, is to be married today to Miss Helen Lysle Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Hunter of Pittsburgh. The wedding is to be very quiet because of illness in the Copeland family and is to take place in Princeton.

The other engagement announcement is that made by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Minor of Richmond, Va., of the betrothal of their daughter, Mary Scott Minor, to John Granville Mott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mott. The Motts have moved within the last few years to Charlottesville, Va. They were for many years residents of Highland Park and they still spend some time here each year.

Undaunted by the funny old superstition, "Change the name and not the letter—a change for the worse and not the better," Miss Emily Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, is to become Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings this afternoon. The wedding is to take place at Bichwood farms, the Otises' summer place at Harbor Springs, Mich. at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The service is to be read, out of doors under the birch trees, if the weather is propitious, by Bishop John McCormick, and there will be a reception immediately afterward. Mr. Owings' brother-in-law, Louis Skidmore, and Harold Wade of New York City are both to "stand up" with him, and Miss Otis is having Mrs. Alfred McCormack (Winifred Smith) and Miss Marie Smith as her only attendants. Only kinsfolk and close friends will attend, besides some of the Otises' summer neighbors at the Springs and the other nearby resorts.

Another Chicago wedding is to be solemnized this afternoon in northern Michigan. Miss Mary Louise von Hofsten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo C. von Hofsten, formerly of Winnetka, now of Pasadena, is to marry Arthur Sterling Wiley of Los Angeles at 4 o'clock at the Von Hofsten's summer home, The Red Cabin, at Leland, Mich. The service is to be read by the edge of Lake Michigan.

Miss von Hofsten's wedding gown is of white satin, trimmed with the same rosepoint lace that ornamented her mother's bridal dress. The bride's sister, Mrs. Kenneth T. Price of Geneva, who is to be matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Lawrence Norem, Miss Shorey Miller, and Miss Katharine Seymoure of Los Angeles, are to wear pastel colored frocks and carry garden flowers. Mr. Price is to be best man and the ushers include Mr. Norem, Edwin I. Gilroy, John Shoaff, and Richard Shoaff of Fort Wayne, Ind. Mr. Wiley and his bride are to reside at 1661 La Cresta drive, Pasadena.

Barbara Jane Atwater and James A. Drain Marry Today.

Miss Barbara Jane Atwater, daughter of Henry Atwater and Mrs. Adelina Lobdell Atwater of New York, formerly of Chicago, and James Andrew Drain Jr. of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Andrew Drain of Seattle, Wash., will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Lake Forest residence of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Preston. The ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard, will be attended only by a small group of relatives and friends. Miss Edith Atwater will be her sister's only attendant, and John Drum of Detroit will be best man for Mr. Drain.

The first debutante of the season, Miss Louise Ruffner, will make her bow this afternoon at a garden tea at Ruffwood, the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ruffner in Highland Park. Besides a group of contemporaries from Chicago and the north shore the debutante's attendants will include a cousin, Miss Elizabeth Howard of Long Island, Miss Elizabeth Eddy of Bay City, Mich., Miss Betty Lee Rich of White Plains, N. Y., Miss Janet Page of Detroit, and Miss Betty Lee Pierce of Plattsburg, N. Y. All of them were her classmates at Fine Manor. The local contingent of assistants is composed of her two sisters, Marianna and Virginia Ruffner, Peggy Glidden, Gwendolyn Juergens, Chloe Watson, Margaret Hamill, Mary Cushman, Helen Walcott, Annie Mason, Mary Ellen Prindiville, Adelaide Atkin, Welthyan Harmon, Betty Fulton, Margaret Chapman, and Judith Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway Watson of 1530 State parkway are to give a dinner dance at the Indian Hill Country club next Friday evening for Mr. Watson's daughter, Miss Marguerite Watson, whose marriage to Walter Field McLallen III. is to take place on the 17th.

Chicagoans Have Large Share in Charlevoix Club Fete.

Third and fourth generation descendants of the early members of the Chicago club at Charlevoix were present at the club's 50th anniversary celebration last evening, but none of those who attended the opening ball in 1881 were present to see its reenactment. The late Melville E. Stone was one of the founders of the club and the late John P. Wilson was president for many years.

Chicagoans who own cottages at the club and who have been going there for many summers include the Daniel H. Burnhams, Mrs. E. B. Butler, the Francis R. Dickinson family, the Oscar W. Johnsons, the Joseph H. Kings, Howard Linn, John B. Lord, William B. McIlvaine [who is president of the club and who became a member in 1885], Mrs. C. I. Pierce, Frederick H. Scott, Edward D. Shumway, Solomon A. Smith, Harold C. Smith, John Stuart, Mrs. Robert Stuart, Dr. Eugene S. Talbot, Mrs. E. C. Waller, Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, and John P. Wilson. Some of the members have recently acquired large tracts of Lake Charlevoix shore frontage and have built day camps there. Several of them can only be reached by boat. The original clubhouse, a 2 story structure built of stout cork pine, and with wide verandas, is still the center of the club activities.

Helen Muriel Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Barrett of 822 Linden avenue, Wilmette, will be married to Ralph Ellery Blanchard today at 5 p. m. in the Union church in that suburb. Mr. Blanchard is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ellery P. Blanchard of Portland, Me. Miss Barrett will be given away by her father. Her matron of honor will be Mrs. Franklin Lunum. The maid of honor will be Dorothy Barrett, a sister, and the best man will be Dr. Norman Blanchard, brother of the groom. The ushers are to be Mark Cleaver of Cleveland, O., and Evard Hayden. After the ceremony there will be a reception at the Barrett home. The bride and groom will have their honeymoon in the Maine woods, where a relative of Mr. Blanchard's has a cottage that has been placed at their disposal. After their return they will reside at 530 Sheridan road, Evanston.

Land Grant Colleges' Officials to Meet in Chicago Nov. 16-18

Final arrangements for a convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities to be held here Nov. 16-18, were made here yesterday by the executive committee.

The association will hold its 1932 convention in Washington, D. C., but will return to Chicago for the Century of Progress in 1933. Among those attending the executive meeting were R. A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, who is chairman; President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State university; President R. D. Hetzel, Pennsylvania State college.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR HERE TO BOOM THE STATE PEACH SALE

To impress upon Chicagoans the fact that Michigan has a peach crop worthy of notice because of its quality and low prices, Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker of that state flew from Lansing yesterday. Last night he was the guest of honor at a banquet in the Hotel Sherman and later described over the radio the plans which the state's growers have made for a Michigan peach festival.

Peaches as large as baseballs will be common in Chicago markets beginning the fore part of next week and continuing in shipments for at least two weeks, according to Gov. Brucker. The Michigan crop harvest is just beginning as Illinois and Indiana orchards are being plucked of the last of their fruit, so that the peach season is to be extended without interferring with festival plans already concluded by growers of other states.

Michigan Peaches for Hoover.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(AP)—President Hoover today received a basket of peaches from Miss Virginia Allor of Mount Clemens, Mich., the 1931 queen of the Romeo, Mich., peach festival. Miss Allor and the peaches were brought to Washington by airplane early today. She was photographed with the President on the south grounds of the White House.

Now Popular Month to Wed in the Little Church Around Corner

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—September, not June, is the most popular month at the "Little church around the corner."

Miss Mary C. Hanlon, church secretary, said today, the fact that September is the house-hunting and lease renewal month had something to do with it.

The banner day of the year, she said, is the Saturday before Labor day. On that day last year 47 couples were united before the church's two altars. And judging from the number of appointments already made for Saturday it probably will be the peak day this year, too.

AUSTIN-KINZIE HIGHWAY URGED TO AID JOBLESS

BY HAL FOUST.

From a hundred miles southwest of Chicago yesterday came an indorsement of the proposal that the state, with road funds now lying idle, start construction this fall on the Austin-Kinzie elevated highway so as to furnish employment for 10,000 to 30,000 men this winter.

R. G. SODERSTROM.

R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor and a member of the legislature from La Salle county, threw his influence with other civic, commercial and political leaders who are demanding action from Gov. Emmerson toward relief for the jobless through the construction of the traffic artery.

"I believe I am speaking the sentiment of the motorists of my county as well as the convictions of organized labor," said Mr. Soderstrom. "The construction of the elevated highway this winter—not at some indefinite date in the future—is an obligation upon the state that Gov. Emmerson cannot deny.

Urges Jobs for Unemployed.

"I do not want to go into details on the suffering that will take place this winter unless some strong measures for relief are started promptly. I merely mention the situation as emphasis to the demand that the state highway department use this elevated project as an unemployment relief job.

"Members of organized labor do not want charity. They want jobs. These men and their families are going to have to eat this winter. Shall they be pauperized with charity or shall they be furnished work?

"Public construction costs little more than charity. With the construction, society receives in return a permanent improvement purchased at a time when building materials are cheap. With widespread charity, there develops a group dependent on society for maintenance.

Says Money Is Available.

"There is plenty of money available for the elevated highway in the state treasury and plenty more pouring into the state depositories from the gasoline tax. Let's spend some of it now. A special session of the legislature can start construction promptly.

"The motorists of La Salle county appreciate the need of a west side elevated highway into Chicago probably more than many Chicagoans. In our business and commercial trips into the metropolis, we have smooth and fast travel over concrete highways until we reach the outskirts of the city. Then there is from seven to ten miles of nerve shattering delay and hazard in the congestion of the city's inadequate streets.

"La Salle county profits by its proximity to Chicago just as Chicago profits by its proximity to La Salle county. With the construction of an elevated highway at the western entrance of the city, with adequate pavement connections, the communities will be brought closer together and there will be a mutual benefit."

Comes from Wage Rate Battle.

Mr. Soderstrom, as president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, was fresh from a three weeks' battle at Springfield over the minimum wage rates to be paid on state highway construction. While the scale as decided by the arbitration board on Thursday, releasing $11,000,000 for highway projects, did not meet all the union demands, the rates outside the metropolitan area represented an increase of approximately 20 per cent over the figures originally published by the state administration.

The fight over the minimum wage law will be resumed next week but, unless the unexpected develops, there will be no further delay in awarding the $11,000,000 worth of contracts, including $3,450,000 for metropolitan projects. On Monday, Labor day, there is to be a preliminary hearing at Springfield on a taxpayer's suit charging that the wage law is unconstitutional. On Tuesday, bids are to be opened on the first batch of the $11,000,000 worth of contracts.

There were rumors in Chicago yesterday that a group of civic and commercial organizations is planning an attack against the payment of the union scale for metropolitan paving work but reliable reports said that this would be handled so as not to interfere with the construction program this fall and winter.

SEIZE HOODLUM AND EX-CONVICT IN MURDER CASE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Herman Eberling, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Harold Henderson, attempted burglary, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in Pontiac reformatory; John Welford, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John P. McGoorty.

Solly Holtzman, west side hoodlum, and Abe Kent, an ex-convict, were arrested yesterday in connection with the gang murder three weeks ago of Herman Horowitz, 30 years old, 1227 South Campbell avenue.

Sergts. Frank J. Donohue and Charles Reynolds of the coroner's office, who made the arrests, said Horowitz was slain because he attempted to force his way into an alley dice game near 13th and Peoria streets in which the players were the two prisoners and Richy Fishman, who is being sought.

Horowitz was found shot to death in his automobile on Aug. 15 at Ashland and Washburne avenues. His brother, Benjamin, was slain on a gang side a year ago.

TOKIO, Sept. 5.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—The foreign office today asked Mukden for an immediate explanation of the shooting a month ago by Chinese troops of Capt. Shintaro Nakamura, a Japanese, as a spy.

The action was taken when reports said a commission, which went to the scene of the killing to conduct an investigation, returned last Wednesday to Mukden, capital of Manchuria. Previously Mukden authorities, when an explanation was asked, had requested more time for the commission to complete its inquiry.

Nakamura and another Japanese, a Mongol and a Russian were shot by a Chinese firing squad, despite the fact, the war department said, that each held certificates from Chinese officials permitting them to make maps in Manchuria and Mongolia.

The incident and the apparent slowness of Mukden authorities in making an explanation has aroused keen resentment here. Newspapers asserted the war department was resolved to take "certain resolute steps" unless the case was satisfactorily settled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4.—Foreign settlement authorities will release for publication tomorrow documents seized when the office of an alleged American or Canadian, named Noulens, was raided on July 15. Noulens was subsequently transferred with his wife to Nanking, where he will be given a military trial.

The documents show that Russia seeks not only to communize China but Japan, the Philippines, Indo-China, and the Dutch East Indies. A vast groundwork for this work has already been laid.

Believe Passport Forged.

When Noulens was arrested he posed as a Belgian, but he also had a passport issued in Montreal to Denat Boulanger. This passport contained a photograph identical with that on his Belgian passport. The British consulate general is of opinion that the Canadian passport is forged. The Belgians also repudiate him, as does the Swiss consulate, which nationality Noulens also has affected.

Indications are that the Nanking court-martial will make a speedy disposition of Noulens and at the same time denounce the soviet government, set up by Chinese communists, who now have armies fighting in four provinces of central China. They now have the whip hand in Kiangsi province.

Use Women to Seduce Troops.

The seized documents show that Moscow considers that the most urgent problem is to bring about the disintegration and political surrender of the Kuomintang, or Chinese Nationalist party. Also, while women are employed to seduce troops in the provinces, male agitators are detailed to spread communism among the soldiers and sailors of the American and European armies detailed in China under treaties.

The documents reveal that communist cells have been formed not only among the principal Chinese armies but in the arsenals and various public utilities and factories. Already labor peasant unions have been formed in many provinces and a cheka has been established, notably in Kiangsi province, to which Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese president, is returning immediately.

High Officials Implicated.

Progress has even been made by the Reds in Nanking itself, affecting not only military officers but civil employés, and even possibly certain high government officials. A similar campaign is also being waged at Canton, as well as in provinces north of the Yellow river.

Eleven aliases for Noulens have already been discovered. He had at least five residential address, four telegraph address and eleven postoffice boxes, and a total exceeding $47,000 in deposits in seven banks, together with large additional sums of foreign currency.

The documents show that communist armies have already been established in Hupeh, Honan, and Anhui provinces, while similar organizations are still incomplete in other regions, including Shansi, Shensi, Hunan, Kwangtung and Fukien provinces.

A carbon of reports sent to Moscow shows that connections have been established with workmen in arsenals and footholds have been gained in the cotton and silk mills, and also with 40 operators of the Shanghai telephone exchange.

FILIPINO TOWN TURNS OUT TO CHEER HURLEY

MANILA, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and his party, arriving today at Capiz, were given an enthusiastic welcome. The whole town turned out. The party left a few hours later for Iloilo.

Manila newspapers said the war secretary was receiving a welcome from the Filipino people as warm as that accorded to Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri. Hawes is an advocate of independence for the Philippines, whereas Hurley's last official pronouncement on the subject was against immediate freedom.

When a group of women presented him a bouquet at Lucena yesterday Secretary Hurley said: "I like the way Filipinos ask for independence." Again when guns were fired to announce his arrival there he remarked: "Fine! It reminds me of Oklahoma."

Hawes Predicts Freedom.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Legislation providing for Philippine independence will be passed at the next session of congress, Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] predicted today on his return to Washington from the recent visit to the islands, in which as author of last session's independence bill he was made the center of native demonstrations.

Big Lead Wins for Chicagoan.

HACK DRAWS HIS $200 PER DAY ON BENCH

Cincinnati Wins 5th Straight.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 4.—The Cubs, now balanced precariously between third and fourth places, were just the shell of their former selves again today. They couldn't hit, at least not consistently. They didn't have pitching that could even begin to fool those who should have been fooled. So with a pitcher trying to play the outfield and the $35,000 Hack Wilson on the side lines awaiting final sentence, the Chicagoans were driven back by the second Reds, 12 to 3. It was the fifth time in a row that the Rhinelanders had done this same thing to the prides of Wrigley field.

The whole show was centered around one inning—the third. Bob Smith, who had been bad enough at the start, suddenly became worse. Allie May dashed forth to provide relief and the firing grew more deadly. Les Sweetland hurried in to salvage what remained of Jakie, but before the uprising subsided nine Reds had hit safely and eight of them had scored. Seven of the nine safeties were turned loose in succession. After that the game was just a monotonous spectacle with the Cubs able to make no appreciable headway against Red Lena.

Hack Is Through.

The pitcher picked to do some outfielding was Buzz Teachout. The vacancy arose suddenly when Vin Barnes was called to Toronto by the death of a brother. Wilson was the only fly chaser available.

"Hack knows he is through as a Cub, as it would hardly be fair either to himself or the team to play him," was Hornsby's only comment on his surprising move. There was no hostility involved.

In the next breath Hornsby added that "so long as Teachout has been able to do nothing as a pitcher and yet possesses all around ability, nothing could be lost by trying to develop him into a fly chaser."

The ex-collegian didn't have to catch anything today, but he wore himself weary pursuing the hostile drives.

Hack Catches in Bullpen.

While the above action was going on, Hack, who is keeping his thoughts to himself, was down in the bullpen warming up pitchers and in that way earning at least a few cents of his better than $200 per diem salary. Toward the finish he was asked to appear as a pinch hitter for Sweetland, but he merely fouled out. Whether he'll ever start another game in Cub flannels is doubtful.

Lon [Will Rogers] Warneke will pitch against Ray Kolp in the final of the series tomorrow. The affair will start at 1:30, so as to leave the premises available for a flock of old-time major leaguers who have assembled for an exhibition against a local amateur team.

Roush Starts Riot.

The Cubs kept themselves in the ballgame by scoring once in the second inning. English opened the attack with a single to left and raced to third when Teachout singled through second. Grimm's fly to Roush in left gave English a chance to score. Then the rally was suddenly halted by Teachout, who overran second and was nailed on Adair's single to right.

Trouble in the distressing third appeared with the first batter. Roush

Sun Beau and Twenty Grand Clash Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 4.—Two great race horses, invested with almost as much personality as two great prizefighters in a championship fight, will go to the post at Saratoga tomorrow afternoon to race for a small prize and a great honor. For once, anyway, a contest between famous, game steeds transcends the money at stake in the public interest. It has been said that if some one should hang up a purse of a million for a race between a herd of milch cows, the customers would swell the walls of Belmont Park to watch them go.

But in the present case, Sun Beau and Twenty Grand, running for a comparatively trivial sum of money, will outdraw a field of two year olds running in the $50,000 Hopeful on the same program. It is frankly admitted that Sun Beau and Twenty Grand in the Saratoga Cup are the lure which will have most to do with a migration of some 20,000 people to Saratoga track tomorrow afternoon.

You Seldom Fool Bookie Twice.

Four horses are expected to race in the main event, Sun Beau, the champion handicap horse with a record of $355,044 in earnings; Twenty Grand, Sir Ashley, and Quarterdeck. But, as on the occasion of that startling affair of a year ago when Gallant Fox raced Whichone and both were beaten by a nonentity named Jim Dandy at 100 to 1, nobody is paying any heed to the other two.

However, the bookmakers were more cautious this time, for Sir Ashley was quoted at only 20 to 1 and Quarterdeck at a conservative 30, very modest offerings considering that they were conceded to have no more chance at the present writing than the Red Sox in the American league pennant contest.

Sun Beau, at the age of 6, is a horse who came into his winnings and his public recognition comparatively late in life, like Tommy Gibbons of the prize ring. He was not a promising steed at 2 years old, and when he was 3 he was barely among those present in the big, stylish races such as the Preakness, the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont. But often a great 3 year old runs himself right out of competition and into retirement lest his reputation suffer from subsequent defeats and he go to the farm more or less forgotten.

The Folks Love These Steeds.

Sun Beau kept on racing, and when he was 5 he won nine races and $155,000 in nineteen starts. And this year, at 6, he has won eight of eleven races and added to his earnings until the world record is his. In fact, he might have won $100,000 more at Agua Caliente last year but for a ride that was described in language that has no place in a paper which goes into the American home.

LYONS IS BACK IN FORM, BUT HE LOSES AGAIN, 4-3

Walker's Homer Gives Tigers Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A young Mr. Walker, whose first name is Gerald, yesterday spoiled Ted Lyons' comeback party before a ladies' day crowd of 13,900 when he socked a homer with two on in the sixth inning. The score just before Gerald did his stuff was White Sox, 3; Tigers, 1, and after Gerald had finished the act it was Tigers, 4; Sox, 3, a tabulation which prevailed to the bitter end.

Despite the Tiger victory, the performance of Lyons was about the happiest thing that has happened in the lives of the Sox these many moons. Ted revealed unmistakably that his dead arm has come to life, an important revelation in Mr. Comiskey's future plans.

Ted Looked Right Smart.

Last year, you'll recall, Ted won 22 games and saved several others. This year he has won two. The difference in Ted's strings of 1930 and 1931 is the difference between fourth and seventh places in the American league.

Lyons allowed only eight hits and walked only two men—one in the first inning and one in the second. In the third, fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth, and ninth innings only three batsmen faced the erstwhile invalid.

Ordinarily, of course, you wouldn't try to throw out a homer with two on, when said three runs meant the ball game, but in considering the reclaiming of a star like Lyons there was nothing especially discouraging about the incident, what with the city series coming on and everything.

They Didn't Encourage Ted Much.

Another item that enables one to do a little singing in Ted's behalf is the fact that he was opposed by a derned able workman in the person of the left handed Mr. Whitehill. Earl held the White Sox to six singles, which isn't such hot encouragement for a pitcher just out of the infirmary, as you might say.

All of the Sox hits, as well as all their runs, were made in the first five innings—before Gerald smacked his homer. Given so much cheer by his center field, Whitehill bore down from the instant the Tigers got their one run lead and in the sixth, seventh, eight and ninth innings not a Chicagoan got anything that had the slightest kinship to a base hit.

In the seventh Earl kidded our fellows with walks to Kerr and Blue, but the thing was a cruel joke. He also smilingly walked Fonseca in the eighth, then proceeded to torture Fothergill and Appling, both of whom drove the ball back to him with grotesque zeal.

Pat Seeks 22d Defeat Today.

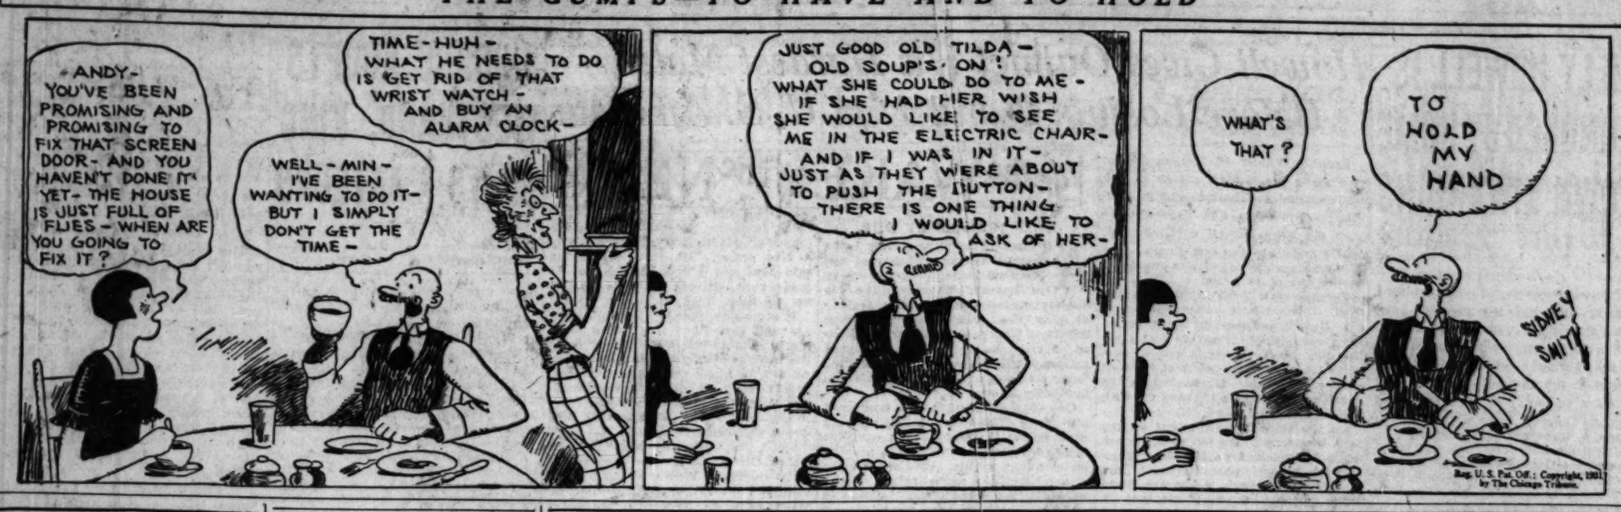

The reversal yesterday evened the season series between the miserable Tigers and the more miserable White Sox, 10 games to 10. The semi-final will be played this afternoon and Pat Caraway will go after his 22d loss of the year. Pat has only five defeats to go before tying the modern major league record, set in 1907.

The Sox made two of their runs in the first inning yesterday. Blue opened up with a single to left, moved to second on Sullivan's sacrifice, and scored on Reynolds' single to center, Carl taking second on the throw to the plate. Reynolds stole third and continued home when Ruel threw past third. Fonseca walked, but Fothergill, though he grunted lustily, could do no better than hit into a double play, Whitehill to Koenig to Alexander.

The Tigers made their first run in the second inning. Rogell singled off Lyons' shins. Then Richardson singled to center, but Rogell was out, Reynolds to Sullivan, trying to reach third. Ruel walked. Then Whitehill singled

New York Commission to Dictate Matches, Purses

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—In an effort to eliminate one sided matches, the state athletic commission today voted a suspension of 90 days for managers who reject opponents and compensation which, in the opinion of the commission, is satisfactory.

BOBBY JONES, THE REPORTER, SHOOTS 75 AT FLOSSMOOR

Jack Westland Coast's Gift to Chicago Golf

Jack Westland's 3 and 2 victory over Maurice McCarthy in the semi-finals of the national amateur tournament at Beverly yesterday, coming as it did on the top of three other convincing wins in the early rounds, stamps him as Chicago's first ranking golfer.

Since taking up his residence in Chicago five years ago, the 26 year old Sunset Ridge star has held a commanding position in local golf circles, but his only previous success in major tournaments was his victory in the French amateur championship in 1929 when he defeated Johnny Dawson, also a Chicagoan, in the final.

Joins Bob Gardner.

Westland, a Chicagoan by adoption, came here in 1926 from Seattle, Wash., where he attended the University of Washington. He first gained recognition as a tournament player when he went to the finals in the national intercollegiate in 1926, losing to Fred Lamprecht of Tulane university.

Westland first made his presence known here as a golfer when he won the Chicago district amateur title in 1927, defeating Eldridge Robinson. He didn't enter the tournament in 1928 or 1929. He was busy on the continent winning the French amateur. He had his heart set on competing in the British amateur that year, but his boat was late in arriving and his tardy entry was not accepted.

Eliminated in First Round.

Last year he again won the Chicago district title, defeating Charles Becka of Calumet in the finals, and two weeks ago he won the championship for the third time, disposing of Gus Novotny of Edgewood Valley.

Westland's best previous effort in the national amateur was in 1926, while still a collegian. He qualified but was eliminated by Watts Gunn in the first round. It is interesting to

The Results

TODAY'S FINAL MATCH.

Westland vs. Ouimet at 10 a. m., 2 p. m.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Francis Ouimet of Boston, Mass., 38 years old, and Alfred John Westland of Chicago, 26 years old, a couple of brokers in cotton and bonds, respectively, will play 36 holes for the amateur golf championship of the United States at the Beverly Country club today.

Ouimet yesterday achieved a goal he had sought for 11 years by defeating the popular choice of the galleries, 19 year old Billy Howell of Richmond, Va., 2 and 1. Westland realized the hopes of Chicago golf fans by disposing of a tenacious young Irishman from New York, Maurice McCarthy Jr., 3 and 2.

It was pointed out last night that Ouimet's opponents during the first four rounds of this tournament have not been more than 25 years old. The bespectacled Bostonian thus has labored under the handicap of having the hundreds of enthusiasts trumping after him cheering the other fellow. He has holed out 20, 30, and 50 foot shots, but never has received more than a polite stir of applause, while his younger opponents have had to sink only a five footer or reach the green from the trap to draw echoing roars from the audiences.

Howell Earns Applause.

Howell, the taffy haired boy who was defeated by Ouimet yesterday, was more than entitled to his share of applause, however, for he had Ouimet one down after the morning round. In the afternoon he was two down leaving the sixth green, but he won the next two holes, lost the ninth to Ouimet, squared the match at the tenth, and went one up at the 12th with a birdie deuce.

Jack Westland, Ouimet's opponent today, won the French amateur in 1929. A psychologist interested in the golfing temperament might find this slender blond who plays from Sunset Ridge a problem. Westland has suffered none of the stage fright which attacks a majority of competitors in a national tournament. He has defeated three of the leading players in the tournament—Sam Parks, George Dunlap and Ducky Yates—as if he were in an ordinary Saturday afternoon twosome. Today he meets a player of the same type, for Ouimet frets not about traps or dubbed shots.

If Westland wins today he will be maintaining a record of a year, for he hasn't lost a match since last year in the western amateur, and T. Philip Perkins had to break the Beverly course record to do it.

Close 9 Hole Struggle.

The first nine holes in the morning round of the Westland-McCarthy match was a struggle throughout, the Chicagoan never holding more than a one hole advantage. McCarthy was on in two, but Westland's second shot turned up in the trap to the right of the green. He made a neat recovery, dropping the ball 4 feet from the pin and holing out for par 4. McCarthy's putt for the birdie fell short by ten inches, and they halved the first hole.

Another half was marked up at the second. Both were short with their second shots and each was about 20 feet away on his pitch. Both missed their putts by inches and took par 5. Westland took the lead at the 3d by dropping his drive 15 feet from the cup and getting down in 2 for par 3. McCarthy was short of the green, chipped on to within four feet of the cup and then blew his putt.

WESTLAND PLAYS OUIMET TODAY FOR GOLF TITLE

McCarthy Beaten, 3-2; Howell Loses, 2 and 1.

McCarthy's Birdie Squares It.

McCarthy squared the match at the 4th, dropping an 18 foot putt for a birdie while Westland was taking par four. Westland duplicated the birdie at the 5th, sinking one from 20 feet, and again was 1 up. They halved the 6th in par 4, and the match was evened at the 7th when McCarthy's ball stymied Westland's and Westland took 5. They two putted the 8th for another half, Westland missing an easy two footer after a perfect out from the trap at the right, into which he had sent his third shot. McCarthy's second shot on the 9th bounded off the green, but he got back for a half in 4, and they still were even at the turn.

Westland's truer iron play began to assert itself during the remainder of the round. McCarthy found a trap on his second to the 13th, after having driven into the rough. Westland was on the fairway with his drive, but boosted his second lightly over the green. He laid his third shot inches from the pin, while McCarthy was overpitching the green. McCarthy came within a foot of holing out, so he conceded and Westland was 1 up again.

The Chicagoan increased his advantage on the 14th, when McCarthy wandered all around the green and had to be content with 5. Westland's second shot was on about 20 feet to the right of the pin for an easy 4 and a 2 up margin. Both reached the 15th green in 3, and each barely missed holing out, McCarthy's putt halting 3 inches away, while Westland was on the very rim of the cup. They halved it in 5.

Westland Goes 3 Up.

Westland was on the 16th green in 2, while McCarthy had difficulty in getting acquainted with the green, his second going over the hill and his third barely reaching the green. He finally took 5 to Westland's 4, and the latter was 3 up. They were over par on the short 17th, Westland finding a trap and two-putting for a 4, while McCarthy just reached the green and then took 3 to get down.

McCarthy cut down Westland's margin to two holes at the end of the round. Both were on the fairway with their drives. Westland's second was still on, but McCarthy's found a trap. He barely got out of it and his pitch was 18 feet short. Westland's pitch went into the right trap and he took 2 to get out, his chip shot falling 20 feet from the cup. Both two putted, Westland taking 7 and McCarthy 6, leaving the former 2 up.

Westland Wins 19th.

The manner in which Westland turned the first nine in the afternoon indicated that the match might be a runaway, but that was before McCarthy put on his great rally.

They were both on the fairway with their drives to the 19th hole, but their iron shots were not so good. Westland was 100 feet short of the green, and McCarthy found the rough back of a tree. He pitched to 15 feet from the pin, but two putted for a 5, while Westland was pitching to within four feet and holing out in 4 to go 3 up. It took each of them 4 to get on the 20th green and they two putted to halve the hole in 6.

Both were on with their drives to the 21st and each took 2 to get down for another halved hole. Then Westland started the parade during which he won four consecutive holes. Both drives to the 22d were on the fairway and each found the left trap with his second shot. Westland made a perfect chip one foot from the pin for an easy 4. McCarthy's chip shot rolled 15 feet past the pin and he missed the putt, Westland going 4 up.

McCarthy in Trouble.

McCarthy was in trouble all the way to the 23d, but he matched Westland in reaching the green in 3. He missed a short putt for a half while Westland was holing out and going 5 up. McCarthy trapped his drive on the short 24th, but he made a fine recovery for a 3. It wasn't good enough, however, for Westland dropped a 20 footer for a birdie deuce and went 6 up. He wasn't through then either, taking the 25th with 5 while McCarthy was two putting for 6.

McCarthy regained a hole at the 26th, where Westland found the rough on both his drive and second shot, and two-putted for 5. They halved the 27th in 4, Westland just grazing McCarthy's ball to sink a short putt. The 28th was another half, both getting on and down in regulation 3.

McCarthy took back another hole at the difficult 29th, sinking a birdie 4 with a 25 foot putt, while Westland was taking 5. McCarthy didn't do so well on the next hole, for he missed a one-foot putt for a birdie deuce while Westland was collecting one himself eight feet from the pin.

McCarthy Fights Gamely.

McCarthy then began his game battle to overcome Westland's lead. He was on the 31st green in two, while Westland was arguing with the weeds and trap to the left of the green. Westland got on in 3, but missed his putt for 4. McCarthy was 15 feet past the pin and missed his first putt, but holed out the next one, and Westland was dormie 5 going to the 32d. McCarthy won that also with another 4, for Westland twice found traps, had a weak pitch to the green, and two putted. That left him only 4 up. Westland lost the next one also.

Westland was dormie three going to the 34th, and might have been forced farther on if McCarthy hadn't missed an 18 inch putt for a four. Westland's second shot to the green wound up on the hill to the right. His pitch was 15 feet past the cup and he missed his putt. Then McCarthy failed, the hole was halved and Westland won the match, 3 and 2.

SMITTY—HELP WANTED

BILLY HOWELL IS HONORED BY HOME TOWN KIWANIANS

Aside from being the youngest player in the National amateur tournament at Beverly, 19 year old Billy Howell also has the distinction of being the youngest Kiwanis club member in the country. Billy was apprised of his election to the Richmond, Va., Kiwanis club as he finished the first 18 holes yesterday in his match with Francis Ouimet. As he walked off the green a messenger boy handed him a telegram informing him that at a special meeting of the luncheon club he had been elected to a membership, win, lose, or draw in his remaining matches.

A 20 foot putt on the fifth hole for a birdie 3 enabled Jack Westland to go one up in the first round of his match with Maurice McCarthy. Both were on in two, McCarthy being 18 feet wide of the pin and Westland 20 feet distant. Mac required the customary two putts for a par four, but Jack played his 20-footer perfectly.

Tug Wilson, Northwestern university's athletic director and something of a golf enthusiast also, being president of Kildeer, was a spectator at yesterday's semi-final matches. He trailed Westland and McCarthy.

Their putters failed both Westland and McCarthy on the eighth hole, where Jack missed a two footer and McCarthy booted one 6 feet long. Both were putting for par 4s, but had to be content to halve the hole in 5s. The match was even at the time, Westland having won the third and fifth and McCarthy capturing the fourth and seventh.

Billy Howell, the pint-sized semi-finalist, had a big edge over Francis Ouimet as far as their drives were concerned in the morning round. On the 13th holes where they tried for distance Howell was out in front eight times to Ouimet's three. Twice they were even.

In the afternoon Howell again took the honors. Eight times he was past Ouimet while the latter was in front thrice. Once they were even.

Ouimet holed a 45 foot putt on the 10th to get his par 3. He started off by slicing his drive far into the rough and then was too hard with his second, sending the ball to the far side of the green, 45 feet from the pin. Howell was on with his drive and two-putted for a 3, halving the hole.

Westland's made to order golf on the first nine of the afternoon was too much for McCarthy. Jack was two up at lunch time and then proceeded to reel off a string of par holes that gave him a 6 hole margin at the 27th. Westland won the 19th, halved the next two and then clicked off four straight wins. The only hole on the out nine which McCarthy won was the 26th, where Westland sent his tee shot into the woods.

One of the prettiest iron shots of the day was made by Howell on the 8th hole in the afternon to even the match. He sent his tee shot into the rough with a bad lie. Howell then selected a No. 4 iron, got a nice lift and dropped the ball 8 feet from the pin, where he holed out for a birdie 3.

The Ouimet-Howell match attracted most of th egallery. It was a seesaw battle all the way. The youth versus age element helped to arouse the interest of the fans.

June Beebe of Olympia Fields followed the Ouimet-Howell match and spent most of her time picking out points of vantage to view the various shots. June, who is women's western champion, knows the Beverly layout to perfection and wasted few steps in keeping ahead of the big gallery.

The players were still able to take chances with their approach shots since the greens remain a bit heavy due to the heavy rains of the week. One of the prettiest iron shots observed during the day was McCarthy's approach to the ninth green in the afternoon. His drive just reached the turn in the dog leg. He boosted his second high in the air and watched it fall dead four feet from the pin. On a fast green the ball would take a considerable roll.

Howell came close to evening matters with Ouimet on the 17th of the afternoon round when he blasted out of a trap at the side of the green and the ball came within an inch of dropping into the cup. Ouimet's drive on this par 3 hole was 20 feet from the pin and it appeared as if he would require two putts for a halve, thus sending the match on to the 18th for a decision. But Ouimet sent the ball on a slow curving journey into the cup for a deuce, winning the match, 2 and 1.

Jack Westland was the first man to tee off in the present tournament way back on Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Hence his caddy wears No. 1 on his back. The superstitious may see this as a good omen for the Chicago boy in the big task awaiting him today.

There was a brisk wind from the west when Howell and Ouimet teed off. Howell was short of the green on his second, with Ouimet 25 feet from the pin. They halved in par 4. Ouimet's tee shot was a few feet in front on the next hole. He hooked to the rough on his second, but was on with Howell in 3 for a par 5.

On the third Howell landed on the bank of a trap to the left of the green while Ouimet was on the short edge. Howell chipped past the hole and missed coming back, going one down when Ouimet dropped his par 3. Howell got a half at the fourth by a fine explosion shot from a trap by the green where his second lit. Ouimet was on in 2 and took 2 putts for par 4.

Howell Evens Match.

Howell outdrove Ouimet 40 yards on the uphill 5th and played his second just to the left of the green. He chipped close and evened the match with a par 4. On the short 6th Howell was well on with an iron while Ouimet was trapped to the left. Ouimet exploded past the pin and Howell took the hole with par 3, going one up.

Howell was ten yards past Ouimet on the seventh drive and hit a long brassie. Ouimet half topped his second and put his third in a trap to the right of the green. Howell took too much turf from the soggy fairway on his 3d and was just on in 4. Ouimet chipped to 2 feet from the cup, but missed the putt. They halved in 6, one over par.

They drove a like distance on the 8th, but Ouimet was in the short rough. On their second shots Howell was wide of the green to the right and Ouimet to the left. The latter chipped 3 feet from the cup, but missed the putt, letting Howell in for a half in 5, one over par.

Makes Brilliant Recovery.

Ouimet squared the match at the 9th with par 4. Howell outdrove him 7 yards but was short on his second, taking 5. They were out in 40 each.

Ouimet played the best recovery of his round at the tenth. His tee shot was 30 yards wide of the green and he had to play under overhanging trees and over high bunkers through a 6 foot space. He came through the small opening but the ball rolled over the green a few inches in the fairway. He took only one look at the putt and dropped it to halve Howell's par 3.

At the 11th Ouimet hooked to the rough while Howell was down the middle. Howell hit a brassie 40 yards past Ouimet's. The latter was short with his approach and Howell went 1 up when he was on in 3 and took 2 putts for par 5. Both were in the same trap short of the 12th green. Howell took 2 to get out and Ouimet evened the match by exploding out for 4 when Howell took 2 putts. They drove alike on the 13th, pitched to the green and halved in par 4.

Howell Becomes 2 Up.

Howell took the 14th when Ouimet put his iron shot in a trap and exploded 25 feet past the pin. Howell was on in 2 and took 2 putts, going 1 up. He made it 2 up on the 15th when Ouimet outdrove him but landed in a trap on his second. Howell's second was just short of the green from where he chipped up for par 4. Ouimet exploded well out, but his 20 footer hit the back of the cup and bounced out.

Ouimet cut the lead to one at the next hole with a perfectly played par 4. Howell dropped his iron in a trap to the left. His cut was too strong and he took 5. On the 17th Ouimet trapped his tee shot to the right of the green while Howell was on. Ouimet's second was within 12 feet of the cup, but Howell laid him a partial stymie over which Ouimet chipped too far. It was Howell's hole, par 3 to 4, putting him 2 up.

On the 18th Howell was farther from the tee and hit a good brassie, but he was 20 yards wide of the green with his approach. Ouimet played a good second and was on with his iron. Howell pitched over the cup and Ouimet laid him a partial stymie. Howell's try for 5 ran past the hole and Ouimet won in par 5, finishing the morning round 1 down. Howell took 79 to Ouimet's 80.

Start Afternoon Duel.

To start the afternoon round Ouimet hooked to the rough, outdriven by Howell, who was down the middle. Ouimet was short of the green with Howell on the edge. Howell putted short of the hole and when Francis chipped up he encountered a stymie. It was Howell's hole, 5 to 6.

Ouimet won the 20th when Howell took four shots down the rough to the left to reach the green. Howell tried for his 5 but missed and conceded to Ouimet, who was on in 3. They drove the 21st green with Billy nearest the cup and halved in par 3. Howell outdrove Ouimet on the 22d but put his second in a trap. He failed to get out till his fourth and conceded Ouimet a par 4 when he missed his fifth, and the match was even.

Ouimet Wins Another.

Ouimet took the 23d when Howell hit his drive behind a clump of trees and had to play short on his second. Ouimet was on with a beautiful iron shot and Billy conceded him a 4 when he had missed a putt for a 5.

On the next hole Ouimet was on the short edge of the green with a high iron shot and Howell caught the trap in front. Howell nearly holed his explosion shot, but missed a three-footer to lose the hole to Ouimet's par 3.

Ouimet was longer from the tee on the 25th, and was on the green with a brassie and iron. Howell played a poor brassie shot, but recovered with a good iron to also be on in 3. Howell putted short and Ouimet stymied himself to lose the hole, 5 to 6, being still one up. Howell was in front on the 26th drive, but in the rough to the right. Ouimet's second was on the green and Howell laid his 3 feet from the pin, to even the match with a birdie 3.

Both hit good drives on the 27th, and both were on the left edge of the green in 2. Howell took 3 to get down and Ouimet won the hole, 4 to 5, to go one up. On the 28th Ouimet was stymied by a tree on his tee shot and played wide 20 feet from the cup. Howell putted from the edge to 4 feet from the pin, where Ouimet laid him a partial stymie, but he played a billiard shot into the cup to win with a par 3 and even the match.

Deuce Gives Howell Lead.

On the next hole Ouimet hooked to the adjoining fairway while Howell was straight. Ouimet recovered well and reached the green with Howell in 3 where they halved in 5s. Each dropped his tee shot close to the pin on the 30th. Howell sank his putt for a deuce after Ouimet had missed and went one up. Ouimet came back with a birdie 3 on the 31st by dropping a 20-footer, evening the match.

They halved the 32d in par 4's. A bad second shot cost Howell the next hole. They drove evenly but he pushed his brassie to the deep rough short of the green. Ouimet chipped up for a 4 while Billy was taking 5.

The 34th saw Ouimet enjoy a break to halve the hole. The second shot hit a high bank to the right and caromed down 20 feet from the cup. Howell was on the left in two and they halved in par 4's.

The 35th hole was the most spectacular of the match. Howell hit his tee shot into a trap after Ouimet had driven 30 feet from the cup. Howell played an explosion shot out that trickled barely by the hole, causing the gallery to gasp. Ouimet took a quick look at his putt and watched it take the slight curve perfectly into the cup for a deuce and won the match, 2 and 1.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GOLF VIEWED BY DUB.

As a trio of us were driving home from the quarter-finals of the National Amateur golf tourney at Beverly Thursday, the discussion centered about what feature of play most impressed us during the day. Understand, our trio consisted of common or garden variety of golfers. The Wake belongs in the lower strata of even this classification, familiarly known as "dubs."

One chap asserted driving impressed him most. The easy, rhythmic swing with follow through, which sent the little pellet straight down the fairway on such long flights. Five of the eight quarter-finalists were rather slight in build yet they "got" distances which would have been "marvelous" to any of us.

The second of our party received the most "kick" from recovery shots—when the contestants played from the rough or from traps. The Wake held that approaching was the high spot. None changed views in the resulting argument, but let us tell the basis for our argument.

We took the position at the seventh green where the pin is 558 yards from the tee. So the third shot was the approach, at distances varying from 90 to perhaps as high as 140 yards. Six of these eight shots came high in the air and landed with a backspin on the green, several so close to the cup as to leave a possible putt. One of them was from the rough.

Both McCarthy and Coleman, the other two, were in trouble in the rough. McCarthy was behind trees and too close to loft over. Accordingly he played out to the side and his ball rolled into a trap. Coleman was half-stymied by a tree close to his ball. He studied the situation and played a low iron shot which rolled and rolled and finally reached the edge of the green. Thus seven out of eight approach shots found the green, two of them from the rough. If that isn't golf, then our usual 115 is par for any course.

"Hack" Has Admirer.

Dear Wake: "Habits and diet" are sure funny things. Take old Hack in 1930. He was following his "habits and diet" unhampered, with a free swing. He just was laying into that old pill to a total of 56 home runs, driving in 190 runs for an all time National league record.

If some one had told the Cub management that Hack was trying to be a sport nights and a ball player days, the management probably would have wanted to know the night club's address to send the other players there—like President Lincoln's reputed reply to the fellows who told him that Gen. Grant was drinking liquor.

Hack just naturally has "it." So watch the gate when he opposes the Cubs in 1932. Here's hoping, Hack, that you hit 75 home runs. You always gave us 50 cent bleacherites full value when you appeared in the lineup. A Fan.

CHICAGO ADOPTS WESTLAND, KING OF ITS AMATEURS

Good Competitive Disposition.

Westland's greatest golfing asset is his competitive disposition. His easy style, combined with a calm temperament, has enabled him to recover from many difficult spots. He forgets a poor shot as soon as it is made and goes on to make it up with his next.

Westland is far from a powerful man physically, weighing only 135 pounds and being 5 feet 10 inches tall. Consequently, he doesn't hit a strong wooden shot. He is usually straight with his woods, but they don't carry any phenomenal distance. He has a fine iron game, but depends upon his putter to carry him through most of the tough places. He employs meticulous care on the green and has a most peculiar putting style, swinging his head with the head of his club.

Like Tommy Armour, he always plays with a felt hat and usually smokes a cigaret throughout the match.

Plays Consistent Game.

In the present tournament Westland has met up with formidable opponents in every match. He has appeared impressive in every round, with the exception of the second day of the qualifying trial. On Monday, he shot a 72, the best score of the field, but the following day he came in with 84, giving him a qualifying total of 156.

His first round match was with Samuel Parks Jr., of the University of Pittsburgh, who played a strong game in the national collegiate championship at Olympia Fields last spring. Westland disposed of Parks, 4 and 3. In the second round, Westland went up against George T. Dunlap Jr., national intercollegiate champion, whom he defeated, 3 and 2.

In the quarter finals, the pudgy Arthur Yates rose up to oppose Westland and after a nip and tuck struggle the eastern ace was set back, 1 up. Yesterday's battle found Westland at the top of his game and Maurice McCarthy was his fourth victim by a 3 and 2 margin.

McMillen and Londos Finish Drills Today

Jim Londos of Greece and Jim McMillen of Illinois will end training today for their finish match at Soldiers' field Monday night. Londos will complete his drill at Kid Howard's gymnasium, while McMillen chose to take his last workout at Soldiers' field.

The match is the feature of a six event all heavyweight card being held under the auspices of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

McMillen is getting a long awaited chance to prove his boast that over the two falls to a finish route he is a better man than Londos, who has not lost a fall in the last two years. Londos holds two one-fall victories over McMillen.

Both have been benefited by a short lay-off from their strenuous labors of the last year and are in first class condition. As a result each has picked up weight. Londos will weigh 205 pounds, while McMillen will come in near 220 pounds. This weight advantage and the fact he is five years younger than the 33 year old Londos, are two factors upon which McMillen depends for victory.

CROWD MAULS WRESTLER FOR MAULING REFEREE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 4.—(AP)—A wrestling program at the auditorium tonight broke up in a near riot when George Vassel, heavyweight wrestler from California, lost his temper and used a body slam on Referee Charlie Bamford. The fans became equally angry and mauled the big wrestler for about ten minutes before police rescued him.

When Vassel, who weighs 216 pounds, lifted the referee high in the air and slammed him to the boards, several hundred fans stormed the ring. The wrestler took several hard wallops before a flying wedge of police took him from the ring.

23 YACHTS OFF ON 93 MILE RACE TO MICHIGAN LAKE

Busy Week-End Arranged for Sailors.

Twenty-three yachts, representing the Chicago, Jackson Park, and Columbia Yacht club fleets were out in the lake this morning northward bound on the 93 mile cruise to Black Lake, Mich. The craft, all in the universal and cruising divisions, took the starter's gun at Belmont harbor last night under a moderate to light northwest wind.

Weather predictions forecast a continuance of the light wind throughout the night, making it doubtful that the winner of the first leg would reach Black Lake before noon today. The return race to Belmont harbor will be started tomorrow night, with the first yachts expected to arrive here late Monday.

Race to Waukegan.

This race is the feature of the season's busiest week-end in Chicago sailing, the secondary feature being the Chicago Motor Yacht club's annual race to Waukegan, which gets under way this afternoon. The Waukegan event concludes the Chicago Motor Yacht club's reason and the entire fleet will participate.

In addition to these races, the first of the three heats for the Gehrmann trophy will be run today off Belmont harbor, with the second and third heats tomorrow and Monday. This event is limited to pup class sailing yachts.

Plan Michigan City Cruise.

The 30th annual Michigan City race, sponsored by the Jackson Park Yacht club, will get under way at Jackson park tomorrow morning. The fleet will remain in Michigan City over night and return on Monday.

Tomorrow and Monday will be devoted to an eagle class series at the Chicago Yacht club, with a race on each day. Pups from this club will sail shorter courses on the same days.

singled to center. Hendrick fanned, but a short fly to right by Cuccinello fell for a double, Roush stopping at third. Both men scored when Beck's high fly dropped in left center for two bases. Smith made his exit. The greeting tendered Jakie May was so enthusiastic that Durocher, Sukeforth, Lucas and Douthit all singled in succession. That raised the inning's total to five. Crabtree's scratch single and Hendrick's two bagger off Sweetland completed the debacle.

Adair Doubles.

The only significance attached to two runs harvested by the Cubs in the fourth was that Pepper Adair had a hand in the proceedings. With two out Grimm scratched a single through short and went to third on Adair's two base drive to left. Both scored on Hartnett's single. Just to keep the merry-go-round moving the Reds also scored in their half. Lucas made the circuit on his own hit, which preceded singles by Douthit and Crabtree.

Hartnett put his throwing arm to a test in the seventh and while so doing presented the enemy with a run. Roush opened the inning with a single. After Hendrick had fanned, Cuccinnello drew a walk. On the fourth ball Hartnett threw to second for no reason at all and the ball hopped into center field. Roush went to third on the error and scored the last run of the day on Beck's infield out.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Something must be done immediately about this Cub-Sox warfare. This department has been caught in the cross fire and we'll be lucky if we escape being hit before the two clubs fight it out Wednesday in that 100 per cent charity game at Comiskey park.

Letters chockful of dynamite are pouring in from the north side, south side, all around the town. The fans are riled up about it even down in Egypt and southern Indiana.

For all of its millions Chicago still is provincial in its sporting rivalries. A game between the Cubs and Sox stirs up more interest than a world series almost anywhere else.

A letter signed Bob Burns printed in this column a few days ago was the spark that touched off an explosion on the south side. It would take the entire sports department from now until the charity game to read through all the letters from fans resenting Mr. Burns' remarks.

Here's one from John Rogers:

"Why you ever started this so called Sox-Cubs feud is beyond me. During the first stages I was content to sit and smile but when that contributor, Bob Burns, started classifying the Sox players I decided it was high time to speak my piece.

"Comparing a National league player with an American league player is out of the question. They play with a different ball and under different rules.

"Speaking about the Sox letting good players go, think of Mr. Wrigley's position when the Braves come to town. Don't tell us he played the good Samaritan when he gave Boston enough good players to build half a team and then donated enough money to buy the other half. Since his generous gift the Braves have gone places and done things.

"No matter how bad the Sox may seem at times, they have managed to keep an edge on the Cubs in the city series. And when they play again Wednesday I'll be out there pulling for the Sox."

Henry J. Kohlmann, 2941 Wallace street, is a Sox fan. You can tell it by the following letter:

"In reply to the article written by Bob Burns in Monday's TRIBUNE, show him the following:

"Grimm—An acrobat in fielding. Hitting the ball for fear he will be traded. Likes Chicago too well to move.

"Blair—Class D player.

"English—A good ball player but doesn't get a chance.

"Bell—Ought to shake hands with Hornsby.

"Root—O. K. now and then.

"Malone and Bush—Should have been released four years ago.

"Smith, Sweetland and May—Three castoffs.

"Teachout, Baecht and Warneke—Need two more years in minors.

"Why send Malone to the mound in the charity game? Didn't he do enough damage last year by beaning Watwood? Come on, you Sox fans. Let's get together and cheer for Donie Bush and Mike Kelly. We need them to win the flag for the World's Fair."

And this from I. M., who signs himself a loyal fan of 1919:

"In most lobbies of loop buildings there seems to be a daily argument as to who is baseball champion of the south side, the White Sox or the Duffy Florals. Do you suppose there is a possible chance of a playoff between them?"

DUBLINSKY STOPS EDDIE KOPPY IN SEVENTH ROUND

Harry Dublinsky, west side lightweight, added another victim to his long string of victories last night by stopping Eddie Koppy of Detroit in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round windup. Referee Harry Mueller stopped the match when Koppy received a bad cut over his eye and was unable to defend himself.

Solly Schuman was awarded a six round decision over Paul Dempsey in the semi-windup. Young Geno of La Salle, Ill., defeated Kid Irish in six rounds. Jackie Davis scored an upset by knocking out Meyer Frager in the second round. Bobby Allen and Ted Kelly fought four rounds to a draw in the opening bout. About 2,000 saw the show.

Walker Hits Home Run to Beat Sox, 4-3

The Sox made their final run in the third. Fothergill singled off Whitehill's shins, went to second on Appling's out, and scored on Kerr's single.

In the fatal sixth Stone singled with one out, and stopped at second on Alexander's single to center. G. Walker took two strikes, then slammed the ball into the left field stand for three runs and the ball game. Rogell fanned and Appling threw out Richardson. After Walker's homer not a Tiger got the ball out of the infield, excepting a fly by Alexander which ended the eighth inning.

DON, WOOD CLASH TODAY; EXPECT TO RACE 100 M.P.H.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Back in 1903, a power boat called Napier I. achieved a speed of 19.53 miles an hour at Queenstown, England, and won the Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of the world's speedboat championship.

Tomorrow on the Detroit river course, Kaye Don, youthful appearing British speed ace, and Gar Wood, veteran of more than a decade of Harmsworth competition, will drive their mighty hydroplanes at a speed expected to exceed 100 miles an hour in the 17th renewal of the classic. It will be the first of two and possibly three 30 nautical mile heats to determine the 1931 winner. The second heat has been scheduled for Monday.

For the first time in the history of the Harmsworth race, one of the judges will follow the boats in an airplane, over the course to check the turns around each marking buoy.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Ever since the Chicago racing season opened the folks who specialize in 100 to 1 shots have been waiting for their big day.

The big day finally arrived at Lincoln Fields yesterday, when Kulaman got home in time to beat a band of sprinters in the six furlongs second race.

When he staggered home and scored his first victory in two years he paid $201.92 for a $2 ticket. He was at $49.20 to place and at $27.94 to show. He beat Ante Bellum, a noted mud runner from Kentucky, by four lengths, and Tommy Boy, also quite a mud lark, was third.

And He Was Given Away.

Kulaman ran in the black and white jacket of the La Salle stable of Chicago, trained by Frank Miller of Chicago. If you have ever visited the Hawthorne course you've seen quite a good young rider gallop out in a red coat to lead the horses to the post over at the race course on the west side.

The boy in the red coat was Frank Miller, a son of Ben Miller, the track superintendent at Hawthorne. Somebody gave him the race horse Kulaman, and for two years the lad has been trying to get him in shape to win. Finally, after he had been beaten twenty times last year and eight times this season, he dropped into the muddy struggle yesterday, and he won as if he might have been a stake horse. Once he started for the lead there was no catching him and he had Ante Bellum, the only contender, soundly whipped a sixteenth of a mile from home.

Time Slow? What of It?

The time was terribly slow, the six furlongs being run in 1:19 2-5. That's probably why Kulaman could win. He was ridden by Jockey A. Richard. The victory stunned the crowd for a time, then those who held a two dollar ticket on him began to cheer and everybody at the track joined with them.

The feature on the Lincoln Fields program was the Lil Dagover purse at six furlongs, and the winner was the consistent Infinity, which beat Sister Mary by six lengths. Very Well, from Ald. Coughlin's barn, was third. The time was 1:16 4-5, very slow, but the track was muddy and holding.

It was drying out fast, and a brisk wind was sweeping over the course, and there is a prospect of a lightning fast track by the time the Crete is run this afternoon.

Davison Entry 2-1 Choice in Crete Today

Most of the best sprinters in the west are to battle it out today at Lincoln Fields in the Crete handicap, which carries $5,000 in added money as the main prize.

Ten were named overnight for the race, which is at six furlongs, and the eastern entry of No More and Barrido, owned by C. E. Davison, ruled the favorite at 2 to 1.

My Dandy Second Choice.

After a brilliant victory here earlier in the week, My Dandy was mustering many of his old-time supporters and was the second choice at 4 to 1. The once great Epithet, which has run but one good race this year, continued to find some backing and was at 5 to 1.

Martha Jones and Don Leon, despite some rather fast performances lately, were the long shots, and it was surprising that Don Leon should be held at 10 to 1. Many believe he will be a much shorter price at post time, about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. He engaged in a sensational workout a few days ago.

Cathop Is Stadium Favorite.

Backing up the Crete handicap as a companion feature is the Stadium purse, also at six furlongs, which has attracted many of the best 2 year olds here. Several of them will strive for the $5,000 Joliet stakes on the Labor day program.

Cathop, the little half brother of famous old Mike Hall, no doubt will be the favorite, and if he performs like he has in his last two starts he should come home the winner.

LEVINSKY SIGNS NEW TRAINER FOR CON O'KELLY BOUT

King Levinsky yesterday added Sam Buxbaum to the staff which is training him for his bout with Con O'Kelly at White City Wednesday.

Buxbaum, a shrewd handler of fighters and one who has been in the corner for Jimmy McLarnin, Eddie Shea, Eddie Anderson, and Charley [Phil] Rosenberg, will be the chief trainer in the Levinsky training camp.

O'Kelly will arrive today and will work out this afternoon.

man, and it is doubtful that with the numbers off the casual rooter who is so all of a bubble with excitement over this horse race at Saratoga tomorrow could tell the two apart or pick them out of a herd. But the people learned to know Dempsey by reading about him, and they have not had to swing on the gate of Sun Beau's or Twenty Grand's stall to learn to regard these steeds almost as feelingly as thought they had fed them sugar by hand.

Sun Beau Is Rich Man's Pet.

Sun Beau comes from Binghamton, N. Y., the property, or more properly the pet, of a man named Willis Sharpe Kilmer, whose fortune descends from that time when people in this country, and especially the farmers, took patent medicines for chills and misery, toothache and bee sting. This Kilmer seems a little more fond of his horses, personally, than some of the busy rich men in the game and his old champion gelding, Exterminator, now roams the pastures on his farm, retired and as happy as a horse can be whose only pleasure was to run. He was an old one, too, when he was finally taken off the tracks and the public had come to know him with an affection which few human characters ever earn, as "Old Poison," "Old Slim" and "Old Bones."

Twenty Grand made most of his reputation when he slid up from a position next to last in the Kentucky Derby last spring to glide past the field and win so easily that the people present felt very foolish to think that they had ever had the slightest doubt of the outcome. Then he won the Belmont, the Dwyer and some others and the only horse who has beaten him this year is Mate, who did so twice. Mate really ought to be running in the Saratoga to round out the contest and confirm the verdict but he hurt a leg.

Twenty Grand Has Been Resting.

But notwithstanding Mate's two victories, Twenty Grand is generally acknowledged as the champion three year old and at the long distance, a mile and three-quarters, the gamblers have made him the favorite over Sun Beau. His price was 3 to 5 and Sun Beau's, 8 to 5.

Twenty Grand has had two weeks' rest for the Saratoga cup, whereas old Sun Beau took a little trip to Chicago last week-end and won the Lincoln Fields handicap last Saturday. But he likes to run and seems to take his train rides as easily as a traveling drummer, so that excursion probably cannot be weighed against his chances.

Charlie Kurtsinger, a blond kid who grew up not far from the Louisville track and rode Twenty Grand to victory in the Derby with the home folks yelling their heads off, would be on him again at Saratoga if he had not hurt a shoulder a little while ago. But the boy is lame in one arm still and just on the chance that he might need all his muscles in the big race, Pony McAtee has been substituted. Charlie Phillips wil ride Sun Beau.

They'll Race Just for Fun.

Up to now Twenty Grand has won about $200,000, so there is no question of their coming anywhere near even in earnings in this race and the pure sporting challenge of the race is emphasized again.

And now that all attention has been concentrated on the two champions, it would be most upsetting if Sir Ashley or Quarterdeck should find the going especially pleasant and win the horse race at a long price. Neither Sun Beau nor Twenty Grand is supposed to be very fond of a heavy track, and the Saratoga track was heavy this afternoon, in a country where the rains splash down out of the mountains without warning. In fact, Sun Beau might be withdrawn to wait for a fairer day in the event of more rain, but Twenty Grand is expected to run regardless.

Sun Beau Champion of the Turf

BY FRENCH LANE.

For the first time in Sun Beau's long and illustrious career, scandal—black and foul-tongued—besmirched him as he came galloping home, out of the money, in the Agua Caliente handicap.

In just about two minutes, his chance of winning $100,000 and becoming a world champion money gleaner had vanished. The hundreds of persons who had lost thousands upon thousands of dollars on him gasped.

"Sun Beau had been pulled."

"The people who operate the Agua Caliente future book had made certain he would not win."

"Coltilletti, the jockey, or Crawford, the trainer, or both, had been bribed."

These were some of the accusations which made Sun Beau the center of the ugliest rumors ever to envelop a race run at a winter track, and heaven knows there have been plenty of such scandals at tracks where races are run in the winter time.

Even Sun Beau was excited. He didn't sulk the next day as he had been in the habit of doing after he had failed to win. He seemed to know that he was not to blame for this beating which had disappointed a good part of the nation.

To Pistol, the pony, and to the dog, Pal, his constant companions, he even seemed a bit carefree. He might have whinnied to Pistol, "Why should I care? We're only camping out when we are away from New York, anyhow."

He was certainly in the mood to make such a remark, for the trip into Mexico had resulted only in lots of hard work plus the major disappointment of his life.

Kilmer fired Crawford, the trainer. Then he fired Coltilletti, the jockey. Sun Beau traveled back east and there followed a long pow-wow at Sun Briar court as to whether he should immediately be retired to the stud or be kept in training to make a final gesture toward becoming the world's greatest money winning horse.

To Sun Beau, already in the best of condition from his hard winter's work, it didn't make much difference. He might have thought, since all his boyhood playmates had already gone into retirement, "Why should they keep me on the job?"

But the lure of running past horses in the stretch and of being acclaimed by thousands of old admirers most likely offset the magnetism of going to fish in the Susquehanna, which wound its way through Owner Kilmer's farm.

Goes Back East to Win Philadelphia Handicap.

He stayed on the job and not many weeks after his mysterious defeat in the Agua Caliente handicap he was glad to have an opportunity of winning the Philadelphia handicap at Havre de Grace.

Sun Beau then got a touch of spring fever. It was that same springtime laziness he had experienced every year since the time when he had been running around barefooted, shooting marbles and playing "run sheep run" with his cousin, Reigh Count, and others in the old gang.

By this time Sun Beau was within $50,000 of taking the lead among the high money winning horses of the world. There were some rich stakes to be run at Arlington in July which, if he could win, would send his mark soaring above that hung up nearly a year earlier by the youthful Gallant Fox.

Sun Beau was given plenty of time to shake loose from his spring fever. At last he moved into Chicago, ready to put up the fight of his life in the races which were to make him a world's champion or leave him floundering around with the many good horses who had tried for the record but had become just so many "also rans."

Zev, Display, Exterminator, Man O' War, Sarazen, Blue Larkspur, Crusader, Domino, Reigh Count and other famous horses were behind Gallant Fox. So it would not be so very disgraceful if Sun Beau, too, should fail.

The Arlington Cup at weight for age found him a handy winner. He ran brilliantly. All the ambition which might have been squelched when he was beaten at Agua Caliente was there and more, too.

Next came the Arlington handicap, and, as he neared the finish, he again heard the shout from a packed stand and lawn, "Come on Sun Beau." The old fellow would not go back on his public. The horse whose legs were once crooked, who was lazy and dodged work, and who had been beaten often enough to break the hearts of a hundred thoroughbreds, raced from behind on to victory.

So, on that hot July afternoon with a monstrous throng looking on, Sun Beau became the turf champion of the world.

There has been another $25,000 victory in a Lincoln handicap since then. There is no telling where old Sun Beau will stop. He may be beaten before he winds up his 6 year old campaign late in the fall. He may be whipped today by Twenty Grand in the Saratoga Cup. But it will be a year at least—maybe many years—before another horse approaches his world's record.

In England, where the thoroughbred horse originated, Sun Beau, the great champion, will never have his name written into the carefully guarded stud book.

Over there, where horses seldom win half as much, Sun Beau's name will go down as a half-breed. For Sun Beau's mother, Beautiful Lady, was a daughter of Fair Play. Fair Play, who was also the daddy of Man O' War, traces back to Aerolite, and she was a daughter of Lexington. Horses which trace back to Lexington—including Man O' War—are not registered in the English stud book.

So there you have Sun Beau, whose name to thousands is synonymous with greatness. And we leave the old fellow, still the true gentleman from Virginia, suh!, politely asking Mr. Babe Ruth, Mr. Bobby Jones, Mr. Jack Dempsey to please push over, suh! and make room for him on the bench reserved for the all-time heroes of sport.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Aided by Pepper Martin's misjudgment of a fly ball, the Pittsburgh Pirates made it two straight over the Cardinals today, 3 to 1.

The score was tied at 1-all in the eighth when Martin let Traynor's fly go for a single, scoring Lloyd Waner. Hallahan forced in the third run with a pass in the same inning. Heinie Meine was the winning pitcher. Score:

No Matter Who Wins the Amateur It's Another Spalding Triumph

Two great golfers are battling for the privilege of donning the mantle of amateur standing of the United States. Both of them are playing the Spalding ball and Spalding Cushion Neck steel shafted irons!

The Spalding ball was played by last year's winner—and by the winners of this famous tournament fifteen of the past seventeen years. Truly this is the ball of the champions—the one ball that offers to leading amateurs and professionals—to every low handicap golfer—the controllability, uniformity and distance that championship golf demands.

And Spalding Cushion Neck clubs rapidly are becoming the clubs of the champions. Their achievements this year have been as outstanding as the achievements of the Spalding ball. They are recognized by the golfing greats as the only club that offers uniform control torque—straighter and longer shots it makes possible!

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING EBBS; PRICES UNEVEN

Commonwealth Edison Regains Early Loss.

Trading quieted down on the stock exchange yesterday both in point of volume and price movements. The trading fraternity appeared more interested in getting away for a three-day recess over Labor day than in dealing in stocks. There was a hang-over volume of offerings early in the session but this was pretty well absorbed without any very large price recessions. Thereafter the trade just droned along and prices rallied a bit.

The volume of trading dropped back to a total of 75,000 shares. Final quotations disclosed considerable irregularity among the leaders but net price changes generally were confined to fractions. Middle West Utilities was the leader and declined a major fraction. Commonwealth Edison sagged several points early in the day but later rallied strongly and ended with a fractional gain.

Rise Fractionally.

U. S. Radio and Television and North American Light and Power, which had been the chief hot spots among the declines earlier in the week, were only moderately active and both finished with fractional advances. Cities Service, Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line, Swift and Walgreen also made fractional gains. Continental Chicago common was unchanged but the preferred was off a fraction. Bendix Aviation was well supported and finished unchanged, as also did Great Lakes Aircraft. Insull Utilities Investment and Borg-Warner lost minor fractions.

Acquires Phone Firm.

Associated Telephone Utilities held steady. The company announced acquisition of the Wabash Home Telephone, Wabash, Ind., which serves 3,000 subscribers. The Wayne Pump company reported net profits of $36,452 after all charges except federal taxes for the first eight months of this year, compared with $631,152 for the corresponding period in 1930. Earned surplus declined from $1,076,420 to $715,708.

A membership on the Chicago exchange was posted for transfer to William R. Bacon of the brokerage firm of Bacon & Co., San Francisco and Los Angeles.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Potato market was well supplied; receipts, 77 cars. Shipments at leading stations on Thursday were 495 cars and 247 cars were on track at Chicago. Apples were plentiful at 75c to $1.25 a bu.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 200; hogs, 5,000; sheep, 4,000.

The set back in price of weighty hogs yesterday ended a two weeks' advance. Packing grades slipped down 10@25c, while butcher hogs that are selling at top prices lost 10c of the recent advance. Lightweights held about in line with the general selling Thursday and finished active on stronger eastern support. Outside orders were larger and almost 40 per cent of the fresh receipts went to shippers.

The extreme top declined 5c to $6.70, while the general average, forced down by the break in weighty stock, showed 10c loss at $5.75. Better outside demand was the feature of the trade. Hogs bought yesterday will arrive at their destination in the east late Sunday and during Monday, in time for slaughter Tuesday. Local packers report a satisfactory demand for fresh pork on the wholesale trade and look for a good retail market today, due to the double holiday. Loins from medium and heavy hogs are holding up well, but cuts from light hogs can be obtained at a slight saving compared with a week ago.

Hog Futures Firm.

The hog futures market held firm yesterday. December medium and heavy grades were offered at $5.25@5.50, but buyers held their bids down to $5.10 on these contracts. September heavy grades were offered at $6.75 and bid $6.65, while mediums for the first half of this month were offered at $7.00 and bid $6.50.

Yesterday's meager supply of 1,500 cattle changed hands slowly at the previous day's quotations. Hardly enough arrived to establish a full list of quotations in all branches of the trade and some classes were absent. Medium and weighty beeves met good demand at prevailing prices and are only 10@25c under the highest point of the season, established during last week.

Light steers and yearlings, however, have slumped 25@35c and some of the inbetween classes which usually fluctuate most on sudden turns of the market, are considered as much as 50@75c lower for the week. No steers in yesterday's arrivals were good enough to pass $9.40, but prime 1,200@1,500 lb averages are expected to bring the $10.00 quotation into use again next week. They sold at $10.10 Thursday. Demand for stockers and feeders has been urgent for the past few weeks and rain in many parts of the corn belt the last three days has improved pasture conditions.

Buyers of feeder cattle thus far this season are, in the main, feeders of long standing. These old timers realize that cheap feed and cheap feeder cattle usually do not exist at the same time.

"The opportunity for making money in the cattle business has never been better," said Sam Stark, Mower county, Minn., who will take on all the cattle his 1,000 acres of land can feed. He has been raising cattle for more than 50 years. Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana, is purchasing 1,500 feeders to eat his 70,000 bu of corn, for, he said, "corn will be cheaper than it is now and feeding it to live stock is the only way I know it can be sold at a profit."

West to Move Lambs.

Yesterday's supply of 16,000 lambs, the largest Friday total since last November, was regarded as a prelude to a big general movement of receipts following Labor Day. Word has been received that range stock will be moved in volume during the next few weeks and that some of the principal states in the west will unload the bulk of their lambs in the next two weeks. A big gain in the proportion of feeder lambs is expected from now on.

The market yesterday held up well under stress of large receipts. Quality of range lambs was better and gains of 10@15c were cited in many of the largest sales of the day. The top of $7.65 for westerns was the popular price. Bulk of sorted natives went at $7.50, although city butchers paid up to $7.85 for the few that suited them. Aged sheep were a shade stronger and yearlings quoted steady. Feeding lambs are in good demand at $5.50@5.85.

REFORM [illegible] LAWS IS [illegible] FOR ILL[illegible]

Plan Would Replace State Auditor.

The leading security and commodity exchanges of the country will be closed today and Monday—Labor day. These include the New York Stock exchange, New York Curb exchange, Chicago Board of Trade, and Chicago Stock exchange. Banks will remain open today, but will be closed Monday.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Bankers must join together and inaugurate reforms in the Illinois banking laws. This warning is sounded by M. A. Graettinger, executive secretary of the Illinois Bankers' association, in the current number of the association's official publication. He warns further that sentiment for banking reform is growing and that legislation inimical to banks may transpire unless the bankers take the lead.

M. A. GRAETTINGER. [Koehne Photo.]

One of the reforms advocated by Mr. Graettinger is the placing of state banking supervision under an appointed head, in a separate department, and as free as possible from political entanglements. This would remove supervision from the state auditor. It also is suggested that a banking board be created, consisting of three members appointed by the governor, to pass on the issuance of charters to new banks. This board also would appoint the supervising head and chief deputy, who would be subject to discharge only for cause.

Could File Charges.

If the supervisor should find any official or director of a bank incompetent to conduct its affairs or operating the bank to the detriment of its solvency or the safety of depositors, he would have authority to file charges against such officials with the board, which could remove the delinquent officials upon the charges being proved.

"Give us better security for our deposits' seems to be the cry of those who have had their money frozen in the bank suspensions of recent years," Mr. Graettinger concludes. "The good banker always desires complete information regarding the condition of a borrower and, contrariwise, he should furnish such complete information to the man or woman or business concern he is inviting to become a depositor in his bank.

Suggests More Information.

"We should suggest the inclusion in published statements of the information when assets are pledged for public or other deposits, for bills payable or, in case of national banks, for circulation. Such assets should be shown separately from those unpledged. Contingent liabilities such as agreements to repurchase bonds sold should also be noted.

"This may be heresy in the eyes of most bankers but they must remember they are in a new era of banking and the public is going to be from Missouri—it will want to be shown."

BEGIN TO SHOW GAINS

"Seasonal activity and an encouraging note of optimism stand out as the favorable characteristics of the reports to Bradstreet's from forty leading centers," says Bradstreet's review of the week.

"The optimism is largely in trade circles and the light industries and, apparently, is much based on the seasonal upturn in some lines and the hope for upturn in others.

"Many reports mention the buying for the opening at schools as a stimulus in varying degree to retail trade. "Retail summer stocks are pretty well reduced due to the strenuous Au[gust] efforts of stores through 'sales.' These are still continuing in many places, with goods drastically marked down. A noticeable feature of the new fall goods is also lower prices asked."

Sees Expansive Future for Talking Picture Industry

BY SCRUTATOR.

It has been estimated that the introduction of talking motion pictures has increased the average weekly attendance at movie theaters throughout the country from 58,000,000 persons to 115,000,000. Average weekly expenditures for admission were placed at $30,000,000, and a recent estimate placed the invested capital in the motion picture business of the world at $2,500,000,000 in film theaters, exchanges and studios. Of this amount $2,000,000,000 is invested in the United States. What lies ahead of this great industry?

The production of silent pictures was dominated by American firms whose dramas and comedies were shown in practically every place in the world where there was a motion picture projector. The enfolding of a story through pantomime was understandable by a native of any country, while the translation of explanatory subtitles into any language was simple.

The advent of the talkie produced a new situation since the nationals of foreign countries must have dialogues in their own language. Since a large part of the returns from the American investment in the film industry came from abroad there has been much discussion regarding the future of the talkie with respect to this country.

Take Protective Action.

Possibly it is yet too early to make estimates regarding what is to come. For instance, some foreign producing countries have taken action to protect their own industries through legislation requiring that the United States import their films proportionately with the number it exports. However, American silent films have been favored for many years by foreign movie fans and once restrictive complications are settled satisfactorily and the American companies have overcome the foreign language dialogue problem American supremacy should be maintained. The foregoing situation applies particularly to Europe where the talkie has strengthened the film industry in Germany, Great Britain, and France.

Already the American companies are producing pictures with foreign dialogue. In Hollywood some of the larger companies after producing a picture with English dialogue substitute various foreign actors to speak parts for pictures going abroad. Smaller companies use the so-called "dubbing" system in which American actors are employed, with foreigners in the background carrying on the dialogue in the language of the country for which the film is intended. One large American company has a studio outside of Paris in which talkies in twelve languages were produced last year.

Near Saturation Point.

In this country we find an interesting situation for although it has been only five years since the introduction of sound pictures, the business of supplying apparatus for their exhibition in theaters is rapidly approaching the saturation point. It is estimated that there are 14,500 theaters in the country suitable for exhibiting sound pictures. A recent tabulation showed that 10,234 theaters had been equipped to give talkies, leaving only a little more than 4,000 to receive installations. And it is expected that by the end of the year practically every theater suitable will have its talkie equipment.

But there remains practically a virgin field open to the talkies. This lies in the exploitation of portable talkie equipment and films for use in schools, colleges, business, industry, hospitals, etc. A few years back the so-called portable talkie machine was about as portable as a portable school house. But now the necessary devices can be carried as easily as a couple of suit cases.

Any one may readily appreciate how valuable the talkie can be in the schools. The great educators of the world can unfold their work before students in remote districts almost as easily as they can in the classrooms of city universities. The teaching of foreign languages can be made easier and far more interesting.

Many Kinds of Uses.

Great surgeons can perform operations before student doctors, explaining their methods as they go, and thus preserving to the world invaluable information. Salesmen can be trained through the use of talkies and there are a thousand and one ways in which business can make use of them.

And in the meantime talkie equipment for theater and private use will be improved. Already, according to the Western Electric company, some moving picture theaters have audio-phones in back rows through the use of which deaf persons can hear easily. Constant improvements together with expansion of the talkie business throughout the world should ensure bright prospects for this branch of American industry—both in the manufacture of equipment and in the production of sound films for display in theaters and before private audiences.

BRITAIN DRAWS ABOUT 10 PCT. OF BIG BANK CREDIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 4.—The British government has made its first drawing, amounting to about 10 per cent, against the credit of $200,000,000 opened in its favor on Aug. 28 by a syndicate of American banks, under the leadership of J. P. Morgan and company.

All banks participating in the credit, about 110 in number, have been called upon to advance their pro-rate share of the drawing. Against the amounts so supplied each bank will be credited with an equivalent amount of British treasury bills at a discount of 4¼ per cent.

World consumption of coffee, as estimated by deliveries, amounted to 3,663,861 bags for the combined months of July and August, compared with the total of 3,420,085 bags for the like two months last year, the New York coffee and sugar exchange reports. The world visible supply on Sept. 1 was 6,943,728 bags, not including the interior stock of Brazil. This compared with 6,989,952 bags on Aug. 1, and 5,528,978 bags on Sept. 1, 1930.

Insull Utilities Investment.

Will you please give me some information on Insull Utilities Investment company 6 per cent bonds? Stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed.—Miss G. B. S.

Insull Utilities Investment, Inc., was incorporated in December, 1928, with the usual broad powers granted to investment companies. It has acquired and held substantial amounts of securities of various Insull companies. At the close of 1930 this company and Corporation Securities company, under the same management, and the jointly owned subsidiaries, Public Service Trust and Second Utilities Syndicate, Inc., held 17.9 per cent of the outstanding stock of Commonwealth Edison company, 29.21 per cent of the outstanding stock of Middle West Utilities company, 28.78 per cent of the outstanding stock of Peoples Gas Light and Coke, and 11.5 per cent of the outstanding stock of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

Balance available for interest in 1930, including sales of stock rights and valuation of stock dividends at the market price when received, was $15,453,804, against $12,387,794 for the period of Dec. 27, 1928, to Dec. 31, 1929.

Interest on debenture bonds was $3,291,428, against $164,350 for the 1929 period. Other interest was $1,819,304, against $624,878 in 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1930, securities with a cost of $253,726,626 had a market value of $188,315,665. Market value of securities held was $236,957,336 on Feb. 11, 1931.

Net asset value per $1,000 debenture at the close of 1930 was $2,647.

Chicago, Aurora and Elgin.

Will you please give me your best information regarding Chicago, Aurora and Elgin bonds? I am unable to understand why a bond that is paying its interest should be quoted so low.—J. R. M.

Total operating revenues for 1930 were $2,661,062, against $2,807,829 for 1929, $2,802,845 for 1928, and $2,813,486 for 1927.

Only 97 per cent of charges were earned in 1930. Charges were earned 1.16 times in 1929, 1.09 times in 1928, and 1.11 times in 1927.

At the close of 1930 bonded debt was $5,018,000. The company also had outstanding $3,400,000 6 per cent notes, due 1939, all owned by Chicago, Aurora and Elgin corporation, the parent company. On July 1, 1931, due and unpaid interest on the notes amounted to 43½ per cent.

The first and refunding 6s, due 1951, are more a speculation than an investment.

FORECASTS HEAVY ADVERTISING SWING TO DAILY NEWSPAPERS

A large increase in newspaper advertising, at the expense of the lineage usually carried in magazines of national circulation, is forecast by Gage P. Wright, editor of The Business Economic Digest and a New York business counselor, who has advised his clients that prospective business conditions practically require such a redistribution of advertising funds if advertisers are to take the fullest advantage of such business recovery as may be in store for this country in the near future. Mr. Wright said he based his opinion upon the convictions of many business men with whom he had conferred recently.

"Business conditions are spotty, to say the least, at the present time," Mr. Wright said, "and there is every reason to believe that improvement will be equally spotty, with returning prosperity making itself evident sooner in some places than in others and with more intensity here than there.

"Common sense indicates the wisdom of concentrating advertising in the favorable spots rather than spreading it uniformly over a variety of fields, only a few of which are ready for cultivation. This means nothing more nor less than the concentration of advertising in newspapers, methods of dealer help, and direct mail advertising. Periodicals of national coverage may easily increase their circulations with the first signs of returning prosperity but of what use to the advertiser is coverage in territories which have not yet regained their purchasing power?"

FOREIGN BUYING HELPS SUPPORT BERLIN BOERSE

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—(AP)—In the face of buying support from abroad and stiffened domestic support the boerse closed generally unchanged today at the end of the second session since the government stopped trading on July 11.

Slight gains from yesterday's close offset slight losses, and so encouraging was the outlook toward the close that the governing committee removed its restriction limiting actual sales to 10 per cent of the offerings. This order affected only some of the issues, however, and the restriction remained on some others in which a flood of sales orders threatened to unsettle the market.

Today's firm tone after yesterday's collapse was regarded as encouraging, but if the situation is to be cleared yesterday's sellers will have to recall the bulk of the orders which have not yet been executed.

I. G. Farben was unchanged today at 93; Ilse, the big mining combination, remained at 115, but A. E. G., the German general electric, lost 4 to close at 55. Bank stocks were steady, closing at yesterday's prices, and foreign securities also were steady.

Auburn Auto, Sun Life Vote Usual Quarterly Dividends

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The semi-annual extra dividend of $25 a share paid heretofore on the shares of Sun Life Assurance was omitted yesterday, the board declaring only the regular quarterly disbursements of $6.25 a share. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to shareholders of record Sept. 15.

Since the latter part of 1929 the company had been paying extra dividends of $25 each twice a year. The last bonus was paid on April 1 last.

At the meeting of directors of the Auburn Automobile company, the regular dividend of $1 a share and the usual additional dividend of 2 per cent in stock was voted. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 19.

Takes No Action.

The General Steel Castings corporation took no action with respect to the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, due Oct. 1. Three months ago the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share was paid. Harrison Hoblitzelle, executive vice president of the company, was elected president to succeed R. H. Ripley, who was elected chairman of the board.

The company indicated that its positions as of July 31, 1931, showed current assets of $11,647,000, of which $9,889,000 was represented by cash, bank deposits and marketable securities against current liabilities of $858,000. In spite of this, the board, it was announced, decided to conserve all assets which will permit of business conditions which will permit more favorable operating results.

The American Furniture Mart Building corporation has omitted its quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the cumulative preferred stock due at this time.

Directors of the Congress Cigar company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, as against $4 previously.

The Porto Rican-American Tobacco company omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the class A stock, due at this time.

Coming Dividend Events.

A number of important dividend meetings are scheduled for next week. Passing of the Lehigh Valley and the Case dividends has shaken anew such confidence as existed in dividend maintenance. If high yield is any guide, a number of dividend rates may be bound to fall. General Realty preferred, for instance, yields 21 per cent. Consolidated Film preferred and Willys Overland preferred both yield over 15 per cent. New Haven and Cluett-Peabody yield over 12 per cent. FINDS INCOME OF RAILS 2.19% OF BOOK VALUE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The bureau of railroad economics today announced net railway operating income of the larger railroads of the country was at the annual rate of 2.19 per cent of their book value during the first seven months of 1931.

This figure, based on reports of 171 railroads having gross revenues of $10,000,000 a year or over, coincides closely with claims of the carriers made in their petition for permission to increase rates 15 per cent. The petition in the rate case asserts that during the first four months of the year net earnings were 2.24 per cent annually.

The railroads seeking the rate increase claim they need approximately 4 per cent to keep their bonds on the legal lists of New York, Massachusetts and other states requiring that earnings be 150 per cent of the interest on their bonds and other fixed charges. The interstate commerce commission, acting under the 1920 transportation act, has fixed a fair return on railroad investments as 5¾ per cent.

Net railway operating income for the 171 railroads listed by the bureau was $295,085,044, out of which interest on bonds and other similar charges must be paid before stockholders get dividends. During the same period last year net railway operating income for the same group of roads was $406,448,586, or 3.48 per cent. The roads operate 242,906 miles of track.

Reports Auto Retail Sales Running Ahead of Output

Production of automobiles is currently at a low ebb, with little prospect for any upturn before the largest volume producers start shipments on new models later in the year, Dow, Jones & Co. says. Retail sales, however, are running at a rate considerably in excess of output, the survey says, in line with the industry's present policy of reducing field stocks during the summer season. Registration figures for August will not be available for some weeks, but are expected to show the sales trend gained momentum during the past month.

WOOLWORTH SALES TOTAL $21,711,542, A DROP OF 1.5 PER CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 4.—F. W. Woolworth company reports August sales of $21,711,542, compared with $22,055,363 in the month last year, a decrease of 1.5 per cent. For the first eight months of 1931 sales amounted to $173,065,794, compared with $174,107,227 in the period last year, a decline of six-tenths of 1 per cent.

Sales during the latter part of August were adversely affected by the lateness of the opening of the schools of the country this year. Last year school purchasing, estimated at around $500,000 by H. T. Parson, president, came in the last two weeks of August, whereas this business will be realized early in September this year.

August sales of S. S. Kresge company amounted to $10,976,122, a decline of 3.8 per cent from $11,409,973 reported for August last year. Sales for eight months aggregated $88,936,514, a decline of nine-tenths of one per cent from $89,750,011 for the corresponding period of 1930. At the end of August the company had 665 American and 34 Canadian stores in operation.

August sales of the W. T. Grant company were $5,395,002, against $5,383,328 in August, 1930, a gain of 1 per cent. For the eight months to Aug. 31 last sales were $43,707,453, against $40,207,100 in the same period last year, a gain of 8.7 per cent.

The American Department Stores' August sales amounted to $495,611, against $558,787 in August, 1930, a decrease of 11.3 per cent. For the eight months to Aug. 31 last sales were $4,640,212, against $4,961,750 in the same period of 1930, a decrease of 6.5 per cent.

RESOURCES OF WORLD BANK SHOW DECLINE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BASLE, Switzerland, Sept. 4.—The monthly statement of the World bank shows its resources on Aug. 31 totaled around $308,000,000. This is $5,000,000 less than a month ago.

The loss is due to a $15,000,000 drop in deposits of central banks for the accounts of others, namely, government treasuries, resulting from the suspension of reparations and war debts payments. Normally the various European treasuries left on deposit in the Bank for International Settlements $25,000,000 from the month's reparation receipts in order to meet the semi-annual debt payments to the United States.

It is noteworthy that all but a part of this loss has been offset, most of it by increased deposits by central banks for their own account.

Gasoline Prices Raised in New York and Ohio

Richfield Oil company of New York has advanced the tank car price of U. S. motor grade gasoline to 6¼ cents a gallon, from 6 cents, at its terminal. The Standard Oil Company of Ohio has added another cent to its gasoline price, making its two grades sell for 17 and 20 cents a gallon. Other Ohio companies indicated they would make a similar increase at once.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 4.—They of the trading fraternity took things easy in the pre-holiday session on the stock exchange today. Closing prices were irregularly lower, with the net changes largely in fractions.

In the absence of any further disheartening news the street was inclined to take a somewhat more cheerful view of the immediate market outlook, but fears of adverse dividend actions by the boards of a number of big corporations next week acted as a staying influence on any operations for the advance that might have been in order. Western Union directors are scheduled to meet on Tuesday and the New Haven railroad board is expected to announce a downward revision in the road's rate at the same time.

The following day New York Central directors are due to consider the next quarterly payment and the street believes that a reduction will be in order. International Telephone and Telegraph directors are scheduled to consider dividends on Thursday and several other meetings will take place during the week. Reduction talk was no doubt a factor in the selling which came into the shares of some of the companies on the list today.

Victims of Pressure.

New York Central and Western Union certainly were victims of pressure on this account. The railroad issue dipped a point to a new low and Western Union was hammered down more than 4 points. International Telephone gave up a point or so, but succeeded in holding well above its 1931 bottom.

Outside of the dividend "victims" most of the pivotals held fairly steady. United States Steel common weakened rapidly in the early trading to record a new 9 year minimum of 82⅝, but finally found buyers and finished up at 83, fractionally under yesterday's close. American Telephone sagged some 2 points, much being heard of foreign sales. The presence in the "telephone" crowd of a number of floor traders who have been active on the bear side over the last few days, however, seemed to support the view that much of the selling in the utility leader was for short account.

The purpose of the drive on this leading investment issue was declared by those holding to this diagnosis to be to create an impression of weakness to facilitate covering in other sections of the list. Other public utilities were out of favor, but sharp losses in the group were few.

Many Thin Markets.

Thin markets in a good many stocks continued to account for the majority of price changes exceeding one or two points. Baltimore and Ohio preferred, which gained three points yesterday, yielded 2⅝ on two sales. Canada Dry Ginger Ale dropped four points to a new low on fairly large trading volume. White Rock fell to a new low on a single sale. Continental Baking preferred, in spite of declaration of the regular quarterly dividend, sank four points to a yield of more than 15 per cent.

Pressed Steel Car preferred sold for the second time since the dividend was omitted on Aug. 19 and felt a slump of more than eight points on one sale, touching a new low level. Declines of from two to five points were noted in Midland Steel Products first preferred, Peoples Gas, Southern Railway, M. & O., Illinois Central, Lackawanna, Foreign Power 6 per cent preferred, Western Union, and Pittsburgh Coal preferred. Illinois Central Leased Lines dropped sixteen points on one transaction of ten shares. This was the first sale in several weeks.

The oils as a group looked a bit weary, possibly in expectation of the reopening of the east Texas wells tomorrow. Motors were mixed and coppers held fairly well.

Railroad shares looked a bit better after their dispiriting performance of yesterday, although selling continued to be the rule for the group and several new lows were registered.

Large Investors favor Utility Securities

Electric and gas utilities demonstrated stability of earnings during the 18 months ended June 30, 1931, unequalled by any other major business group.

Bonds of companies in the Associated Gas and Electric System are widely held by insurance companies and other financial institutions.

WHEAT MARKET FIRMER; PRICES AT HIGHER LEVEL

Wet Weather in Europe Causes Some Anxiety.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Evening up operations for the triple holiday furnished a good part of the trade in grains yesterday, but the undertone was firmer. Strength in the American northwest and unconfirmed rumors which came from Canada that considerable political friction had developed between Japan and China resulted in a higher level of wheat prices and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@⅝c, with the September leading. The latter closed at 46⅛ to 46½c, or 2⅝c under the December compared with 3¼c on Thursday, while the May closed at 53⅞ to 54c.

Minneapolis September wheat, which calls for a delivery of bread spring grain of which there is a pronounced scarcity this season owing to the smallest crop known in that section in a great many years, advanced 1⅞c and closed at 59½c, or about 13c over the same delivery in Chicago. Winnipeg felt the effect of hedging sales toward the last, but finished ⅝@½c higher, with October at 52⅝c. Exporters were liberal buyers at 52¾c early in the day. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛c higher, with October 53⅝c. Continued wet weather in Europe and a better cash demand were factors.

England Buys Cash Wheat.

The wet weather in Europe is causing some apprehension abroad and England bought Manitoba wheat yesterday after being out of the market for some time, and there were intimations that perhaps the Russian grain was not up to the quality expected. However, the latter country is exporting freely, although all reports indicate that the yield is smaller than last year. It is claimed the crop has been found so short a conference was recently held by soviet government officials at which one faction desired to revise the export program and hold back sufficient grain to take care of the urban population, but this was overruled."

Cash wheat is showing considerable strength in domestic markets and is selling at the best prices of the season compared with futures. No. 1 and No. 2 hard here brought 2½@4½c over Chicago September, while at Kansas City ordinary No. 1 and No. 2 hard were quoted at 1¾@2½c over the same future in that market.

World's carryover of wheat at the end of the 1931-'32 season is estimated by the department of agriculture at 659,000,000 bu, compared with 569,000,000 bu on the same basis last year. Stocks of old grain in Europe, with the exception of Russia and the Danube, are regarded as small. The trade paid no attention to reports that the farm board would probably sell 15,000,000 bu cash wheat to China over the holidays. Should this trade be made it would indicate the farm board has disposed of around 75,000,000 bu of its holdings recently, including 35,000,000 bu sold to exporters sometime ago, and 25,000,000 bu to Brazil in exchange for coffee.

Corn Market Firm.

Corn prices held within a range of ⅜@⅝c. There was no material pressure on the market and sufficient short covering and local and commission house buying developed to make the close ⅛@½c higher, with September finishing at 44⅝ to 44¾c; December 39⅝ to 39½c, and May 43⅞ to 44c. There was an active shipping demand for cash corn, with sales of 215,000 bu, making 645,000 bu sold in the last two days, and 1,050,000 bu so far this month. Country offerings were light.

Trade in oats was light, with the close unchanged to ⅛c lower, the latter on September, which eased toward the last and closed at 21⅛c, while December was 23 to 23⅛c, and May 25⅝c. Rye was ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, with September 33⅝c, December 36c, and May 40⅛c.

EASY TONE IN COTTON

Cotton markets were easy, with fluctuations narrow, and trade small. A feature was the scattered liquidation preparatory to the evening up for the holiday and for the coming government report, which is estimated to show around 15,500,000 bales. It is said there is a disposition on the part of growers not to press sales at present price levels and to keep the movement of the new cotton down to moderate proportions and well adjusted to trade requirements. Traders believe that eventually pressure of the surplus will have a weakening influence on prices.

It is claimed that August crop deterioration was less than normal, which in a way explains the enlarging of the crop estimates as compared with Aug. 1.

At the close futures in Chicago were unchanged to 8 points net lower and 5@10 points lower in other markets. Spots were off 10 points to 6.70c in New York, 6.40c in New Orleans, 6.55c in Galveston, and 6.45c in Houston. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The wheat market is said to be acting in line with the ideas of a large number of the traders, who say they can see nothing to depress prices to any extent, and at the same time they believe if there is any material change it will be a gradual hardening tendency. An advance in cash premiums in most wheat markets, particularly in Chicago, to 2½@4½c over September for the No. 1 and No. 2 grades and 1¾@3c for the red winters, with a hardening in all markets, is attracting attention, and is bringing in a little buying. It is considered one of the most encouraging features of late. With any improvement in the foreign demand traders are looking for a better market. A majority of traders, however, say they do not look for a radical change either way for the next few weeks.

An English authority says substitutes undoubtedly are being used in protectionist countries of Europe, where wheat sells as high as $1.40 a bu and corn pays a very nominal import duty.

LARD TRADE MIXED

Firmness in near deliveries, with a net gain of 2½c and weakness in the deferred months, with losses of 2½c, was the feature yesterday. In all, business was moderate in futures and fairly good in the cash line, particularly in bellies, with 18 carloads sold. Liverpool was 3@6d lower. Export clearances of lard were 275,500 lbs. Hog prices were easy at the close. Receipts at western points were larger than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

EGG FUTURES ADVANCE

Butter was easier at the opening on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday when combined local and eastern receipts showed little change from a year ago, and storage reports showed somewhat lighter withdrawals. Buying appeared toward the close, however, and prices finished unchanged from previous close. Eggs opened unchanged, advanced slightly on reported lighter receipts, but buying toward the close apparently attracted by prices pushed the market up ½c from the opening and the finish was at the top. Potatoes continued steady, closing unchanged to 1c lower. Storage movement in the four markets showed 342,765 lbs butter more out; eggs 3,595 cases less out than year ago. Sales—Butter, 1,286,400 lbs; eggs, 1,040,000 dozen; potatoes, 940,000 lbs. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES

Prices of hide futures on the New York Hide exchange continued to decline in an active market, closing 25 to 35 points lower. Total sales, 2,600,000 lbs.

Increased activity in sole leather operations during July is indicated by the New York Hide exchange. Hides put in process of tanning for sole leather during that month showed a gain of approximately 3 per cent over June while the deliveries of cut and uncut sole leather showed an increase of 17.2 per cent over the previous month. The deliveries during July exceeded calculated production during the same month by 105,000 hides.

Deliveries for the first seven months of this year were 2.8 per cent below the corresponding period in 1930, while hides put into the process of tanning during the same period were 27.2 per cent below the corresponding period in 1930. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A steadier tone developed in raw sugar today and although buyers were showing more interest, offerings were light, the only sale reported being 49,500 bags of Porto Rican for September shipment to an outport refiner at 3.38c, a point above the last previous sale.
